WRIGHT RECORD GOES IN 83-MILE FLIGHT

Paulhan in 2 Hours 53 Minutes 24 Seconds Circles Rheims Course 13 Times.

KEEPS ON IN HEAVY STORM

Comes Down Only When Fuel Gives Out—Curtiss Fails to Beat Blériot's Latest Speed Record.

BETHENY AVIATION FIELD, Rheims, Aug. 25.—Another sensational exploit was added to the achievements of aviation week to-day when Paulhan, the plucky French aviator, broke the world's record in a wonderful flight of about eighty-three miles accomplished in 2 hours 53 minutes and 24 seconds. The performance was the more remarkable because during twenty minutes of the time Paulhan had to contend with a heavy rain and wind storm. The previous official record for time in the air was made by Wilbur Wright at Le Mans on Dec. 31, 2 hours 20 minutes 23 1-5 seconds, while the unofficial record was 2 hours 27 minutes 15 seconds, made by Roger Sommer at Mourmelon-le-Grand on Aug. 7. Wright's record for distance was 73 miles.

Paulhan made thirteen circuits of the course here, ten kilometers or six and one-fifth miles around, and the wind squall passed as he was coming down the home stretch for the last time. Simultaneously the dirigible, Col. Renard, appeared to the westward, plowing its way majestically through the smoke of the City of Rheims.

When Paulhan finally came down it was because the fifty-six liters of fuel which he carried in his tank were exhausted. He said immediately after he landed that both the machine and the revolving self-cooling Gnome motor had stood up perfectly, and that he could have continued indefinitely if the tank had been replenished. No one who saw Paulhan's impressive flight now entertains the slightest doubt that aerial navigation with heavier-than-air machines has a glorious future.

Paulhan's Great Flight.

Starting in a twelve-knot breeze shortly before 4 o'clock, with the avowed intention of completing the fifty kilometers before 5 o'clock, in order to bar his less venturesome rivals for the Prix de la Champagne, who desired to await calmer air, Paulhan, having accomplished his original purpose, continued to circle the vast plain until his tank was literally empty. Though he has been called "the high soaring" this time at first he flew low. He finished his first lap in 12 minutes and 15 seconds. After six rounds his time was 1 hour 12 minutes and 55 seconds; at the end of the eighth lap it was 1 hour 37 minutes and 58 seconds. At the end of the ninth he had been in the air 1 hour 50 minutes and 37 seconds.

At the beginning of the eleventh Paulhan battled against an adverse wind. His machine was rocking dangerously as he turned the post and crossed the line amid a tremendous outburst of enthusiasm. When the airship caught the wind abeam in this round it pitched and tossed like a ship at sea. On the back stretch the rapidly rising wind was blowing at eighteen miles an hour, and the machine, with the wind behind it, fairly hurtled along.

The excitement grew as Paulhan swung into the twelfth round, which he finished 2 hours 16 minutes and 45 seconds after the start. The wind subsided slightly as he finished this round, but it rose again and was blowing at twenty miles an hour soon after the thirteenth lap began.

Fights Storm for Ten Minutes.

When the shower, accompanied by a high wind, suddenly broke, the pilot did not falter. He battled in the teeth of the rain and wind for ten minutes up one length of the course, and the thrilled spectators watched the struggle against the elements in spellbound admiration. When he succeeded in rounding the turn, the excitement and enthusiasm rose to such a pitch that the ecrowd broke into a frenzied roar.

Fortunately the storm was of brief duration. As the time approached when it was evident that he would beat the Wright record, the excitement was intense and the crowds rushed out of the tribunes each time he passed, cheering and shouting words of encouragement. At one moment there was an enchanting picture, as the aeroplane floated in the limpid blue beneath a beautiful rainbow, while the approaching dirigible, Col. Renard, was silhouetted against the black clouds banked up on the horizon.

Americans were not less enthusiastic than the French themselves. Sommer, Le Blanc, Latham, Rougier, Tissandier, Blériot, Gobron, and Bunau-Varilla, all made flights, while Paulhan swung around and around the course, but as their airships wheeled and circled about in the gathering dusk they were almost forgotten in the intensity of interest in the great flight of their rival.

When finally Paulhan descended near the back turn, it was anounced that the committee had granted him permission to replenish his tank on the field to permit his return with his own power. Everybody decided to await his apearance, and it is doubtful if one hundred persons left the tribunes, despite the lateness of the hour. While they waited, Glenn H. Curtiss, the American aviator, got out his machine for an effort to beat Blériot's time of yesterday. Curtiss made a fast round, lowering his own time for the six and one-fifth miles to 8 minutes 11 3-5 seconds, only 7 1-5 seconds behind that of Blériot.

Rush to Greet Paulhan.

It was dark when a great cheer arose as Paulhan appeared out of the blackness of night and descended gracefully in front of the tribunes. The fence was torn down in the rush to reach him, and he was borne on the shoulders of some of the most enthusiastic among the spectators, the crowd escorting him to the box of the Marquis De Polignac, President of the Committee on Aviation, to receive congratulations and have his health drunk in champagne.

In the midst of the mad enthusiasm Paulhan's eye rested on a face in the crowd below. Instantly he stretched out his arm and, turning, broke his way through the throng in the tribune, a moment later throwing himself into the arms of his wife. His mother and father also were there to embrace him and weep, and finally to carry him off in triumph.

Paulhan is not an inventor but simply an operator, who to-night has taken rank as the world's greatest professional. The belief is unanimous that he won the Prix de la Champagne to-day, although the managers of the Wright machine intimate that they will have a try for it tomorrow. The final day for this event is Friday.

Lefebvre, with a ninety-liter tank, went out this afternoon in an attempt for the prize, but the tank developed a leak, and Lefebvre was forced to descend before he had gone 300 yards.

Experts are greatly impressed with the exhibition of stability and regularity of Paulhan's machine. They are now divided into two camps on the question of the superiority of the Wright model. The

NEW RULE FOR CANAL ZONE.

Commission Likely to be Dropped—Roosevelt Rumor Revived.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 25.—Many reports as to changes in the administration of the Canal Zone and the work on the canal itself have reached Washington recently, accompanied by arguments in favor of some other form of government. The latest is a revival of the old prediction that on his return from Africa Theodore Roosevelt will take control of the zone as general Director.

Col. Roosevelt's part in the future of the canal is not considered seriously by officials connected with the canal work in Washington, but there is a serious likelihood of speedy changes in the zone's administration and the substitution of a Governor, Director, and Chief Engineer, directly under the President, for the Isthmian Canal Commission now in control. The recent report that Governor Blackburn intended to resign has renewed interest in the subject, and it was admitted in high quarters to-day that there is a possibility, if not a probability, of the commission being supplanted by act of Congress next winter.

There are pending two bills looking to the establishment of a zone administration more directly responsible to the President. The bills are identical, one being introduced in the House by Representative Mann of Illinois, Chairman of the Inter-State Commerce Committee, and the other at the same time in the Senate by Mr. Crawford. These bills provide the officers already mentioned, with the further authorization that any two of the positions, at the President's discretion, may be held by the same person.

Should the measure pass—and Mr. Mann's bill has already gone through two readings in the House—it is considered certain that the offices of Director and Chief Engineer would be merged in a single man. Mr. Mann's position as a close personal friend of the Speaker, as well as an influential member of the House, speaks favorably for the chances of his measure in the lower House, while there is a feeling among officials connected with the canal that even in the Senate it will have a reasnoable hope of passage.

MRS. MORRIS GIVES $250,000.

To Found Morris Memorial Institute of Medical Research in Chicago.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Aug. 25.—Chicago is to have an institution for medical research similar to that founded in New York by John D. Rockefeller. The new institution is the gift of Mrs. Nelson Morris, widow of the meat packer, and $250,000, which is needed for the erection and furnishing of the hospital, has been given by her as a memorial to her husband. The institution will be known as the Nelson Morris Memorial Institute of Medical Research, and will be connected with the Michael Reese Hospital.

"It is the greatest individual gift that has been made, coming, as it does, in addition to our own hospital equipment and as a climax to the research we have been doing for years," said Dr. John Hornsby, Superintendent of the Michael Reese Hospital, to-day. "The new institution is for work along the same lines of research being made at the Rockefeller Institute. The Morris Institution, however, will have the added value of being run in connection with a hospital.

"The eastern scientists have only animals on which to work. Here we will have the human beings for whom the serum or vaccine, or whatever the discovery is being perfected close at hand."

The building will be constructed according to the ideas of Dr. James W. Jobling, Chief Pathologist of the Michael Reese Hospital, and until recently Pathologist at the Rockefeller Institute. Dr. Jobling, who will direct the scientific work of the new institute, recently was directed by the board of the hospital to begin the making of the meningitis serum for which there is such a widespread need, and a fund was appropriated for this purpose. Because of this Mrs. Morris's gift comes at a particularly opportune time.

EQUAL SUFFRAGE OR BLOOD.

Mrs. Goldzier of Bayonne Counsels Women to Arm and March on Trenton.

Mrs. Julia Goldzier of Bayonne, N. J., who has asked the City Council of that city to appoint women on the police force, said yesterday that the suffragettes in this country should arm themselves and vote even if they had to do it with loaded rifles or at the point of the bayonets.

"No great cause was ever won without bloodshed," said Mrs. Goldzier. "If the Legislature will not grant us the right to vote the women should arm themselves, march to the Capitol at Trenton, and surround the building when the lawmakers are in executive session, and then give them the alternative of granting us the right of suffrage or being shot down.

"I guess they would choose the easier course then. If not, let them suffer the consequences, and the world would see then that we really meant business."

Asked for the details of this militant movement, Mrs. Goldzier said she herself was ready and willing to lead a company in the onslaught.

A RECORD TORPEDO SHOT.

Submarine Cuttlefish Hit the Vermont at 3,800 Yards.

Special to The New York Times.

NEWPORT, R. I., Aug. 25.—At the torpedo station a Whitehead torpedo is being repaired which was turned in by the submarine Cuttlefish, with the warhead flattened out badly as a result of the attack the submarine made with other submarines on the Atlantic fleet while manoeuvres were being held between submarines and battleships off Provincetown earlier in the month.

The Cuttlefish selected the Vermont for an attack, and when opportunity presented itself, the Whitehead torpedo was fired at a distance of 3,800 yards, hitting the Vermont amidship and flattening the warhead badly. The shot was one of the best ever fired by a submarine and one of the longest on record.

The Atlantic submarine fleet, consisting of the Viper, Octopus, Tarantula, and Cuttlefish, with the parent ship Castine, will go up Narragansett Bay in September to establish headquarters at the naval coaling station and remain for two weeks of torpedo practice.

Afterward the submarines go to the New York Navy Yard, later take part in the Hudson-Fulton celebration, and then return to the navy yard for a month's overhauling.

DR. O. L. JONES DAZED; HIS HOME BURNED

TAKEN HOME; FIRE STARTED

House Had 100 Rooms and Pillars of Hand-Hewn Timbers—Doctor's Son in a Sanitarium.

Special to The New York Times.

COLD SPRING HARBOR, L. I., Aug. 25.—The Summer home of Dr. and Mrs. Oliver Livingston Jones of 116 West Seventy-second Street, Manhattan, was burned to-day. The loss has been variously estimated at from $100,000 to $125,000. Not a little of the furnishings of the house was saved after it became apparent that the building itself was doomed.

The house, which is said to have been the largest private residence on Long Island, was built about fifty-nine years ago by Charles H. Jones, and contained over 100 rooms. The timbers used in its three stories were hand-hewn of oak, and they stood towering toward the sky hours after the flames had sent the floors crashing to the ground. The fire was the second affliction of the Jones family within a dozen hours.

Yesterday morning Dr. Jones, who is a very wealthy man, owning real estate in nearly every State in the Union, wandered from his home. He had been greatly worried over the condition of his son, Oliver L. Jones, Jr., who has been confined in a sanitarium for some little time. The condition of Dr. Jones became so serious, owing to his mental anxiety, that his physician, Dr. J. H. Shawe of Huntington, assigned a nurse and a personal attendant to care for him. The doctor, who, by the way, has never practiced, eluded both of these yesterday and wandered off.

Mrs. Jones sent inquiries by telephone to all the countryside for her husband. She finally telephoned to Albert Cheshire of Syosset, a personal friend of Dr. Jones, asking him to organize a searching party. Mr. Cheshire started out in his automobile, accompanied by his sons, George, Samuel, and Leslie Cheshire, and Clarence Van Sise. They ran hurriedly about the Syosset section, peering carefully into the lane of light made by their automobile lamps, and finally found Dr. Jones, wandering some distance from his home.

"How are you, Doctor, climb in, and I'll give you a lift home," said Mr. Cheshire, carefully avoiding any allusion to the doctor's supposed temporary aberration.

Dr. Jones climbed into the automobile in a dazed condition, shook hands mechanically, and settled back into the seat assigned him. He was taken to his home, where, it is understood, he made no explanation of his wanderings. He did not appear to know exactly where he had been, it is said.

While the family was exercised concerning the safety of Dr. Jones, Samuel Jones, one of his sons, fearing his father might not be able to find his way home through the darkness, lighted a kerosene lamp and placed it in a window in the cupola of the house. Dr. Jones was brought home by Mr. Cheshire and his party between 10 and 11 o'clock. At midnight Samuel Jones, it is asserted, extinguished the lamp and locked the door of the cupola room, retiring for the night.

Owing to the lateness of the hour when the family retired, the household did not rise until after the customary hour this morning. They had just finished breakfast, about 9 o'clock, when fire was discovered in the cupola room. That was nine hours after the lamp had been extinguished, and the room had been locked.

The household is a large one, with many servants, and, as soon as the fire was discovered, telephone messages were sent for Dr. J. H. Shawe, Dr. G. H. Carter, and Dr. W. B. Gibson of Huntington. An automobile was ordered from the Jones garage to hurry to Huntington to assist in dragging the fire-fighting apparatus of that place to the scene. On the return trip the car burst all four tires and finally ran into a tree just as the Jones estate was reached.

Chief Albert V. Sammis of the Huntington Fire Department called for three volunteers to follow him into the first story with a line of hose. A dozen sprang forward, and he selected the most active men and entered the building, which was a seething mass of flame above him.

"Come out! Come out!" yelled the other firemen and hundreds in the crowd, all of whom could see that the second and third stories would fall through to the ground in another instant. But Chief Sammis either did not hear or could not understand the danger.

"Drag 'em out, boys," said the Assistant Chief.

A hundred hands caught hold of the hose and pulled it and the four men who were clinging to the nozzle, through the doorway. As they were leaving the building the floors crashed down, all but burying them.

Throughout the day and this evening Dr. Jones has been in a continual dazed condition. Mrs. Jones also is said to require constant attention from the family physician. The family are being cared for at the home of a neighbor.

JUST ESCAPE PROJECTILE.

Coast Artillery Gunners Send It Into Steamer's Fireroom.

Special to The New York Times.

NEWPORT, R. I., Aug. 25.—Sub-calibre gun practice by the 130th Coast Artillery Company at Fort Wetherell, where it was firing at moving targets well out to sea, came near causing serious consequences yesterday to the engineer and fireman of the Quartermasters' steamer General Richard Arnold, which was towing targets.

One of the sub-calibre cartridges of steel, weighing three pounds, crashed through the window of the engineroom and deck, struck a piece of steel or iron machinery and took a downward course into the fireroom without injuring the men on duty, but they both suffered narrow escapes.

AGED WOMAN KILLED BY A SUBWAY TRAIN

Guard Gave Signal to Start Train as Mrs. Shanley and Her Daughter Were Alighting.

DRAGGED ALONG PLATFORM

Mrs. Shanley's Leg Was Crushed, and She Died at the Hospital—Daughter Painfully Bruised.

Mrs. Abigail Shanley, the eighty-year-old widow of Bernard Shanley, formerly a jeweler in this city, was mortally injured on a Subway train early last evening. One of the seven guards on an eight-car train gave the signal for starting before Mrs. Shanley had alighted at the 168th Street station, and Mrs. Shanley's right leg was caught between the moving car and the edge of the platform. She was dragged for thirty feet or more and was picked up unconscious.

Acting Supt. Hayes of the Interborough confirmed the police version of the accident last night and said that an investigation had been started already to discover the guard responsible for Mrs. Shanley's death. Of the seven guards, one is practically eliminated from suspicion, as he stood upon the platform from which Mrs. Shanley was alighting and could see that she had not got clear of the car. The woman was in the next car to the last, however, so that between her and the motorman were six guards, any one of whom could have given the signal which those further forward in the train would have transmitted.

Mrs. Shanley was accompanied by her daughter, Miss Alice Shanley, 48 years old, and her granddaughter, Mrs. Charles Harlin of 514 West 160th Street. Mrs. Shanley and her daughter lived with Mrs. Shanley's son, Francis G. Shanley, in an apartment at 569 West 173d Street.

The three women started early yesterday to visit a sister of Mrs. Shanley, Mrs. William Cummings of Hastings, and took the trolley and returned by Subway.

As they rose to get off at the 168th Street Station, Miss Shanley stepped beside her mother, taking her arm to assist her. Both women stepped from the train together. Each had one foot on the platform of the station, not yet having stepped entirely off the train when the signal to start was given. The older woman and her daughter were both thrown from their feet, Miss Shanley falling upon her face and shoulder, well out on the platform, and clear of the train. Mrs. Shanley fell also, but her right leg caught in the opening between the train and platform.

The shock of her fall had stunned Miss Shanley, but Mrs. Shanley screamed as she fell, and Mrs. Harlin, who was still within the car vestibule, also cried out. The train was well filled with passengers, and the continued shrieks of the two women nearly threw them into a panic. Men lost their heads for the moment, and the train had gathered considerable momentum, pulling Mrs. Shanley along in its course, before some one thought to pull the emergency brake rope.

The train halted with a jerk when this brake was applied, and stationmen and passengers ran to Mrs. Shanley's side. Her injuries and the shock to her nervous system had made the aged woman unconscious, and she did not revive even when she was pulled and hauled in an effort to extricate her.

Policeman Williams of the West 152d Street Station summoned Dr. Jacobs and Dr. Linetsky from the Washington Heights Hospital. The surgeons managed to revive Miss Shanley, but Mrs. Shanley remained unconscious. Both she and her daughter were taken to the hospital. There Mrs. Shanley died without recovering consciousness at 7:30 o'clock. Miss Shanley was found to be badly bruised and suffering from shock. She will recover, however. The police made no arrests.

ASKS MOTHER NOT TO TESTIFY

Crabtree, on Trial for Murder, Shouts to Her When She Takes Stand.

Special to The New York Times.

FORT CROOK, Neb., Aug. 25.—Frantically beseeching his mother to keep quiet and not testify further, Corporal Lysle B. Crabtree, who is being tried before a court-martial here for the murder of Capt. Raymond at Fort Des Moines in June, created such a scene that he was threatened with the gag and irons. Only after he had been removed to the far end of the room, where he was held in his chair by two soldiers, did the prisoner become silent.

Crabtree is from Tyrone, Penn., and his mother and brothers came to give evidence as to his sanity. The mother was in the witness chair, giving evidence, when Crabtree suddenly leaped to his feet, threw off the hands of the guard who seized him, and cried:

"Keep quiet, mother. For God's sake, keep quiet! Don't say anything more. You have talked too much already."

The prisoner was finally quieted. Another outburst occurred a few minutes later, when he again interrupted the court, shouting:

"Don't answer that question. Go home. They will ruin you all. This trial is a farce."

Finally his outbreaks became so frequent that the court could not proceed. Col. Gardner, President of the court, went to him. When told that he was to be gagged Crabtree promised to keep quiet, and did so for the remainder of the day.

The defense finished its case this afternoon, and rebuttal will begin Thursday.

THEODORE D. IRWIN DIVORCED.

Wife Charged Him with Desertion—Were Married Here.

Special to The New York Times.

COLORADO SPRINGS, Col., Aug. 25.—Mrs. Marion Parsons Irwin to-day obtained a divorce from her husband, Theodore Dudley Irwin, on the ground of desertion. The Irwins were married in New York City six years ago. They came to Colorado Springs soon afterward and had lived here ever since.

No defense was made.

HARRIMAN GAINS STRENGTH AT HOME

GETS NEWS FROM WALL ST.

Dictates Letters and Answers Telegrams—Railroad Shares Sag at Market Opening, but Recover.

Special to The New York Times.

ARDEN, N. Y., Aug. 25.—E. H. Harriman is much stronger to-night than he was last night. When 9 o'clock came he did not feel like retiring.

"I am not the least bit tired;" he told his physician, Dr. W. G. Lyle, "and I feel just like sitting here and enjoying the invigorating breeze and this beautiful moonlight."

Dr. Lyle did not urge Mr. Harriman to retire, but told him not to risk any effort to keep up. He advised his going to his room whenever he felt weary. It was nearly 10 o'clock when Mr. Harriman bade good-night to the members of his family on the porch and retired to his room.

There has been a good breeze blowing over the mountain all day, and although the sun was hot, the air on the Harriman estate on Tower Hill was refreshing. The mountain top is clothed in heavy pine trees, and the odor of the balsam can be plainly detected from the porch of the residence.

"I enjoyed the best night's rest I have had in many weeks," Mr. Harriman told Judge Lovett and Dr. Lyle, when he came downstairs this morning about 8:30. "I feel much stronger, and I believe I am hungry."

They all entered the dining room, and Mr. Harriman ate poached eggs and toast with a relish.

On the veranda after breakfast, Mr. Harriman said: "This air makes one feel good. I can't help getting strong rapidly up here."

During the morning, Mr. Harriman asked his secretary how things were moving at No. 120 Broadway, the offices of the Union Pacific, and was told what had been transmitted from the New York office to the Arden Mansion. Mr. Harriman spent an hour or more in the library of his home, where his office work is being done. He dictated a number of letters, answering some telegrams in person, and received information regarding the market. However, Dr. Lyle advises the financier to keep his mind off the market for a few days.

"What Mr. Harriman needs most is absolute rest," said Dr. Lyle to a TIMES representative early this evening. "Of course his attention to some little business can't do him any great harm, but his improvement will be all the more rapid if he will consent to leave it alone for a few days. I think Mr. Harriman is very much stronger to-day."

The drop in the market was not encouraging news to Mr. Harriman, but he felt that conditions there would change to normal again in a day or two.

At 1 o'clock Mr. Harriman partook of a hearty luncheon, and a little later in the afternoon, at the suggestion of his physician, he took an hour's rest on the couch in his room. The rest of the afternoon he spent with his family out in the grounds. All the members of the family were gathered in one of the Summer houses, but Mr. Harriman did not sit still long. He rambled about the terraces, and gazed long at the beautiful sight to the southeast, which covers the lower mountains and Cranberry Lake. The financier drinks a great deal of water. The house is supplied with water from a spring back in the mountains, and it has numerous mineral qualities which he seems to enjoy.

Mr. Harriman had a talk with his General Superintendent of the estate, C. F. Ford, during the afternoon. Carpenters and masons were at work in an unfinished wing of the house, and Mr. Ford asked the railroad man if the noise affected him.

"Not in the least," replied Mr. Harriman. "I rather like to hear it."

He was pleased to see things looking so well about his $2,000,000 Summer home, and praised Mr. Ford for having made such excellent progress.

He walked over to the incline railroad, which connects the summit of the mountain with the base, and watched and talked with the workmen.

Judge R. S. Lovett, general counsel for the Union and Southern Pacific Railroads, looked after a great deal of Mr. Harriman's business to-day, and left Arden to-night for New York. He will return Friday.

The stock market declined sharply yesterday as much because of the failure of the Harriman interview to confirm rumors on which the market had been held up recently as of apprehension for his health. The opening was weak with the Harriman lines, New York Central and Reading showing declines of a point or more. The first sale of Union Pacific was as it came over the tape, 6,500 shares at 208, 207⅝, which compared with the closing price of 209⅝. The first sale of Southern Pacific was 1½ points down, and the general list showed marked weakness. The recessions continued with momentary rallies under heavy but quiet trading until about noon. Union Pacific had dropped more than 5 points from the previous night's close, Southern Pacific 3 points, New York Central 3½, Reading 3¼, St. Paul 2⅜, and United States Steel common and Erie common 2 points each. Late in the afternoon support began to make itself felt, backed up by profit-taking buying on the part of the bears. The rally brought Union Pacific, New York Central, Reading and others of the heaviest of the losers back 2 points, 2¼, and 1½, respectively, above the lowest, and many of the other issues recovered all but a fraction of their losses.

Killed 14,866 Seals This Year.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 25.—A dispatch was received at the Department of Commerce and Labor to-day from the North American Commercial Company of San Francisco, which has the Pribiloff Islands' sealing lease. It says that the company's catch for the past season amounted to 14,366 skins, within 634 of the full quota allowed under their contract with the Government.

KRUTTSCHNITT SILENT

On Question of Succeeding Harriman—Talks of Lines' Big Business.

Special to The New York Times.

OMAHA, Neb., Aug. 25.—Julius Kruttschnitt, Director of Maintenance and Ways of the Harriman lines and E. H. Harriman's right hand man, refuses either to deny or affirm the report that he will succeed Mr. Harriman as head of the railroad lines.

"That's a subject on which I will not say one word," declared Kruttschnitt to-day. "I'll talk on any subject except upon that of Mr. Harriman, his health and things which concern him alone.

"The Harriman railroads are right now doing a bigger business than they were doing before the panic, or, in fact, than they have ever done before. And the grain traffic of the West is just beginning. But because of our improvements we are handling the immense business without an effort, and there are no complaints."

Mr. Kruttschnitt then pointed out that more than 1,600 miles of road are in course of construction, 500 miles of which are in Mexico. The remaining 1,100 miles are scattered throughout every State west of the Missouri traversed by the Harriman lines.

He said the Harriman roads had orders now placed for 5,500 freight cars, 1,500 refrigerators, 102 locomotives, and 400 steel passenger and baggage, mail and express cars.

FELL INTO 215-FOOT CHIMNEY

Fellow-Workmen See Rigger Lose His Balance and Drop to Death.

Half a dozen fellow-workmen, on the top of a 215-foot chimney being erected for the new power house of the New York Central Railroad at 144th Street and the East River, the Bronx, were horrified yesterday afternoon to see Peter Hogan, a rigger, 35 years old, suddenly lose his balance and fall backward into the chimney. Their cries attracted the attention of workmen on the ground, and they called Policeman Ryan of the Alexander Avenue Station.

Ryan entered the chimney through a hole in the bottom, where the boilers will be affixed eventually, and found Hogan unconscious, and crushed and bleeding. Dr. Mooney of the Lincoln Hospital found Hogan was dead when he arrived.

Hogan was married and had three children. He lived at 508 Robbins Avenue, the Bronx.

PITTSBURG FUGITIVE DYING.

Iron Man Indicted in Graft Developments Has Paralysis in France.

PITTSBURG, Aug. 25.—A cablegram received here this afternoon says that Dallas C. Byers, a wealthy iron manufacturer, wanted here in connection with councilmanic graft exposures several months ago, is dying at Dinard, France. He had a paralytic stroke last Sunday.

During the alleged councilmanic irregularities Mr. Byers was mentioned as being involved in a franchise vacating a city street. Soon after an indictment was returned against him, he left for Europe.

SERMONS ON BALL FIELDS.

Chicago Minister Advocates Opening Sunday Games with Prayer.

CHICAGO, Aug. 25.—A sermon would be a fitting opening to each major league baseball game played on Sunday, according to Bruce Barton, son of the Rev. W. E. Barton, pastor of the First Congregational Church, Oak Park. He declared last night that although he did not favor Sunday baseball, he thought the plan feasible.

Barton said he had mentioned the matter to some of the prominent ministers of Chicago, and also has set the facts before persons connected with the management of major league teams, and that in all instances his suggestion had been approved. Barton says that the matter has been approved by both President Charles Murphy of the Chicago Nationals and Charles Ebbets of Brooklyn.

BOY DROWNS IN RESERVOIR.

Eleven-Year-Old Had Just Come Home from Vacation Trip.

Charles Kaiser, 11 years old, the son of Peter Kaiser, a retired cigar manufacturer, of 217 Ten Eyck Street, Williamsburg, returned yesterday afternoon at 3 o'clock from a four weeks' vacation at Kiamesha Lake, Sullivan County, N. Y. After kissing his parents and telling them what a good time he had had, he asked permission to go into the street and play. An hour later the boy was brought home dead, having been drowned in a private reservoir of the Waterbury Cable Company, at Waterbury and Meadow Streets.

The boy's body was found at the bottom of the reservoir by Battalion Fire Chief Henry Wackermann, who dived a number of times into the water when the drowned boy's companions told them he had fallen overboard.

MONEY A-PLENTY IN WEST.

Treasury Declares There Will Be Enough to Move the Crops.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 25.—Western banks and those of the interior generally are overflowing with money. They can get along with little aid from Eastern banks. This is the view of Mr. Norton, Acting Secretary of the Treasury, who has just returned from Beverly, where he had a conference with the President.

Any talk indicating that the banks are pressed for money with which to move the crops seems to be discounted by this view. The banks of the South are included by Mr. Norton when he described those of the country generally as being in excellent condition.

At the office of the Controller of the Currency it is said that no better evidence of the prosperous condition of the country can be found than the banks. They point out that not for two months has there been a failure of a National bank. The failure of one then was due to embezzlement of officials. It was a small institution in Michigan. No fear of hard times seems to assail the banks, as was the case about two years ago.

$150,000 Fire at Buttersville, Mich.

LUDINGTON, Mich., Aug. 25.—The Butters' Salt and Lumber Company plant at Buttersville, across the river from Ludington, was burned to-day. The property destroyed included the saw mill, shingle mill, salt block, 4,000,000 feet of lumber, the docks, and large quantities of salt and shingles. The loss is estimated at about $150,000.

VANDERBILT YARN AGITATES THE TOWN

False Report That A. G. Vanderbilt Was Shot Startles Police and the Coroner.

ASLEEP AT THE PLAZA

Coroner Hurries to Bellevue to Take Ante-Mortem Statement Only to Find He Was Hoaxed.

Some one called up the Coroner's Office shortly before midnight last night and, saying that it was Bellevue Hospital talking, announced that Alfred G. Vanderbilt had been brought into the hospital in a dying condition, having been shot in the Grand Union Hotel.

The Coroner's Office notified Police Headquarters and before it had been ascertained that the alleged death of Mr. Vanderbilt was very evidently a hoax perpetrated upon the Coroner's Office the whole machinery of news dissemination at Headquarters had been set in motion.

Into the various newspaper offices came telegraphic flashes announcing the news of Mr. Vanderbilt's death.

"Alfred G. Vanderbilt was shot to-night at the Grand Union Hotel," shouted the Night City Editor, reading the dispatch from the local bureau of the Associated Press, which was the first to reach the office.

He sprang out of his chair, shouting the news over the office, and pointing to one man, called:

"Get over to the Grand Union Hotel. Quick. Alfred Vanderbilt's been shot there."

A man was out of the office and half way down to the lower floor almost before he finished speaking. Then, with a telephone to his ear listening for the report from Police Headquarters, the editor yelled for another man, and sent him off post haste for Bellevue Hospital, for by this time a second bulletin had reached the office stating that Mr. Vanderbilt had been taken to the hospital, and that Coroner Shrady was on his way there to take an ante-mortem statement.

The second man on his way, a third was sent off to the East Fifty-fifth Street Station, the Grand Union Hotel being in that precinct, to gather there such news as he could of the shooting. Hardly had he left the office, when a fourth man had started in a taxicab for the Plaza Hotel to learn what was known at the hotel, where Mr. Vanderbilt is stopping.

Meanwhile two men had sorted clippings referring to Mr. Vanderbilt, which had been printed in the past, and already a column or more of facts concerning him was in type, awaiting the story of his shooting and perhaps death.

In the office, then, there remained nothing more to be done except to wait, the hardest task of all.

The jangling of telephone bells became an unending ring, as the man at Police Headquarters called up to tell of the supposed shooting. Over the telegraph wires came other dispatches from the news agency, each telling and retelling what had been told before, but adding no new facts to what was known.

Then the telephone bell on the editor's private instrument jangled. Ordinarily some one else answers it. This time the editor had the instrument in his hand and his ear at the receiver before any one else could reach it.

He hung breathless on the words coming from the other end, and then suddenly shouted:

"I don't care. Don't bother me with it."

Then he slammed up the receiver. A man on the other end had what he thought was a good story. It may have been.

But presently there came a genuine call. It was from the man who had gone to the Grand Union Hotel.

"Say, Boss," came the voice over the wire, "they say over here that it's a mistake. Nobody's shot."

"You stick! Don't let 'em fool you!" shouted the editor, in reply. Then he grabbed the 'phone again.

"Give me the Grand Union!" he shouted to the operator, emphasizing the "me."

Presently he got it. And he learned, too, that there had been no unusual happening in the hotel.

But instead of relieving the tension, the repeated denials merely added to its intensity.

The telephone jangled again. It was the man at Bellevue Hospital.

"Hey, there's nobody here that knows anything about that shooting," was his report. The editor himself began by this time to believe it. The office quieted down perceptibly. But then came another flash from the news agency.

"Mr. Vanderbilt's at the New York Club," was its purport.

Instantly a man was started for the club, with orders to grab the first taxi and telephone when he got there. Presently he did telephone to say that Mr. Vanderbilt was not a member of the club and that there was no Mr. Vanderbilt stopping there.

Then the Plaza answered on the telephone.

"Surely Mr. Vanderbilt's here," was the message. "Your man is on his way to his room now."

Next came the second report from the man at the Grand Union.

"Capt. Carey of the East Thirty-fifth Street Police Station has been over here," he said, "and he's put the clerk through such a course of questions that the poor chap said he wished he had a dead one there so as to stop the agony."

Already the Bellevue man was back on the 'phone.

"I just had Coroner Shrady on the wire," he reported, "and the Coroner says he hasn't left his house all night. The office told him of the shooting, saying that they got the message from Bellevue. The hospital denied it to the Coroner over the telephone, and he had Capt. Carey send a man to the Grand Union. He reported that it must be a fake."

He had scarcely hung up the receiver when he rang in again.

"A cab with two men and three others in an automobile just dashed in the yard here," he said. "All hands jumped out and rushed into the office, saying they were friends of Mr. Vanderbilt and must see him. I'm glad we ain't the only ones running to-night."

All hands were fairly satisfied that the affair was a hoax and presently another piece of the news agency's stuff practically verified it besides showing that the joker apparently was still at work.

The report stated that Mr. Vanderbilt, "or a man who said he was Mr. Vanderbilt," called up the Coroner's office about 12:40 o'clock this morning and said:

"'I hear I'm shot.'

"The night clerk, Samuel Owens, admitted that such was the report, and said the story was already regarded as a fake, and that Coroner Shrady was trying to find out who sent the report to the Coroner's office.

"Mr. Vanderbilt seemed to regard the whole thing as a joke."

Here is the experience of the reporter who went to the New York Club:

"You rush over to the New York Club, 20 West Fortieth Street, and see if Vanderbilt is there," shouted the City Editor to me. I rushed. Arriving there some one minute and twenty-nine seconds later, I was met by the hall porter, who evidently knew my mission.

"We have no such member as Vanderbilt," said he, anticipating my question, "neither has any one called up the Coroner's office from here to-night."

"I thought as much," was my reply.

"Well, you are not the only one, for Police Headquarters and all the newspapers have called us in the last ten minutes on the telephone. Good night. I hear some one laughing."

The reporter who went to the Grand Union Hotel brought in this story:

When I reached the Grand Union policemen and reporters were so thick around the desk that a few timid guests who wanted rooms for the night couldn't get within six feet of the register. The night clerk tried to answer the questions of policemen and reporters and sign up lodgers at the same time.

Probably twenty guests entered the hotel lobby for the purpose of engaging rooms, while the reporters and police were firing questions at the night clerk. The guests only began to get an inkling that there had been some trouble after rooms had been assigned them. A small, flushed elderly man, who wore a dilapidated Panama hat, left the desk with his key in obvious trepidation.

"Has there been a raid?" he asked the bell-boy, who was carrying his suitcase. The bell-boy reassured him, but he disappeared in the direction of the elevator with reluctant steps.

Then Police Captain Cray appeared. He tried very hard not to look foolish. To hide his embarrassment he leaned on the Grand Union's desk familiarly. He tried to dazzle the night clerk with his shield. But the night clerk was an exceptionally suave young man and refused to be dazzled.

"I understand there has been a shooting here—in fact, that Mr. Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt has been shot," stammered Capt. Cray.

"Where did you get your information from?" inquired the night clerk blandly.

The Captain received the night clerk's assurance that there had been no shooting in the hotel during the evening and that Mr. Vanderbilt never stayed there.

The Captain, three plain clothes men, and a Central Office Detective and about twenty reporters then sought the street.

Then the Captain departed in the direction of the East Thirty-fifth Street Station House.

Here is the report from the man sent to the Plaza:

"Go to the Plaza, and be sure to see Mr. Vanderbilt," directed the City Editor, "and don't you leave there without seeing him."

Out into Times Square I sped, and jumped into a taxicab. In the short time it takes to register 50 cents, I was in the marble patio of the Plaza.

The night clerks were wide awake. In front of them stood a crowd of reporters, as excited as women at the opening of a bargain sale. The telephones were ringing continuously.

"Where was this lemon grown?" asked one of the clerks of me.

"Grand Union Hotel," I replied.

He passed his hand across his brow and replied:

"My sainted mother, this is the limit."

The manager of the hotel at the request of the reporters then went to Mr. Vanderbilt's room and soon returned with this report:

"Mr. Vanderbilt says: 'Go away and do not disturb me again with such foolish rumors.'"

Then the reporters left.

W. H. SINGER HURT IN AUTO.

Wealthy Pittsburger Has Rib Broken When Machine Upsets.

Special to The New York Times.

WATCH HILL, R. I., Aug. 25.—In an attempt to-day to avoid a collision with a farm wagon on the State Road six miles west of Narragansett Pier an automobile containing Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Singer and their son-in-law and daughter, Dr. and Mrs. Robert Milligan of Pittsburg, was ditched. The chauffeur was thrown out and, jumping to his feet, quickly ran to the assistance of Mr. Singer, who appeared to be most hurt. Mr. Singer was partly under the car. His face had been badly cut, as had Dr. Milligan's. Mrs. Singer and her daughter were bruised and badly shaken up, but not seriously injured.

Mr. Singer, who is an elderly man, was carried to a house nearby, where it was found that he had a rib broken and was internally injured. The bruises of the victims were dressed and they were brought back to Watch Hill, where they have been spending the Summer. At the new Watch Hill House this evening, Mr. Singer was attended by Dr. John Champlin. His condition is serious.

Telegrams were at once sent to Mr. Singer's son, G. Horton Singer, who is at Bretton Woods, N. H., and to William Ross Proctor at New York. William H. Singer is a retired steel manufacturer of Pittsburg. A year ago he divided $16,600,000 as birthday presents among his four children.

FIFTH AVENUE ILLUMINATED.

A Sample of How It Will Appear on Hudson-Fulton Fete.

Some idea of what the six-mile line of parade on Saturday, Oct. 2, in connection with the Hudson-Fulton celebration, will look like was gained last night, when Fifth Avenue, from Twelfth to Fourteenth Street was ablaze with light. On either side of the street is strung, some twenty-five feet from the ground, a line of eight candle power electric lamps. There are 300 such lamps on each side of the street per block.

Not only will there be the single lines of illumination, but at every block cross arches of similar light will be strung. There will also be electric festoons of flowers hung just below the lights to supply the artistic effect.

Irish Prepare for Fulton Fete.

There will be a meeting of all the Irish societies in New York at the Corinthian Hall, Terrace Garden, in Fifty-eighth Street, this evening to make final arrangements for the Irish section of the Hudson-Fulton celebration. William Temple Emmet is Chairman of the general committee. P. J. McNulty is Vice Chairman and A. J. Lally of 165 Broadway Secretary.

NO PEONAGE PROOF FOUND AT CAR PLANT

Government Officers, However, See a Strikebreaker Beaten—Consular Attache Protests.

DEBS ADDRESSES STRIKERS

From a Staff Correspondent of THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PITTSBURG, Aug. 25.—Investigation of the charges of peonage made against the Pressed Steel Car Company, based on the assertion that strikebreakers were being kept by force in the McKees Rocks plant, was begun by the Government authorities to-day. It was conducted by United States District Attorney Gibson and H. W. Hoagland, a special agent of the Department of Justice at Washington.

After being escorted over the works the investigators and officers of the company and others assembled in one of the offices of the company. Many strikebreakers were questioned as to whether or not they were detained against their will, or whether they knew of any who were. No information upholding the charges was obtained.

Leo C. Bergzoff, head of the Service Bureau, Incorporated, of New York, who recently imported strikebreakers into Philadelphia in the street railway trouble, and who is now engaged in furnishing the necessary men to break the strike here, was present. A. E. Anderson, President of the Public Defense Association of Pittsburg, and James F. Ryder, general manager of the Compressed Steel Car Company, were also there. R. W. Dodds was counsel for the company.

Saw a Strikebreaker Beaten.

Vice Consul E. L. G. Prochenk of Austro-Hungary was not in attendance. Although he brought the charges to the attention of the Government, he explained to-day that he had no business to take any part in the inquiry. His office was represented, however, by Z. Bartus, one of the attachés, who was accepted by Special Agent Hoaglund as the Hungarian interpreter. He figured in the most sensational incident of the day.

While testimony was being taken Bartus and others observed an armed Deputy Sheriff outside beating a strikebreaker. The deputy knocked the man down and kicked him several times. Bartus, forgetting the witness on hand, rushed to the window and shouted at the deputy to let the man alone.

"That is the way you people treat your men here and yet you say all is well," shouted Bartus, to some of the Pressed Steel Car Company in the room. "That's a nice way."

"You will please attend strictly to your own business, which lies inside this office," said Mr. Dodds, representing the company. He protested against Bartus interpreting further. Agent Hoagland warned Bartus to attend strictly to interpreting, and that only.

"I shall report that matter to my Consul," said Bartus later.

It was explained for the company that the wife of this particular strikebreaker had offered a trooper $30 to release a prisoner held in the famous box car jail within the stockade.

Several strikebreakers who were examined said that they did not get enough to eat, and two or three complained that they were promised one price per day and paid another, but no one said he was detained against his will. More men will be examined to-morrow.

Rich New Yorker Working.

During the hearing a fine-looking young man in overalls pushed into the room following his examination, and begged that his name be withheld from publication. He said that if his folks in New York learned that he was a strikebreaker the fortune for which he was waiting would not materialize. Somebody said that the man was a member of one of New York's fashionable clubs.

Following the investigation, Mr. Bergoff showed the correspondent a bundle of receipts which he said were signed by the men that had left the plant during the time he has been furnishing the labor. These bore dates from Aug. 12 to the present time and Bergoff argued that they were distinctive arguments to prove that the men were not detained against their will at the plant.

Martial law still prevails in McKees Rocks and Schoenville, but there is much fighting and disputing among the strikers. Last night a continuous rifle fire was carried on from the heights across the Ohio River, centred upon the company's office near the bank of the river, where the constabulary are quartered.

Debs Addresses Strikers.

A meeting by the strikers at Indian Mound was permitted to-day. It was addressed by Eugene V. Debs. Indian Mound is a peculiarly appropriate spot for such gatherings. It is decidedly a strategic point of a battle ground. It is a flat-topped knoll that rises sheer out of Chartier Valley and overlooks both reaches of the Ohio River.

About a thousand of the strikers were present at the meeting. Debs told them that they could be the chosen of God if they just would assert themselves. He spoke of capitalists as "your masters", and told the men that instead of working for a corporation they themselves should own the plant and operate in their own interests, and that was what would be done if everybody voted the Socialist ticket.

The strikers have been listening to these arguments until they seem to be a little weary, and they sat about on the grass mostly with preoccupied expressions.

One significant remark that Debs made was that defeat in their case would actually mean a victory, and he explained that by victory he meant they would be stronger morally for the experience. As he expressed it, it was decidedly to be implied that defeat is to be expected.

There is a widespread belief here that another riot is impending. The strikers, feeling themselves beaten, are said to intend to deliver one final blow. One striker expressed the belief that the only hope for the men winning any measure of their demands would be through the intervention of the State authorities. A great outbreak would undoubtedly bring some sort of intervention.

It is reported here to-night that 400 men are on their way to Pittsburg from New York, and due to arrive to-morrow morning to be added to the company's force of workmen. Bergoff, it is said, is furnishing these men.

A curfew notice has been pasted up on the telegraph poles and other conspicuous places in McKees Rocks. It states that all children found on the streets after 9 o'clock will be promptly arrested, by order of the Police Commissioner.

SECRET FEDERAL INQUIRY.

Real Investigation Is Being Made by Unknown Government Agents.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 25.—Wade Ellis, acting Attorney General, said late to-night that no word had been received in Washington from officers investigating the alleged peonage cases in Pittsburg. So far as the Department of Justice is concerned, he said, there was nothing new in the case.

A double-barrelled investigation is being prosecuted on the ground, though the department officials have steadily refused to discuss this phase of the situation. While United States District Attorney Jordan attracts attention by conducting in the ordinary manner the obvious Governmental investigation, the real detective work will be done by agents sent out from Washington yesterday or the day before.

The department is keeping a close lookout to prevent if possible the difficulty taking an international turn on account of the fact that most of the laborers said to have been maltreated at the McKees Rocks concern are citizens of Austria-Hungary.

MORGAN'S YACHT HITS A ROCK

The Corsair, with the Banker on Board, Badly Damaged at City Island.

J. Pierpont Morgan's yacht, the Corsair, is undergoing repairs at Tietjen & Lang's drydock at the foot of Seventeenth Street, Hoboken, as the result of an accident on Tuesday afternoon while going up Long Island Sound with Mr. Morgan on board.

While proceeding up the Sound the yacht struck on a shelf of rock near City Island, and several of her plates were stove on the starboard side forward and amidships. The vessel was damaged so badly amidship that a boiler was shifted and the cabinet work in the cabin partly ruined.

The yacht was taken to Hoboken, Mr. Morgan remaining on board, and docked at the Seventeenth Street drydock. After her plates have been repaired and seams tightened she will be taken to Fletcher's machine works, at the foot of Thirteenth Street, Hoboken, where the boiler will be repaired.

OPERATE FOR BROKEN BACK.

Lafferty, Hurt by Trolley Car, May Soon Use His Arms and Legs.

Joseph Lafferty, the Richmond, L. I., Street Railway employe whose back was broken by a trolley car a year ago, and who has since recovered sufficiently to be wheeled around Hempstead, L. I., laced to an air bed, in an invalid chair, may recover the use of his limbs as the result of an unusual operation which was performed on him on Tuesday at the Red Cross Hospital in this city.

Dr. George M. McCombes of Hempstead became interested in Lafferty's case, and is said to have suggested recently that Lafferty be brought down to the Red Cross Hospital for an operation. Dr. McCombes told Lafferty that he believed that an operation would at least restore to him the use of his hands if not of his legs. Lafferty readily consented to be brought here. The operation was accordingly performed on Tuesday by Dr. Irving S. Haines, Professor of Surgery at Cornell University.

At the hospital last night it was said that it seemed to have been successful and that Lafferty was doing well. Dr. Haines refused to discuss the details of the operation.

Lafferty was doing repair work under a trolley car at Hempstead a year ago when the motorman, not knowing he was there, turned on the power. The car passed over Lafferty's spine, crushing several of the vertebrae.

PATIENT ATTACKS NURSES.

Didn't Like Food Given Him and Uses a Knife on Orderly in City Hospital.

Salembono Marano, 41 years old, has been a patient in Ward "D" of the City Hospital on Blackwell's Island, for about a year. He suffers from asthma, and this has caused hi mto be put on a special diet which he does not like, and when Day Nurse Buckley brought him his noonday meal yesterday, he refused to eat it.

She told him that it was the only food which she was allowed to bring him.

Marano, umping up, struck her in the breast, knocking her down. Her screams brought Supervising Nurse Frances Morgan, and Marano attacked her also. By the time Dr. Blesser and Orderly Hart arrived, Marano was flourishing a small knife, with which he stabbed Hart in the leg.

Then he turned it on himself, gashing himself twice in the neck and once in the abdomen. Drs. Goldberg, Raymond, Elkin, Frank, and Freeman finally ran in and disarmed him. Goldberg and Elkin subsequently sewed up his and Orderly Hart's wounds and cauterized the scratches which he had inflicted on Miss Buckley. Marano is now a prisoner in the hospital.

THREE SUGGESTIVE QUESTIONS

The simplest way of considering our service is for a business executive to ask himself one or more of the following questions:

(1) What class of information in my business would I like to get that I am not getting?

(2) What problem in my business is giving me the most trouble to solve?

(3) In what department of my business are conditions or results least satisfactory?

Having answered these questions, let him give us an opportunity of discussing with him the points that are troubling him. He can very quickly decide for himself the value of our suggestions—with no cost or obligation.

WILEY MAY QUIT IF BEATEN IN DENVER

Secretary Wilson Centring Powerful Forces Against Him in Benzoate Fight.

REMSEN BOARD ARRIVES

Rumor That Committee Will Sustain Board's Attitude—Manufacturers Favor Other Chemicals, Too.

Special to The New York Times.

DENVER, Col., Aug. 25.—Dr. Harvey W. Wiley's resignation from office may be one of the results of the mighty opposition centred here against the head of the Federal Bureau of Chemistry under the personal leadership of Secretary Wilson of the Department of Agriculture. At to-night's session of the convention of the Association of State and National Food and Dairy Departments it was learned that the reactionary interests desire to use not only benzoate of soda, but other chemical preservatives which Dr. Wiley has ruled against as harmful.

Many of these manufacturers are on record as opposing the label which states the presence of chémicals in a food product. Supporters of the label claim it to be the only way of permitting the consumer to exercise his own discretion in choosing between foods made with and without chemicals. Secretary Wilson, however, already has ruled against the reactionaries on this point.

A victory for the advocates of chemicals would carry with it other restrictions, all of which, it is said, would practically end Dr. Wiley's usefulness in office. Rather than suffer such handicaps in enforcing the food law according to his interpretations it is thought probable here that he would resign, even if he were not asked to do so.

However, Dr. Wiley does not seem disconsolate, and he will not acknowledge defeat. It is very probable that his candidate, A. C. Bird of Michigan, will be elected President, but his main struggle will come Friday in preventing the convention's indorsement of the report of the referree board sanctioning the use of benzoate as a food preservative.

The contentions of the Department of Agriculture that benzoate of soda used as a preservative in thousands of food products is not harmful to health will be defended to-morrow by many chemical experts. It was reported to-night that some members of a committee appointed by President J. W. Emery, who is opposed to the use of benzoate of soda, had decided to accept Secretary Wilson's attitude.

Secretary Wilson was joined to-day by Dr. Ira Remsen of Baltimore, Dr. Russell H. Chiltenden of New Haven, Conn.; Dr. John H. Long of Evanston, Ill., and Dr. Christian H. Herter of New York City, all members of the Remsen Reference Referee Board which was created by President Roosevelt to decide on disputed points in the enforcement of the Federal pure food laws.

After the Remsen board members speak, the special committee appointed by President Emery will give its opinion of the baord's findings. It was reported to-night that some of the members of this committee would declare in favor of benzoate of soda.

A strong argument in favor of the model bill proposed by the association was presented in a paper read to-night by H. E. Barnard, Food Commissioner of Indiana and Chairman of the committee which had the drafting of the bill in charge. He said that food inspection now goes beyond the distributor and begins at the place of production.

"Such control," he said, "is only to be secured through the agency of trained Inspectors who have authority to visit all places where food is manufactured or distributed, who can go to the baker, the dairy, the slaughter house, the grocery store, and the restaurant and determine on the spot whether or not the food thence prepared and distributed is sanitary and wholesome.

"Let us take, for instance, the problem of the meat supply. In a large measure that has been solved for city dwellers by the passage and enforcement of the Federal meat inspection law, but since one-half of the meat consumed is prepared in small slaughter houses not under the supervision of Government inspection, there still remains need for a rigid control of the industry."

Dr. Barnard pleaded for sanitary handling of milk, bread, and other food products, asserting that in the scramble to have every food product chemically pure in its manufacture people were likely to lose sight of the fact that millions of disease germs would result if the most carefully prepared food before it was ingested by the ultimate consumers.

DETAILS OF GOULD DIVORCE.

Each Parent to Have Children Half the Year—Wife Retains Gould Name.

Supreme Court Justice Giegerich signed the final decree of divorce yesterday in favor of Helen Kelly Gould from Frank J. Gould, the decree following out all the provisions of the interlocutory decree obtained in May last, except that the provision giving Mrs. Gould her maiden name was eliminated.

The reason for this, it was said, was that in such a case a woman may decide for herself whether to take her maiden name or retain that of her husband. Mrs. Gould, it is said, desired to retain her husband's name.

There is no mention of alimony, and Mrs. Gould is to have the two children, Helen and Dorothy, six months in the year; the rest of the time they will be with their father. It also provides that the parent not having them in the stated term may see them at short intervals each week, and neither parent may take them more than 100 miles away without the written consent of the other.

Mrs. Gould may remarry, but Mr. Gould is not permitted to do so in this State during the lifetime of his wife.

LAMBERG SENTENCED.

Ex-Convict, Just Out of Prison, Sent Back for Two and a Half Years.

Dr. Samuel Lamberg of 403 West Eighteenth Street, who was arrested on Tuesday by Detective McCormick of the District Attorney's office on a charge of bigamy brought by Clara Hahn of 73 East Seventieth Street, his second wife, was sentenced yesterday by Judge Rosalsky in General Sessions to serve two years and six months in Sing Sing.

Lamberg had served a five-year term for forgery and was released on Aug. 15 on condition that he would not annoy his second wife or her sister. Lamberg did not keep his promise, but, instead, according to the evidence, continued to bother his wife and her sister with calls and threats to do them harm.

In 1896 he married Rose Herschfield of Newrk, and later contracted a marriage with Clara Hahn.

The bigamy was discovered when he was serving a term for forgery.

BLIND GET CITY BOUNTY.

Worthy Applicants Receive $50 Each Once a Year.

City Paymaster John H. Timmerman and his assistants were busy Tuesday and yesterday distributing to over 600 blind men and women in New York, who are not inmates of charitable institutions or recipients of charity elsewhere, the annual bounty of $50 which is allowed to each worthy applicant.

The payments for Manhattan and the Bronx were made at the Paymaster's office, 82 Chambers Street, and the Brooklyn payments were made in the Charities Department office, in Borough Hall. New York City sets aside an appropriation of $75,000 annually for financial assistance to the blind. No person can receive over $50.

EATON POISONING CHARGES.

Rear Admiral Consults Lawyer—Wife Sticks to Her Story.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, Aug. 25.—Rear Admiral Eaton to-day consulted counsel in this city relative to the proper course for him to pursue in view of Mrs. Eaton's charge that their infant son, who died last week, was poisoned. The Admiral is quoted as saying that if the analysis at the Harvard Medical School revealed traces of poison in the child's stomach he would at once lay the matter before the authorities, and make accusations of a serious character. Admiral Eaton refused at this time to name the person whom he would accuse.

"My step-daughter, June," he said, "has a highly imaginative disposition and is given to the constant perusal of the greatest mysteries in literature; in fact, such reading has been her almost daily mental food. She has affected her mother greatly by her constant flights of imagination and the daily suggestions of mysteries in the every-day incidents of our lives.

"Although I reminded my wife before she left Assinipi that the baby's body was still above ground, she refused to remain, and a few hours after her return to Scituate attended a social affair."

Mrs. Eaton, seen to-day by a reporter, repeated her charges.

"The baby was poisoned," she said. "I believed so from the outset, and that is why I was so insistent with Medical Examiner Spooner when I asked him to perform the autopsy which resulted in the infant's stomach being forwarded to Harvard medical experts for analysis.

"This is not the first chapter. A cup of tea that was brought me was accidentally tipped over before I tasted it; in the bottom there were three lozenges. My daughter found her perfumery filled with foreign liquid. She has found tooth powder tampered with. Now the baby has as suddenly died.

"We were in bathing in front of the cottage. The baby, round and rosy, was asleep in the hammock. When we came up the baby was livid. We hurried him to the doctor. He died about eight hours after."

A DISTRICT ATTORNEY'S END.

Embezzled, Bought Poison, Found Dead—Doctors Call It Heart Disease.

Special to The New York Times.

YORK, Penn., Aug. 25.—The death this morning of District Attorney W. L. Ammon has been investigated by Coroner J. E. Dehoff and Dr. Lewis S. Weaver. They deny that the dead lawyer committed suicide, and say that heart trouble caused his death. Coroner Dehoff stated that unless something additional came to life he would issue a certificate of death from valvular affection of the heart. He thinks an inquest unnecessary.

Between the hours of 9 and 10 o'clock last night Ammon purchased at the drug store of William Smith & Co., on East Market Street, a pound of cyanide of potassium. He was asked by the clerk who waited upon him for what purpose he wished it, and he stated that he proposed to experiment upon it with copper.

He followed out the legal requirements by signing his name in the book kept as a record. It is known that Ammon was an embezzler from the Standard Building and Loan Association, of which he was Secretary for more than fifteen years, of something over $40,000. An expert accountant has been examining the books of the association, but his investigation has not yet been completed. One of the attorneys interested in the case said to-day that no one can tell how much his shortage is. The Standard Building and Loan Association was organized in 1889 with a capital stock of $500,000.

Ammon was found in the upper portion of the stable in the rear of his home about 7:30 o'clock this morning, where it was presumed he had gone to attend his horse. He was found by his wife. With the assistanceof several carpenters who were working on an adjoining building he was taken into his home. Doctors were summoned, but on their arrival they found him dead.

He had been confronted with his shortage and had until to-day to make it good.

He was elected District Attorney during the Fall of 1907, and took the oath of office in January, 1908. He has made an efficient prosecuting attorney.

EARTHQUAKE IN ITALY.

Heavy Shocks in Siena and Vicinity—Houses Wrecked, Many Injured.

SIENA, Italy, Aug. 25.—A heavy earthquake was felt throughout the Province of Siena at 1:25 A. M. to-day. Practically all the houses in San Lorenzo were destroyed or badly damaged. Many persons were injured.

The shock was felt most severely within a radius of twenty miles from Siena. Considerable damage was done at Buonconvento, where several houses collapsed and one person was killed. Several persons were injured also at Monteroni, and a number of houses were damaged there, masonry falling into the streets.

The first tremor was recorded at Piombino, on the coast, about 50 miles southwest of Siena, at 1:25 A. M., and there was a repetition five minutes later. The people fled from their homes in terror, but no damage has been reported.

Siena itself escaped with a severe shaking. The people were badly frightened, however, and rushed out of their houses into the streets, where they wandered about in a state of semi-panic until they were assured that the quakes were over.

ROME, Aug. 25.—Earthquakes were recorded this morning at Florence, Perugia, and Grosseto, but no damage was done.

A telegram from the Prefect of Siena Province says the damage there is less serious than was at first feared. Troops and tents have been sent to Buonconvento and San Lorenzo.

Siena province has an area of 1,470 square miles and a population of 233,000. The city of Siena is at an altitude of 1,000 feet and has 30,000 inhabitants. San Lorenzo, Buonconvento, Monteroni, and Pienmho are villages with populations of from 1,000 to 4,000.

KITE DRAGS YOUTH TO DEATH.

Buoyed Him Up After Pulling Him from Roof Until String Broke.

Edward Scanlon, 12 years old, who lived with his parents on the third floor of the tenement at 160 East 106th Street, was instantly killed yesterday evening when he fell from the roof of the five-story tenement at 124 East 107th Street to the yard. His skull was fractured and his back broken.

Scanlon, with other boys, was flying a big box kite from the roof. A strong gust of wind came up, and the kite dragged Scanlon over the edge of the roof. His companions, too badly frightened to cry out, saw Scanlon falling, buoyed up somewhat by the pull of the kite. They lost their fear, and cheered him. Gently he descended, and it looked as if he would reach the yard in safety.

Two floors below, Mrs. Deborah Brennan was sitting on a window sill cleaning her windows. Beside her was a pail of water. Scanlon descended close to the building. As he passed the woman his feet caught on her pail and it was sent clattering to the yard.

After his feet caught in the pail Scanlon assumed a horizontal position in the air, his feet resting on the window sill, and his hands clutching the kite string. But before aid could reach him his feet slipped from the sill, and he started downward with great force. As he was falling the kite string became entangled with a clothes line and snapped. The boy was dashed to death on the flagging of the yard.

Rougier's Machine Wrecked.

The only accident of the day was the capsizing of Rougier just before dark. Fortunately, Rougier was only slightly injured, although his machine was wrecked.

Although Paulhan covered 134 kilometers, the distance allowed him for the Prix De Champagne is only 131 kilometers, the turns having been eliminated. Latham and Lefebvre, the only others who have so far qualified for the endurance test, have 31 and 21 kilometers respectively to their credit.

The fourth day of aviation week was ushered in with a heavy downpour of rain, accompanied by blustering winds. It was only toward noon that the weather conditions improved, the rains ceasing and the winds becoming lighter. The Esnault-Peiterie machine, which has been supplied with new wings, was the only aeroplane to make its appearance before noon. It made a dozen runs in an effort to leave the ground, but none was successful.

By 3 o'clock the sky had cleared, and the breeze fallen to three meters—about ten feet a second. Then several aviators came out, and began to get ready for the trials of the Prix de la Champagne, the endurance test. Latham attempted in two machines to leave the ground, but failed. Paulhan, whose flight has been described, was the first up.

Latham, now successful in rising, followed Paulhan into the air by a few minutes, and at once ascended to a height of 100 feet. Several times his machine was caught in a gust of wind and heeled over. This obliged the pilot to head up into the wind to regain his equilibrium, and after finishing a lap, six and a fifth miles, in 9 minutes and 35 seconds, Latham came down. When Paulhan, who meanwhile was making round after round with the regularity of clockwork, was on his seventh lap, Latham made a second start. He was preceded at short intervals by Blériot and Delagrange.

Blériot and Curtiss Handicapped.

Blériot, though he was out to-day, is, like Curtiss, not trying for the Prix de la Champagne. He will reserve his efforts for the International Cup, which is to be run off Saturday, and the finals of the Prix de la Vitesse, which takes place Sunday. The Wright managers profess to believe that neither Blériot nor Curtiss can negotiate thirty kilometers.

The Aviation Committee, after further consideration of the thirty kilometer (18.63 miles) speed situation, has decided to apply the penalty of one-twentieth of the elapsed time to every machine that failed to start or did not cover the distance Sunday and yesterday. The penalty for both days has been imposed on Glenn H. Curtiss, the American aviator.

Curtiss and Cortlandt F. Bishop, representing the Aero Club of America, were inclined to protest in view of the fact that the committee yesterday withdrew the penalty imposed on Curtiss for Sunday, but they refrained when they learned that the double penalty had been applied to Blériot and the others. Both Curtiss and Blériot consequently will compete in the final speed tests next Sunday with a handicap of one-tenth against Tissandier's time of 28 minutes 59 1-5 seconds, the lowest record established by the Wright type. Curtiss said to-day he thought he would be able to negotiate the 30 kilometers under 26 minutes.

Curtiss has been invited to give flying exhibitions in Belgium, Germany, and England. The flag of the Aero Club of America is flying to-day upon his shed. This is the first appearance of the emblem in France.

Officials of the New York Hudson-Fulton celebration have cabled Cortlandt F. Bishop, President of the Aero Club of America, submitting propositions to induce foreign aeroplanists to visit the United States at the time of the fêtes. Paulhan, Blériot, and most of the others, however, have engagements in Belgium and Italy, and have been obliged to decline.

Prince Albert Leopold of Belgium, accompanied by the members of his family, is among the latest new arrivals at Rheims. The Prince spent the morning in visiting the sheds where the machines are kept, and showed especial interest in the Curtiss and Wright types.

Among the Americans on the tribune this afternoon were Princess Hélie de Sagan, formerly Anna Gould, who was accompanied by her husband; Mrs. George Law, and John McCutcheon and Ford M. Stephenson of Chicago, who have stopped over here on their way to Africa.

WRIGHT PREPARING TO FLY.

Orville Busy with Preparations in Berlin—He Receives Ovation.

BERLIN, Aug. 25.—Orville Wright is engaged in making his final preparations for the aeroplane flights that he will undertake shortly at the Templehof parade ground. His machine was to-day transferred from the military aeronautic headquarters at Tegel to the parade ground, where an enormous crowd gathered to watch the completion of the arrangements.

When Mr. Wright appeared he received an ovation. He said that he probably would not undertake to fly for several days yet.

CZAR AERO CLUB'S PATRON.

Also Gives Large Sum to St. Petersburg Organization.

ST. PETERSBURG, Aug. 25.—The Czar has accepted the post of patron to the Aero Club of St. Petersburg, which will consequently hereafter be qualified as "imperial." He has donated a large sum of money to the club, at the same time permitting four of the Grand Dukes to be enrolled as honorary members. Grand Duke Michael Alexandrovitch is honorary President of the club.

ODESSA, Aug. 25.—The first flight of an aeroplane in Russia occurred here yesterday. The machine is of local manufacture, and it was piloted by an Italian named Catani. It covered four miles at a height of ten feet, but the descent was disastrous. The forepart of the machine was wrecked, and Catani was picked up unconsious and badly cut.

ZEPPELIN III. FLIES WELL.

Count Zeppelin Testing It for Voyage to Berlin To-morrow.

FRIEDRICHSHAFEN, Aug. 25.—The airship Zeppelin III., with which Count Zeppelin will begin a voyage to Berlin on Thursday afternoon, made a highly successful trial trip this afternoon.

The Count himself, who left the hospital only three days ago, was at the wheel. The steering gear has been improved, and the manner in which it worked on the trial trip delighted Count Zeppelin.

BUYS PAN-AMERICAN ROAD?

Ambassador Thompson Reported to Have Paid $10,000,000.

Special to The New York Times.

CITY OF MEXICO, Aug. 25.—It is reported that David E. Thompson, United States Ambassador to Mexico, has bought for $10,000,000 gold the Pan-American Railroad.

The Pan-American, including a number of short branches, is 478 kilometers long. The main line extends from Gamboa, in the State of Oaxaca, across the Tehuantepec Isthmus country to Mariscal. On the Guatemala border, opposite this terminus, across the Suchitate River, is the flourishing Central American City of Yutia.

This main line is 457 kilometers in length. Building toward Yutia is the Guatemala City Northern Railroad, owned by the Hubbard interests of New York, that is now finished to a point within twenty-five miles of that city.

With the completion of this line, it will require the mere spanning of the river to effect railway connections from the western extremity of the Pan-American to the capital of this Central American Republic.

By purchasing outright Ambassador Thompson has taken over $9,600,000 of the total capitalization of $10,000,000. The transfer is in his own name, but it is understood among inner circles that a coterie of St. Louis men is also concerned, and that the ultimate plan is a turning over of the entire system to Harriman as a part of the chain to extend from British Columbia to Central America.

Though railway men conversant with the conditions have realized since the Pan-American was built about a year ago that it would in time become a most profitable and important factor in the commerce of this country, opportunities for great gains have necessarily been passed by on account of shortage of funds for development and improvement.

The road was built on a "shoestring," and has been operated economically through no fault of the management, but rather on account of a money stringency which reached its climax about the time the Isthmus line needed ready funds the most. Even under such adverse conditions the road has paid well.

On July 3 Ambassador Thompson authorized The Mexico Daily Record, a newspaper published in English, to state that he would resign his diplomatic office, to take effect on or before Jan. 1, 1910, intimating that personal business might hasten the date. It is not taken for granted that this personal business to which reference was made was the Pan-American transaction.

CUSTOMS RECEIPTS GROW.

New York Alone Had $1,000,000 Tuesday—Reynolds Talks with Loeb.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 25.—Assistant Secretary Reynolds returned from New York to-day where he had been in conference with Collector Loeb as to the workings of the new law and the continuance of the steady system of weeding out dead wood in the New York Custom House. Mr. Reynolds said that no radical changes were anticipated, and that such changes as have been made so far are beneficial.

The customs receipts yesterday were in round numbers $1,500,000, as against $980,000 for the same date last year. Mr. Reynolds thinks that practically all these receipts were under the new law. It is noticeable that New York's receipts yesterday under the new law were $1,000,000, which is more than all the receipts from all the ports of the United States on the corresponding date last year.

This showing as to returns from customs is looked on by Mr. Reynolds and by the customs officers generally as highly satisfactory, and as pointing to a large income to the Government from this source. Mr. Reynolds is not prepared to say what measure of the increased receipts from customs can properly be ascribed to the workings of the new law and what part to the growing prosperity of the country.

BOY LOOKOUT FOR BURGLAR.

Mrs. Dehli Found Thieves at Work in Neighbor's House.

James Dall, head of the J. Dall Construction Company, at 10 East Twenty-third Street, received a message from the Brooklyn police yesterday morning telling him that he had better go over to Brooklyn and take a look around his house, at 1,418 President Street, to see if everything was all right. Neighbors had informed the police of the Atlantic Avenue Precinct that there might have been burglars in the residence, as a light was seen in the house the night before.

Mr. Dall's family left the city early in the Summer. There was no one at home on Tuesday night, he was sure of that. He telephoned to Mrs. Anne Dehli, a neighbor, who lives at 1,414 President Street, to go to his house and see if there was any indication of a burglary having been committed. Accompanied by her servant she went to the rear of Dall's home. Sure enough burglars were there. It was broad daylight, and a little Italian boy was standing under an open window under the dining room.

"What are you doing there?" Mrs. Dehli asked.

"Oh, nothing. The old man is inside," the boy answered.

While Mrs. Dehli ran to give the alarm, the burglar and boy escaped. Neighbors who saw the burglar leave said he carried a bundle.

Mr. Dall was informed that a burglary had really been committed at his home, and he lost no time in going there. He said yesterday he did not know the extent of his loss. The stuff taken by the thieves consisted of clothing and jewelry.

Water Commissioner Says Bingham's Charges Are Very Amusing.

John H. O'Brien, Commissioner of Water Supply, Gas, and Electricity, returned from his trip to Europe yesterday on the White Star liner Oceanic. Extracts from a magazine article in which ex-Police Commissioner Bingham alleged that plumbing, gas, and water permits were held up in many instances for election purposes were shown to him. Mr. O'Brien said:

FURLONG FEARS THE POLICE.

Calls on Justice Crane to Ward Off Being Photographed.

In an endeavor to ward off the danger of being photographed and measured by the police in the event of his indictment Magistrate Henry E. Furlong appeared in the County Court House yesterday morning to assure Justice Crane and Assistant District Attorney Elder that he would be on hand any time he was wanted if the inquiry conducted by the District Attorney's office into his official acts on the bench resulted in criminal action against him. With the Magistrate were Martin T. Manton, his lawyer, and ex-Congressman Henry W. Goldfogle of Manhattan, associate counsel. All three went to Justice Crane's chambers, but only the Magistrate's counsel saw the Justice.

The conference was a short one. Magistrate Furlong would not talk on his appearance in the court house yesterday. But it was learned that Lawyer Manton had assured Justice Crane that the Magistrate would be on hand any time he was wanted. Mr. Manton admitted that his client desired to avoid summary treatment by the police.

Mr. Manton also reiterated Magistrate Furlong's statement that he had nothing to fear from an investigation into his official acts.

It was learned that all the depositions connected with the inquiry into the alleged charges against the Magistrate growing out of statements made by Rutherford W. Kathan, the lawyer who was brought down from Sing Sing as a witness in the inquiry, and Jacob W. Gotthelf, his clerk, who is awaiting trial in the Raymond Street Jail on the charge of bribery, are now in the hands of Justice Crane. The inquiry was continued yesterday morning, and closed as far as the taking of testimony is concerned. It is now for Justice Crane to act in the case. It will be necessary, however, to transcribe the minutes of the inquiry before any action is taken. The transcribing will probably be finished to-day

NOT MRS. BLEAKLEY'S CHILD.

Incubator Baby Is Daughter of an Actress, Says Mrs. Barclay.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Aug. 25.—Marian Bleakley, the 5-year-old incubator baby once exhibited at the St. Louis World's Fair, who was kidnapped at Topeka last Saturday from her mother, Mrs. J. J. Bleakley, was to-day placed temporarily in the custody of the Clerk of the Juvenile Court at Kansas City. An order to this effect was given by Judge E. E. Porterfield in the Circuit Court, after he had postponed until Monday hearings in the habeas corpus proceedings in the case.

There were two habeas corpus proceedings on the docket to-day, both brought by Mrs. James G. Barclay of Buffalo, N. Y., the foster mother of the child, to prevent herself and J. R. Gentry from being returned to Topeka for trial. The second sought to prevent Baby Marian from being returned to the custody of Mrs. Bleakley, whom the State Supreme Court has declared is the legal mother.

Mrs. Barclay's lawyers said they wished to present to the court the records of previous trials, showing that Mrs. Bleakley's baby died soon after birth and that the child now in controversy was not legally hers.

There was an affectionate parting between child and mother as the Clerk of the Juvenile Court led Marian from the courtroom.

Mrs. Barclay said to a reporter:

"If I thought for one minute there was a drop of Mrs. Bleakley's blood in the child I wouldn't have her for an instant, but I know to whom she belongs. She was the child of an actress. And, by the way, little Marian is the exact picture of her. The strong similarity of features to my mind makes the identification complete. If we could only by some legal proceeding get the actress to court there would be no doubt in the matter."

PLEADED GUILTY, FREED.

Law Under Which Hinderstein Was Convicted Declared Unconstitutional.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 25.—The two-year sentence of Louis Hinderstein, convicted at Baltimore in October, 1908, of harboring an alien girl for immoral purposes, was to-day commuted to expire immediately. The action was based upon the recommendation of Attorney General Wickersham, who was moved by a decision of the Supreme Court declaring unconstitutional Section 3 of the Immigration Act of Feb. 20, 1908, under which Hinderstein was convicted.

The section of the act in question was declared unconstitutional because it interfered with the police laws of States and municipalities. It was found that the Federal Government had the right to make a law excluding aliens imported for immoral purposes, but that after they were once admitted, such persons were under the control of local laws.

Hinderstein pleaded guilty to the charge against him. Attorney General Wickersham declared in his recommendation that he was loath to take action relieving from full punishment a man who had pleaded guilty to such an infamous crime but he could not overlook the fact that under the decision of the Supreme Court the conviction was illegal.

Hinderstein will be deprived of redress because the law was in force when he was convicted.

ALABAMA OFFICIALLY DRY.

Governor Signs All the Prohibition Bills Passed by Legislature.

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Aug. 25.—The whole code of prohibition laws passed by the Legislature at the session which adjourned last night was signed by the Governor to-day including the Fuller bill. Other enactments prevent the use or distribution of liquors in clubs, make it unlawful for foreign corporations to break the temperance laws; provide for impeachment of sheriffs who refuse to obey the laws; make it the duty of municipalities to make and enforce prohibition municipal enactments like those in effect in the State; prevent soft drink stands from using screens or storing liquors of any kind and prevent gambling by prohibiting barred doors in any public place or the use therein of electric bells, dumbwaiters or other such machinery.

The fact that the bills were signed today was sent by wire to sheriffs over the State who are already busy. The Fuller law permits all places under suspicion to be raided and liquors found in them destroyed.

TAFT WILL DEMAND POSTAL BANK LAW

Believes This Plan Would Solve the Problem of the 2 Per Cent. Bonds.

IGNORES PLEAS FOR DELAY

Will Confer To-day with Senator Aldrich on Postal Savings, Currency, and the Tariff.

BEVERLY, Mass., Aug. 25.—President Taft indicated in talks with callers to-day that in his message to Congress next December he will strongly urge the early establishment of a postal savings bank system. He realizes that there is strong opposition to such legislation at this time. Influential members of both the Senate and House are urging that the matter be left over until the monetary commission has made its report and ensuing financial legislation has been disposed of. But while he does not propose to rush Congress on too many matters at once, Mr. Taft will ask that the platform declaration of the Republican Party in favor of postal savings banks be fulfilled as speedily as possible.

Mr. Taft believes that several hundreds of millions would be placed at the disposal of the Government through postal savings banks. It is suggested that this money might well be employed in taking up the $000,000,000 or $700,000,000 of Government 2 per cent. bonds, which are outstanding, and which have given much concern to the Treasury Department officials. Already the 2 per cent. bonds are selling below par, and there is fear of further depreciation in view of 3 per cent. issues which have been authorized and which soon may be placed on the market.

Would Not Hurt the Banks.

The money which the postal banks would draw, the President believes, is that which is sent abroad each year by foreigners who insist that the Government's guarantee shall be back of any bank in which they place their savings, and that which is now secreted in stockings and mattresses. He thinks that the postal banks would appeal only to those timid persons who are afraid to trust the ordinary banks, and who would rather get the 2 per cent. or less interest which the Government would give them than to place the money in the regular savings banks, where it would draw from 3 to 4 per cent. interest each year.

By placing the interest to be allowed at less than 2 per cent. Mr. Taft is convinced that no harm would be done to the ordinary banks of commerce, for discriminating persons who now place their moneys in these banks and are appreciative of what they are doing for the community would not withdraw money drawing a high rate and place it under Government care at half the interest.

Secretary of the Navy Meyer is strongly in favor of postal banks. He has given much thought to the subject and is convinced of its importance. Idle funds would be placed at the disposal of the Government at an exceedingly low rate of interest. The Government's guarantee, it is believed, would dam the steady flow of gold across the Atlantic.

President Taft expressed himself again to-day, as he did so often during the campaign of a year ago, as unalterably opposed to a guarantee of bank deposits. He said he did not believe in making one set of bankers stand responsible for another set and he did not think that the National Government or the States should undertake to extend a guarantee to institutions which were not under direct Government control.

As to the charge of paternalism made against the postal bank idea, President Taft to-day declared that he thought it rather far-fetched. He cited the instance of the Post Office Department itself, and said that the extension of that system to include a field of banking, which is not now covered by private institutions, could not be regarded as a too paternalistic step. Mr. Taft is a great believer in the good sense and judgment of the American people, and he has said that they know full well where to draw the line.

Conference With Aldrich.

The President will have a conference with Senator Aldrich, Chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, and Secretary MacVeagh of the Treasury to-morrow afternoon. The postal banks will be discussed.

The President has a number of subjects to take up with Mr. Aldrich. First of all he wants to know when the Monetary Commission expects to have its report ready for Congress, and just what will be the scope of its inquiries and recommendations. Mr. Taft also wants the advice of Senator Aldrich in connection with administrative features of the Payne bill, which are now concerning the Treasury Department. Mr. Aldrich practically wrote the entire section of the Tariff bill dealing with the maximum and minimum and other administrative provisions.

Secretary Nagel of the Department of Commerce and Labor, is expected up between now and Saturday to dispose of the remaining vacancies in the list of census supervisors. The President will see Ambassador Whitelaw Reid on Friday.

President Taft to-day had an extended interview with Amos P. Wilder, American Consul General at Shanghai, China, and discussed with him the opportunities for extending American trade in the Far East. Mr. Taft believes that the time is ripe just now to gain a great advantage for American industries and enterprise in China. The Chinese people were never more friendly toward the United States.

REGISTERED LETTER 10 CENTS

Rate to be Increased from Eight Because of Expense of Service.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 25.—An increase of 2 cents is to be made in the near future in the fee for the registration of letters and mail packages. Announcement of the proposed change was made to-day by Postmaster General Hitchcock.

The decision of Mr. Hitchcock to increase the registry fee followed an inquiry into the registry system by a special committee appointed by the Postmaster General. Mr. Hitchcock and the members of the committee had a long conference today. It was decided to call in a score of registry officials of experience from various parts of the country for a more general meeting with the Postmaster General next Monday.

It is understood to be Mr. Hitchcock's purpose to take up the registry system first in considering all branches of the postal service for reorganization wherever greater efficiency and less expenditure may be effected.

In his talk with a number of the delegates to the recent annual convention of the National Association of first class Postmasters at Toledo, Mr. Hitchcock learned they were almost unanimously of the opinion that an increase in the registry fee from 8 to 10 cents would not be opposed when it was understood that the Government was losing several million dollars through the present system of operation.

By law the Postmaster General is authorized to make the registry fee as high as 20 cents. In 1874 it was reduced from 15 to 8 cents, but increased to 10 cents in 1875. It was reduced from 10 to 8 cents in 1893.

The registry service is the most expensive of any rendered by the department owing to the precautions taken to insure correct delivery and safety in the transmission of registered articles.

INJURED DOG SCARES BATHERS

Animal Maddened by Broken Leg Bites Boy in the Water.

A fox terrier suffering from a broken leg and starvation created a panic among more than 100 children bathing at the beach at 133d Street and the East River in the Bronx yesterday afternoon, and after following the youngsters into the water, bit one of the boys who was swimming to escape it. For twenty minutes volunteer life savers stationed at the beach had all they could do to rescue boys who, in an effort to elude the dog, had swam out beyond their depth.

The injured boy is Gazer Molnar, 13 years old, of 584 East 137th Street. His index finger of the left hand was so badly torn by the maddened dog that it may have to be amputated.

The beach at 133d Street and the East River is a favorite place with boys and girls in the neighborhood. The fox terrier that caused the trouble yesterday was first seen on the beach Tuesday. Yesterday it appeared at the beach limping, one of its front legs being broken. The dog's tongue was lolling out and his mouth was foam-flecked. It made for the bathing children, snapping and growling as it ran.

Fully fifty girls, all of them under 16 years, were playing about on the sand or wading in the water. As the dog approached them they ran screaming into the water. Boys also took to their heels and ran into the water. Young Gazer Molnar was not a strong swimmer, and lagged behind the other lads. The dog overtook him in a few minutes. Hearing the snapping and snarling of the dog just behind him the boy turned, and was just in time to dodge the snapping jaws of the dog as it reached for his cheek. The boy put up his hand to push the animal away, and it set its teeth in his finger, penetrating to the bone and tearing away the flesh. The boy screamed, and, forgetting to swim, sank. The dog started after the other lads, who had gained headway on it while it was after Molnar.

Oehl and Mortans saw the boys going far out into the river, and immediately launched their life saving dory. They first rowed toward the dog and struck it with an oar. The animal turned and swam back to the beach. Oehl and his partner kept on until they had reached the boys furthest out in the water. They quickly loaded the dory with exhausted, frightened boys and took them ashore. They then went out to rescue other youngsters who were floundering beyond their depth. Young Molnar, who was the first lad picked up, was in danger of drowning.

In all the two life savers made five trips with their dory, loading it every time to its capacity with boys, and also took in a few of the girls, who, being able to swim, had struck straight out into the river. A policeman shot the dog when it came ashore.

75 WARSHIPS IN PARADE.

Hudson-Fulton Celebration Naval Plans Announced in Washington.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 25.—The naval demonstration at the coming Hudson-Fulton celebration at New York promises to be a notable one, the expectation now being that about seventy-five vessels of the American and foreign navies will participate in the naval parade. More than fifty vessels of the American Navy will be available, and will be ordered to the celebration. Of the larger fighting craft there will be at least sixteen battleships, three armored cruisers, and three scout cruisers. Twelve speedy torpedo boats with four submarines and their parent ships, the Dixie and the Castine, are to be sent.

The little tender Yankton, which has accompanied the Atlantic battleship fleet on a considerable portion of its travels; two supply ships, the Celtic and the Culgoa, and a repair ship, the Panther, will be in line, as will also a torpedo vessel auxiliary, the Montgomery. Seven colliers, the Arabenda, the Brutus, the Hannibal, the Lebanon, the Leonidas, the Marcellus, and the Sterling, which have supplied fuel to the American Navy in all parts of the world, and the little tug Potomac conclude the present list.

For the first time in history, according to the naval officials, there will be a parade of marines and bluejackets in the Bronx. Major David Wilson of the New York National Guard has been informed by the Navy Department that a regiment consisting of five battalions will participate in the great army, naval, civic, and historical parade on Sept. 29. This regiment will be made up of a battalion of marines and four battalions of seamen.

Recent advices to the Navy Department are that Rear Admiral Von Koester, who will represent the German Emperor, will fly his flag on the Gneisenau, although he expects to cross the ocean in a mail steamer. Other German vessels which will participate are the Dresden, Hertha, Viktoria, Luise, and Bremen.

BAKER ANSWERS BINGHAM.

Denies That Police Transfers Have Been Dictated by Politicians.

Police Commissioner Baker characterized yesterday as utterly untrue the charge made by ex-Commissioner Bingham that the recent transfers in the Police Department were made in the interests of politicians and that they were made because of the coming election.

He said that he had read the statement of Gen. Bingham somewhat hurriedly.

"There is absolutely no political significance in the transfers I have made," said Commissioner Baker. "In a big organization like the Police Department there must be transfers now and then. I never made a transfer for a politician, however. I would like to know where Gen. Bingham gets his information about recent transfers, away up there in Nova Scotia."

He would not discuss the Bingham matter further.

Mr. Baker said that he would answer to-day the petition sent him by Lieutenants, Sergeants, patrolmen, and doormen asking that certain rules instituted by Police Commissioner Bingham be abolished.

SPLURGED ON STOLEN $400.

Clerk Spent Employer's Bank Deposit with a Friend at Summer Resorts.

Francis N. Sweeney, who has a butter and egg store at 752 Seventh Avenue, sent his clerk, John Williams, 17 years old, to a bank at Warren and Greenwich Streets to deposit $400 on Aug. 10. He did not return.

On Tuesday night at the corner of Fiftieth Street and Eighth Avenue Detectives Donohue and Breslin found Williams with Joseph McMahon, 17 years old, of 110 West 161st Street, and arrested both. They told Inspector McCafferty at Police Headquarters yesterday morning, so he says, that they had met on the bank steps and decided to have a good time and spend the money instead of banking it.

They went to Boston, and tried Philadelphia for a while; then with the last of the roll in sight they came back and spent it at Coney Island. They were penniless when arrested.

"We had a corking time," one of them told the Inspector, "and if we'd had Harriman's money we'd have gone to Europe."

STUDIES OUR FIRE SYSTEM.

San Francisco Fire Chief Pleased with High-Pressure Outfit.

Patrick H. Shaughnessy, Chief of the San Francisco Fire Department, who is in New York getting ideas for a high-pressure system for his city, arrived at Fire Headquarters in company with Chief Croker early yesterday to inspect the fire alarm system. He spent most of the morning talking over the system with Chief Croker. Shortly after noon he left in company with Battalion Chief John Conlon to visit the pumping stations and repair shops.

Chief Shaughnessy says that so far as he is able to judge the New York high-pressure system is the best in the country, and he intends to have the San Francisco system as much like it as possible. That city has issued $5,000,000 in bonds for the construction of its system, one of the features of which will be 110 big concrete cisterns to supply water in case of breakage of the mains, such as occurred at the time of the earthquake.

HUGHES OPENS FIGHT AGAINST THE BOSSES

Speaks in Syracuse, Home of Hendricks, and His Attacks Are Warmly Applauded.

ALSO APPEARS AT A FAIR

Thousands Hear Him at Sandy Creek—He Defends His Course in Going Before the People.

Special to The New York Times.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Aug. 25.—Gov. Charles E. Hughes to-day took up in earnest his campaign for direct primaries, and in two speeches he attacked bosses and bossism. Fifteen hundred persons applauded him in the Alhambra this evening despite the heat.

The Governor came here from Sandy Creek in a special train after addressing an audience of farmers at the Sandy Creek fair. He was escorted to the Vanderbilt Hotel, where he had dinner and afterward held an informal reception. Many people from neighboring villages came to the city to hear the Governor. The most conspicuous delegation was from Skaneateles, which sent a special car.

Gov. Hughes's attacks on boss-controlled conventions was of special significance here, as Francis Hendricks, whom Mr. Hughes grilled during the insurance investigation, is the Republican leader in this county. The denunciation of bosses was received with prolonged applause.

Frederick R. Hazard, a close friend of Gov. Hughes, presided at the meeting, and a large number of representative people occupied seats on the platform.

"This is an off year, but there seems to be a great deal on," the Governor remarked, in opening his address. "The fact that on such a warm evening a company of this sort can be brought together is indicative of the existence of a strong sentiment which, I believe, is destined to grow stronger until the rights of this State are more clearly recognized and more definitely safeguarded.

"It has been suggested that this movement is inimical to party success. The time when a party, any party, is in danger is when its members are supine and take little account of their rights and are willing to let a few manage their affairs. A party is strong when its members are alert, discussing public questions, intent upon the honorable success of party management, and determined that party loyalty, which is so rightly prized, is not to be made capital of for any selfish advantage.

"I make no apology for appearing before you in response to the very urgent invitation which I received. I thoroughly believe in the Executive presenting to people the policies in which he believes and the grounds upon which he supports them. The Executive must stand or fall with regard to the recommendations that he advances, according to the merit which they are believed to have by the people, and while he remains within the circle to which he is limited in the exercise of his constitutional authority there is no harm but rather a benefit to the people in free discussion of Executive proposals.

"What we are really seeking to accomplish is to deprive certain persons not of power which properly belongs to them but of usurped power, by reason of a ready control of machinery. By direct nominations I mean that system by which party candidates for office are chosen by the direct vote of the enrolled party voters. I believe in that system, because it seems to me it conserves best a fundamental principle. The party voters are entitled to say who their representatives shall be, for they constitute the party."

At the Sandy Creek Fair the Governor was greeted by a crowd of several thousand people this afternoon when he made an address on direct primaries from the judges' stand. People fro mall parts of the county were present. The Governor was met at Lacona Station by President Peter G. Hydorn of the Agricultural Society and a large Reception Committee, including Senator George W. Cobb of Watertown and Luther W. Mott of Oswego.

Just before beginning his speech the Governor met Thaddeus C. Sweet of Phoenix, Republican candidate for member of Assembly, who won the nomination in a fight against the machine on the direct primary issue. Gov. Hughes warmly congratulated him.

FREED, BUT REARRESTED.

Heineman Discharged on One Complaint, Held for Forgery.

Fred A. Heineman of 688 Hudson Street was discharged by Magistrate Corrigan in the Jefferson Market Police Court yesterday morning on a charge of petit larceny, only to be rearrested and held on a short affidavit of Detective Gallagher of the Central Office on a charge of passing a worthless check.

Heineman had been arrested on complaint of Miss Minnie Seligman of 500 East Twenty-third Street, who charged him with stealing $13 from a bureau drawer in her home on Saturday. Heineman was a visitor at the house at the time, but as no one saw him take the money and there were other visitors present who had access to the drawer, he was discharged.

Then Detective Gallagher came forward with Gus Wolke, who lives in the same house with Heineman, at 688 Hudson Street, and produced a check for $26, drawn on the New York County National Bank, to the order of F. A. Heineman, and signed by Ignatius Barcus. Wolke said Heineman had given him the check in payment of a debt of $18 and had been given the difference in cash. The check came back from the bank yesterday marked "no account." The detectives say Heineman admitted that Ignatius Barcus "existed only in his imagination." Magistrate Corrigah held him in $1,000 bail for examination Friday, on the second complaint.

BLAZE HALTS SUFFRAGETTES.

Much Excitement Follows Chimney Fire in West Tenth Street.

A chimney blaze in West Tenth Street, near Broadway, yesterday spoiled one man's dinner, broke up a suffragette meeting, emptied three buildings of about one hundred and fifty girls, and drew a big crowd that the police had a hard time keeping back.

It all started when Mannie Baffrus, a cook in a small German restaurant in the basement of 46 East Tenth Street, an old-fashioned residence building that has been converted into a left building occupied by fur manufacturers, tried to fry a steak. The cook was in a hurry and dropped the steak on the floor. He washed it off and put it in the pan, but the drops of water made the grease splash up on his hands. He dropped the pan and the grease poured into the stove, causing so hot a blaze that the chimney caught fire. Then came a back draft that covered Baffrus with soot and sent him to the street.

At Broadway and Tenth Street there was a large crowd listening to a Mrs. Hoffman, who was dispensing suffragette oratory through a megaphone. The new excitement left Mrs. Hoffman alone, while the crowd flocked to the fire. Some one sent in a fire alarm, and the girls from 46 and the buildings on each side of it screamed and started for the street all at once, with the result that three stairways were clogged and many gowns torn.

After the police got there and drove the crowd back, Lester Munsky of 1,482 Brook Avenue, the Bronx, insisted on crossing the fire lines with a can of gasoline, and told Traffic Policeman Smith that if he'd get down off his horse he would whip him. He found he couldn't and was locked up charged with disorderly conduct.

The damage was about $10. No one was hurt.

COUPLE PART; WIFE A SUICIDE

Drinks Oxalic Acid While Her Husband Takes Away the Furniture.

In despair at seeing all her household furniture and even some wedding presents she valued highly being carted away from her home by moving men sent there by her husband, Mrs. Clara Eisler, 24 years old, rushed into the bathroom of the flat, on the fourth floor of 863 Third Avenue, yesterday morning and drained a bottle containing four ounces of oxalic acid.

Then she fled to the street and fell into the arms of a policeman that her husband, Henry Eisler, had brought to the place to prevent interference by his wife's brother and sister, living in the same building. Twenty minutes after she was admitted to Flower Hospital she died.

The pair had been married six years. Lately things had not been running smoothly, and Mrs. Eisler's brother and sister, Frederick and Linda Barrow, seemed to take their sister's part. Two weeks ago Eisler grew angry and left the house, and a day or so ago he wrote that he was living at 194 Prince Street, and would send the movers on Wednesday to get the furniture. Eisler works for a downtown mercantile house.

CUSTOMS MEN TO MEET.

Annual Conference of Appraisers Here In November.

James B. Reynolds, Acting Secretary of the Treasury Department, has completed arrangements for the largest convention of appraising officials ever gathered together since the inauguration of annual conferences in President Cleveland's first term.

The conferences are held at this port, and in past years have included appraisers or their immediate representatives from the leading ports of the country. The object has been to achieve uniformity in the appraisement of imported merchandise at the different ports in the interest of equitable administration and avoidance of customs litigation. Mr. Reynolds said that this year's conference will be held in this city beginning Nov. 8, to last a week.

"This year's conference will be of special importance," said Mr. Reynolds yesterday, "owing to the fact that a new tariff has just been enacted. For this reason I intend to have a larger gathering of appraising officials present than ever before. We shall have appraisers present from all of the smaller ports, as well as from the big ones."

HORN'S BEQUESTS TO CHARITY

Forty-three Eleemosynary and Religious Institutions Benefit Under Will.

By the will of Michael Horn, a lace manufacturer, who lived at 317 East Seventeenth Street, and died in the New York Hospital on Aug. 4 last, filed for probate yesterday with the Surrogate, over $40,000 goes to forty-three charitable institutions in Manhattan, and makes his brothers Henry and Abram Horn the residuary legatees. The value of the estate was not given in the petition.

The charities, each of which receive from $250 to $500, include most of the hospitals in the city and nearly all of the Hebrew eleemosynary institutions; also the Educational Alliance of New York; Young Men's Hebrew Association; Baron De Hirsch Fund, and Hebrew Educational Society of Brooklyn. The Clara De Hirsch Home for Working Girls, the Nursery and Children's Hospital, and the Hebrew Educational School for Girls get $400 each and the Newsboys' Lodging House and the Society for Prevention of Cruelty to Children, $300 each.

Five thousand dollars is left to the Mount Sinai Hospital to establish the "Bertha Horn Memorial Bed," and $2,500 to the Montefiore Home for "The Isaac Horn Memorial Bed."

Find Bodies of Drowned Brothers.

The bodies of the two brothers Emil and George Ludwig, who were drowned Tuesday night at the foot of West 147th Street, while vainly trying to save each other, were found yesterday afternoon at the spot where they lost their lives. Both the bodies were taken to the West 152d Street Police Station on the order of Coroner Dooley. The brothers were members of the manufacturing jewelry firm of A. Ludwig & Son, with offices at 75 Nassau Street and 907 Broadway, and lived at 3,009 Broadway. They were members of the New York Motor Boat Club, with a clubhouse at 147th Street and the North River, and it was while trying to operate a motor boat that they lost their lives.

FORCED VICTIMS INTO ICEBOX.

Hold-Up Man Made Patrons Join Proprietor of Chicago Saloon.

CHICAGO, Aug. 25.—A hold-up man conducted a series of robberies extending over two hours last night, in which Robert Kjeldsen, a saloon keeper, and four of his patrons were the victims. Entering Kjeldsen's saloon, the hold-up man, who was young and nattily attired, forced the owner, by the display of a revolver, to enter the icebox. While the thief was pocketing the contents of the cash register a patron entered. He was forced, after his pockets had been searched, to join Kjeldsen in the icebox.

Remaining behind the bar, the man, as each newcomer entered, threatened him with a revolver, robbed him, and ordered him into the now crowded icebox. When its limit had been reached the thief waved a farewell to his prisoners and left. They were released by patrons. The thief obtained about $150.

Southern People are being made inefficient and the South's Progress is Stopped by a Disease that can be Cured for Seventy-five Cents per Person. The disease is taking the vitality from millions of southern tenant whites. Its cure is more important than the tariff, the "nigger" question, the boll weevil, or anything else. Its cure is the answer to The South's labor problem in field and factory—but the South doesn't seem to know it. A bill to spread information for the cure of this disease was introduced in the last Congress—but Congress was too busy talking tariff. Now it is proposed to import Italians to work Southern farms and factories. Does the South want Italians? Well, it's up to the South itself. Here is the whole startling story in Pearson's Magazine for September, the most essentially important to the South's welfare that was ever printed.

This issue also contains the first complete and authentic story of the great Adana massacre written on the spot by James Creelman. A remarkable query for Christianity. The West's grievance against Harriman is told by a man who knows. The West admits Harriman's genius in railroading, but says he now demands a tribute which they cannot pay, and the West is getting ready to fight and wants everybody to know the story. Why Canada does not want reciprocity is explained by a Canadian. Also, there is the story of W. O. Bradley, the first Senator of the new white Republican Party in the South. Herman A. Metz, Comptroller of the City of New York, writes of New York as it will be. And there are eight splendid short stories.

CROWN MISS GLEMBY MARDI GRAS QUEEN

Pretty Coronation Ceremony in Arverne Theatre Attended by 300 Auto Parties.

ROSALSKY BESTOWS HONOR

Long Island Towns Also Celebrate Trolley Carnival and Asury Park Festivities Begin To-night.

Miss Sophie Glemby was crowned Queen of the Arverne Mardi Gras last night and until Saturday will rule socially over the Summer folk and others at the seashore resort. Judge Rosalsky of General Sessions placed upon the young woman's head the crown which completed the ceremony of making her Queen Neptunia II. Miss Glemby received, besides, a handsome toilet set, the gift of the Carnival Committee.

The coronation was held in the Arverne Pier Theatre, which was decorated in blue and gold for the occasion. Soon after 8 o'clock the entire population of Arverne and the surrounding towns, in twos and threes and larger parties, began to assemble at the theatre, and presently there stood outside more than 300 automobiles, each one of which had brought parties of men and women anxious to pay homage to the new Queen.

By 8:30 the theatre was crowded with expectant citizens, and presently a trumpet blast from the heralds of the royal cortège announced that the ceremony was about to begin. First came eighty small children, dressed in white and pink, who ranged themselves before the royal daïs and there presented a pretty little drama, symbolic of the difficulties of the Arverne people in finally selecting their Queen. Beginning with an opening march and chorus, the youngsters went through an elaborate programme in which they had been drilled carefully for weeks.

Then sounded a second trumpet blast, and this time Queen Neptunia herself, preceded by two heralds and accompanied by five ladies-in-waiting, the latter Miss Glemby's rivals for the post of honor, entered the theatre. The procession halted before the throne, while a herald read the proclamation announcing the selection of the Queen, and then Miss Glemby was led to the throne, where Judge Rosalsky crowned her.

The ceremony completed, the Queen thanked her people for the honor in a solo, "The Song of the Soul," beautifully rendered.

Next on the programme came a chorus of eighty children's voices, commemorating the Queen's coronation and pledging the fealty of the people. The chorus was the finale of the court scene, and at its conclusion Queen Neptunia and her court adjourned to the Arverne Casino, where a dinner was given in honor of the Queen.

Miss Glemby wore a white satin court gown, made princesse, with a gold bodice. Over this she wore a purple cloak, which she laid aside as she ascended the throne. The five ladies-in-waiting wore evening gowns with court trains.

Old residents of Arverne declared that the coronation was one of the most brilliant ever held, and asserted that Miss Glemby made one of the most beautiful Queens who ever wore the crown of the carnival.

TROLLEY CARNIVAL LIVELY.

Miss Dorothy Smith, Queen—Three Long Island Towns Joined.

Many thousands of visitors thronged the three principal Long Island villages directly affected by the completion of the first cross-island trolley line. The occasion was the Trolley Carnival, which started before most of the world was through breakfasting and lasted until midnight. All day long trolley cars ran between sound and ocean, carrying free all who could find room on them.

The carnival was a success from every standpoint. Old residents called it the "marriage ceremony" of three villages—Huntington on the north shore, Farmingdale, in the centre of the island, and Amityville, on the south shore. Thousands of girls scattered confetti liberally, and "ticklers" were in evidence all about.

Shortly after 8 o'clock in the morning, Miss Dorothy Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Smith, of Huntington, was formally crowned Queen of the Carnival by Henry H. Denton, Grand Marshal. She sat on a special "royal" car, surrounded by her court of honor and attendants. She wore a royal yellow gown, and made a very pretty queen. Her attendants all wore white.

After the crowning ceremony the Queen, her court, and some thousands of officials of the carnival, guests and sightseers, traveled from Huntington first to Farmingdale and then to Amityville, in trolley cars and automobiles. There were special ceremonies in Farmingdale and Amityville, after which the Queen and her court returned to Huntington. Foot races and other athletic events were contested in the three villages.

The carnival will go down in Long Island's history as the liveliest affair of the kind yet held. In the afternoon there was a dinner, followed by aquatic sports, an aeroplane flight out over the water, and fireworks in the evening. A baseball game between the Huntington and Northport nines attracted many enthusiasts. Among those who attended the dinner were August Heckscher, head of the Zinc Trust, who presided; Ralph Peters, President of the Long Island Railroad, who spoke on "The Railroad and the People"; Henry F. Sammis of Huntington, Thomas M. Osborne of Auburn, N. Y., and Congressman Cocks of Westbury.

The maids of honor who attended Queen Dorothy were the Misses Ella Conklin, Anna Conklin, Edith Kacker, and Mildred Merrill of Huntington, Alice Michel, Ethel M. Voorhis, Clara L. Bausch, and Abbie Thompson of Farmingdale, and Lillian Sauer and May E. Ketcham of Amityville.

The Cross Island trolley line, connecting Huntington with Amityville, was built by the Long Island Railroad.

READY FOR ASBURY CARNIVAL.

Queen Titania to Begin Her Rule To-night at Military Pageant.

Special to The New York Times.

ASBURY PARK, Aug. 25.—Queen Titania IX., the ruler of Fairyland, with her court, will make her initial visit to Asbury Park to-morrow evening to rule over the ten days' carnival events, which begin with the boat parade and military display on Deal Lake to-morrow night. Miss Henrietta A. Elker, a pretty Asbury Park girl, will impersonate Titania. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thaddeus A. Elker.

Miss Alice Adele Strobridge of Baltimore, another beauty, will be the Princess Cinderella, and Titania's six maids of honor, each selected by the Carnival Association for their youth and beauty, will be the Misses Marion Adele Souville and Edg Kathryn Mincho of Brooklyn, Mae Elizabeth Cromble and Marie Leonard Cassidy of New York, Mildred Louise Burton of Asbury Park, and Marjorie Antoinette Hatch of Rochester, N. Y.

The Deal Lake carnival will be made the occasion of an elaborate military spectacle lasting over two hours. There will be several hundred motor boats, canoes, rowboats and other decorated craft in line, as well as several floats, representing various local singing societies, and the Allenhurst and North Asbury Park hotels. Officers of New Jersey's National Guard will be in charge of the spectacle, which will be reviewed by Major Gen. P. Farmer Wanser of Jersey City, the guard commander. A detachment of United States marines from the Sea Girt camp will act as a guard to the Queen's party, and the First Battery of the New Jersey National Guard will fire the salutes.

On Saturday afternoon and evening 800 children will greet the Queen at a musical festival given in her honor at the Amphitheatre on the shore front. Prof. Oscar J. Ehrgott of New York will have charge of this celebration feature.

Titania will be crowned at the Amphitheatre on next Tuesday evening. On Wednesday evening "Puck" and his followers will make things lively on the boardwalk.

The star carnival event, the baby parade, will be held next Thursday afternoon. Thus far over 60 babies have been registered for the pageant.

BUTTS BLAMES COURT SYSTEM

Magistrate Says New Methods Are More Needed Than New Buildings.

"It is not the lack of proper buildings, but the antiquated system under which the Magistrates' courts are conducted that is degrading to the ends of justice," said Magistrate Butts yesterday morning in Essex Market Court in expressing his opinion to Samuel Brill, foreman, and John W. O'Connor of the July Grand Jury, which recommended a new and larger Essex Market Court building. They were visiting the court to see what improvements if any had been made since the July Grand Jury denounced conditions and recommended a new building. They found a few shelves added and other minor improvements, and after making the inspection they took seats on the bench at the invitation of the Magistrate.

Mr. Brill said to the Magistrate:

"We note some efforts at improvements, but we yet think the only remedy for deplorable conditions here is a new and larger building."

"Of course," said Magistrate Butts, "it would be nice to have better buildings, but people have seen buildings of more superb architecture and general beauty than we could ever hope to have for Magistrates' courts, and no buildings that could be provided would impress prisoners and spectators with the seriousness and dignity (which is supposed to exist) of the courts.

"The fault is in the system more than in lack of buildings. Why, only last Monday I opened this court with over sixty-five cases waiting to be disposed of. Is it possible for justice to be meted out squarely in every case when the large number of cases requires more or less rapid work so as to give all the prisoners a prompt hearing?"

Mr. Brill suggested that with larger buildings as many as three Magistrates might sit in one court and give ample time to all cases.

"For two years," replied the Magistrate, "I have been trying to get the Magistrates' Board to assign two Magistrates to one court when it is necessary, one to hear examinations and the other to attend to the routine business, but my arguments have made no impression on the majority of the board. I see no reason why larger buildings would change their opinions and cause them to yield to my views.

"For fifty years we have made no change in our Magistrates' court system and methods. Is that creditable to the greatest city in the Western world?

"When the Magistrates' Board adopted plans for the new court building in the Bronx, making proper arrangements for seats for lawyers, proper quarters for clerks, seats for the reporters, and the abolishment of the prisoners' line, one Magistrate inquired, 'Will we be obliged to follow these arrangements in the conduct of the court?' When advised that each Magistrate has the authority to conduct his court as he sees fit this inquiring Magistrate, wedded to the old system, was satisfied and voted 'aye.'"

"Then we need better men on the bench?" asked Mr. Brill.

"No," replied the Magistrate, "we have good men on the bench. We merely need a modern system for the entire conduct of the courts," his intimation being that specifying by law how the courts shall be conducted will obtain the desired results."

THIS PASTOR A SAMARITAN.

Offers Work to Man Who Confessed to Robbing Him.

Victor Kisch, who gave his address as 272 Henderson Street, Jersey City, tried unsuccessfully to get into jail because his conscience hurt him. Last night he walked into Police Headquarters and announced that he had committed a burglary in Jersey City and wished to be punished. He told the police that he had, with a boy he picked up in Union Square, broken into the home of the Rev. Herman Pisauner of 272 Henderson Street, Jersey City, for whom he worked, early yesterday morning and stolen $5 and some silverware. The pair, Kisch said, came back to New York, where the boy bought him a drink and left him, carrying off the plunder.

The police communicated with the Jersey City authorities and learned that the burglary had taken place, but that the Rev. Mr. Pisauner declined to make a complaint.

"Let him go," the minister said, "and I will get him work."

Kisch repeated his story to Magistrate Barlow in the Tombs Court yesterday and reiterated his desire to be punished, but the Magistrate declined to accommodate him and discharged him.

CITY'S GIFT TO CONTRACTORS.

Street Building Material Handed Out by Some of Coler's Men.

When the investigation into the accounts and methods of administration employed by Borough President Bird S. Coler of Brooklyn was resumed yesterday morning by Commissioner of Accounts John Purroy Mitchel, testimony was adduced to show that granite blocks, curbing flagging, cement, and other paving materials stored by the city in corporation yards have been given to various contractors doing business with the city, for which no money has been paid as far as 1907, or, at least, the books do not show it.

According to testimony, the materials were given out at the direction of various officials of the Brooklyn Bureau of Highways, including Chief Engineer F. J. Sheridan, Supt. of Streets and Highways Ulrich, and one Mr. Smith attached to the department.

SHONTS WINS DEMAND FOR TRUST CO. INQUIRY

Directors Name Investigating Committee and Whole Heinze Loan Will Be Sifted.

NO ONE IS TO BE SPARED

Committee Will Hear Bond Clerk Birmingham's Side of the Story—Jerome Approves Bail of Indicted Men.

Theodore P. Shonts and other Directors of the Windsor Trust Company, who have insisted on a thorough investigation of the Joyce-Persch $50,000 loan transaction, which has resulted in the indictment of four men dominated the board meeting of the trust company yesterday, and it is now certain that the whole transaction will be sifted to the bottom. The Directors, during a meeting which lasted from noon until nearly 3 o'clock, appointed a committee composed of Mr. Shonts and August Heckscher to investigate and report back to the board.

Mr. Shonts said after the meeting that he was anxious to get to the bottom of the affair, and that the investigation would be thorough, regardless of consequences. The report of the committee would be made public, he said. August Heckscher is out of town, but will return to-day, it is expected. Sterling Birmingham, the bond clerk of the company, who put the loan deal through and has since been discharged by the trust company, in addition to being charged with a violation of the Anti-Tipping law for accepting a $250 bonus, was not present at the Directors' meeting in spite of his offer to tell the whole truth made in a letter sent to the Directors on Tuesday. It was said after the meeting that the Directors were willing to receive him, but had been unable to locate him while the meeting was in session.

He will have a chance to tell his side of the story, which, according to his letter to the Directors, directly contradicts the version of President John Alvin Young and Jordan J. Ronalds, counsel for the trust company, to the special committee.

Sterling Birmingham was held for Special Sessions by Magistrate Barlow yesterday in the Tombs Court after waiving further examination. His bond of $500 was furnished by Arthur J. Coleman, a real estate dealer of 1,543 Fifty-fifth Street, Brooklyn.

The bonds of the United States Fidelity and Guarantee Company, on which Donald L. Persch, Walter L. Clark, and Charles Katz were released yesterday after protests by District Attorney Jerome, were declared satisfactory by him yesterday. The District Attorney's objections were based on the contention that a "man higher up" was indemnifying the guarantee company, and that it would be to his interest to have the indicted men disappear. He received yesterday a copy of the agreement between the guarantee company and the indemnators as well as a list of the names of those who had gone surety with the guarantee company. He was satisfied with the showing.

It was said on good authority yesterday that the total of $95,000 put up for the three men, of which $50,000 was for Persch, $25,000 for Katz, and $20,000 for Clark, comprised $45,000 in securities and $50,000 in cash. There were twelve names of those who have signed as indemnators to the guarantee company, which were disclosed confidentially to the District Attorney and Judge Mulqueen, who admitted the men to bail.

A. D. F. Adams, the Boston broker, who gave himself up on Friday on an indictment following the Windsor Trust loan disclosures, was unable to get bail yesterday, and is still in the Tombs.

TO CHECK HAFID'S CRUELTY.

Diplomats to Protest Against Mutilation of Rebel Roghi's Followers.

TANGIER, Aug. 25.—The capture of El Roghi, the rebellious subject of the Sultan of Morocco, has been officially announced, and fêtes have been organized to celebrate the event. El Roghi was caught in the Beni-Macasar region.

The cruelty of Mulai Hafid's men to the followers of El Roghi captured by them has been denounced, it is reported, even in Fez. The inhabitants of Taza refused to recognize the new Governor appointed by Mulai Hafid as a mark of remonstrance. Twenty-five of the prisoners whose hands and feet were cut off have succumbed to their mutilations.

PARIS, Aug. 25.—The French Government has instructed M. Regnault, who is returning to Morocco, to take up his duties as Minister, to make common cause with the other members of the Diplomatic Corps at Tangier, who have decided to make firm representations to Mulai Hafid, the Sultan, to discontinue horrible tortures and mutilations of prisoners such as were practiced recently on the followers of El Roghi, who fell into the hands of the Sultan's troops.

SPAIN TO CONTINUE ADVANCE.

Grandees of Court Serving in Army in Morocco as Privates.

MELILLA, Tuesday, Aug. 24.—Expert opinion has been justified, as it has been found impossible to cut the Marchica Canal in less than four months. Gen. Marina, commander of the Spanish forces, has decided to continue the advance, which began to-day, to Restinga, along the sea front, in spite of the intense heat. The men, however, appear glad that the long suspense is ended. They display excellent spirits. The Duke of Saragossa and the Marquis of Vallecerrato are serving as privates, and are treated in every respect like the men. The Marquis of Vallecerrato traveled direct from Cambridge University to volunteer.

The movement to Restinga is described as a preliminary movement against the Moors. A column composed of a regiment of infantry, two squadrons of cavalry, and a battery of mountain artillery skirted the seacoast under the protection of gunboats and reached Restinga without incident.

The concentration of the whole army will occupy several days, and it is still uncertain when Gen. Marina himself will start for the front. The commissariat is in good shape, but the water supply is a serious problem. Two ships for condensing water are hourly expected.

One effect of the failure to construct the canal will be to limit the amount of artillery accompanying the army, especially quickfirers, as it is impossible with the existing means of communication to provide them with sufficient ammunition.

ACCUSES RUSSIAN LEAGUE.

Man on Trial Says Dr. Dubrovin Sent Five Men to Murder Hertzenstein.

ST. PETERSBURG, Aug. 25.—The trial of the men charged with complicity in the murder in Finland three years ago of Deputy Hertzenstein was resumed at Terioki, Finland, to-day. Among the defendants are Nicholas Yushkevitch-Krasskovsky, a leader of the League of True Russian People, and a workman named Larichkin. Members of the league threatened to create a disturbance and intimidate the Judge, to preserve order a detachment of Finnish police were sent down to Terioki from Viborg.

When Larichkin testified that Dr. Dubrovin bribed and sent to Terioki five members of the League of True Russian People to assassinate Deputy Hertzenstein, the court decided to postpone further proceedings until Sept. 22, and compel Dubrovin to appear. The widow of M. Hertzenstein, who is now abroad, also will be invited to take the stand as a witness.

Larichkin further testified that the fatal shot was fired by a member of the league named Kazantseff, while the organizer of the assassination, Yushkevich, distributed among the members pictures of Hertzenstein, Aladin, and other prominent members of the first Duma, with instructions to kill them.

Yushkevich during the course of his examination declared that he was in no way implicated in the murder. He denied that the league maintained a fighting section, some of the league members being armed merely for self-defense. Larichkin and Yushkevich were taken back to prison pending the next hearing.

FRENCH TRADERS ALARMED.

Represent to Minister of Commerce That Our Tariff Will Injure Them.

PARIS, Aug. 25.—M. Dupuy, Minister of Commerce, to-day received the officers of a committee from the French Foreign Traders' Council, who called attention to the grave apprehension existing in the commercial world on account of the new American tariff.

The delegates insisted that serious injury was likely to result to French traders in certain articles by the date of the tariff's application to France. M. Dupuy replied that the Government was keenly solicitous regarding the question and that his Department was giving it the closest attention.

COLOGNE, Aug. 25.—The Constantinople correspondent of The Cologne Gazette telegraphs that the Turkish Minister of Finance announces that the Government, within ten days, will begin negotiations with the powers relative to increasing the import duties in Turkey from eleven to fourteen per cent.

It is expected that this measure will yield an annual income of 1,000,000 Turkish pounds, after which a loan of 2,000,000 Turkish pounds will be issued.

Notes of Foreign Affairs.

PEKING, Aug. 25.—The Asiatic Squadron of the American Pacific Fleet, under the command of Rear Admiral G. B. Harber, has arrived at Ching Wantao from Japanese waters. Admiral Harber and the various commanders will come up to Peking for an audience with the Regent.

BORDEAUX, France, Aug. 25.—The French police have arrested a Russian student named Gambachidze on the charge of being implicated, together with several revolutionists, in the kidnapping at Tiflis in March, 1908, of the son of a rich merchant, M. Eustafis, for whose return they demanded $15,000 ransom. The student denies complicity and will oppose extradition.

BOAT BREAKS DOWN; FISHERS KEPT AT SEA

Party of Thirty-four Forced to Spend the Night Anchored Off Rockaway Beach.

WOMEN ABOARD HYSTERICAL

But the Men Had a Good Time Spinning Yarns—Old Shipmate to the Rescue.

After spending the night afloat in the motor fishing boat Arion off Rockaway Beach, while their relatives ashore were sending messages to all the life-saving stations in the vicinity, thirty-four men, women, and children landed at St. George, Staten Island, at 11 o'clock yesterday morning, none the worse for their experience.

Capt. Andrew C. I. Iverson, the skipper of the Arion, telling of the experience, said:

"We left the Battery landing at 7:50 yesterday morning for the fishing grounds with thirty-four passengers, of whom three were women and ten children. At about 12:30 we went out to the Ambrose Channel lightship to troll a bit. After the anchor was hove up again about 3:30 to return to New York I discovered that the pumps of one of the auxiliary engines had been damaged, and we could not start the engines.

"By that time the boat had drifted over toward Rockaway Beach, and the water was too deep for us to anchor, so we had to let her drift.

"At 5:30 I found that we were in soundings again close in to Rockaway Beach, and the anchor was dropped for the night. There was plenty of fresh fish on board, and the women cooked it for supper, while the men sat around, smoked, and swapped fishing stories.

"The trouble came when it got dark and the women found that they were to spend the night on board. They shouted and screamed so loud that it is a wonder the people didn't hear us at Rockaway. One woman worked upon her husband's fears so much that he nearly went crazy, and I had to threaten to place him in irons. Ben Stubbs, the deck hand, clanked the handcuffs together and struck them with an iron belaying pin, which had a calming effect on the crowd. When the women were tired out they and the children turned in, while the men lay around the deck.

"At 6 o'clock this morning the steam pilot boat New Jersey saw us and gave us a tow as far as the Ambrose Channel lightship, where we anchored and waited till 9 o'clock, when the tug Emma J. Kennedy came alongside, and her skipper, an old shipmate of mine, towed the Arion to St. George."

AFTER CAPT. KIDD'S TREASURE

New Yorkers with Modern Engineering Devices Go to Oak Island.

HALIFAX, N. S., Aug. 25.—Another attempt to recover the treasure of Capt. Kidd, who terrorized mariners some two centuries ago, which is supposed to be hidden on Oak Island in Mahone Bay, will be made next week by a party of New York men who came here to-day. H. L. Bowoin and M. V. Andrews are the leaders of the treasure seekers, and with them are several others who have at previous times searched for the treasure, so that they will not be without experience in their hunt. A large quantity of apparatus to be used in the search has also arrived here.

This is not the first time seekers for Capt. Kidd's treasure have come to Oak Island. About a quarter of a century ago a mysterious shaft and lettering were discovered on the little island, and the theory was put forth that much gold stolen by the famous Capt. Kidd was buried there. Several companies at different times were financed to dig up the treasure, but all met with disappointment, being forced to give up their search after reaching a certain depth because of the rush of water from below, presumably through a subterranean source from the sea.

In discussing the treasure seekers' method of operation, Mr. Bowoin said:

"If there is anything in the old records which we possess, we will get the treasure. If not, we will have some work without pay. We are going after the treasure from an engineering standpoint, and will not attempt to bail out the ocean as some others of the searchers after the hidden gold have done. We have with us several new inventions in the way of diving apparatus that will make the task easy for us. We have a diving suit in which the man can go down 500 feet, a thing which has not been tried by any other person except myself. I expect to have the treasure inside of two weeks, and if we cannot get it in a month it will be because there is no treasure there."

All the American delegates were guests to-night at a banquet given at the W. D. Miller Club, which was named after the late Prof. Willoughby Dayton Miller of Ohio, who was Dean of the Dental Institute of the Berlin University and Privy Medical Councilor.

An International Committee on Hygiene is being formed, on which W. H. Potter of Boston and Herbert Wheeler and William Carr, both of New York, have been selected to represent America. The committee has power to add to its numbers.

HOLD AMERICAN FOR TRIAL.

James Campbell Accused in London of $10,000 Fraud Little Known Here.

LONDON, Aug. 25.—James Campbell, described as a mining broker of New York, who was remanded Aug. 21 in Liverpool on the charge of obtaining $10,000 under false pretenses, was committed for trial to-day at the Old Bailey.

It appeared from the evidence submitted that Campbell obtained the money in question on an old share certificate of the Norfolk & Western Railroad Company, which has been worthless since the reconstruction of the line in 1896. The magistrate fixed bail in $10,000.

James Campbell, who was held in $10,000 bail in London on a charge of obtaining $10,000 under false pretenses, is little known in this city, and apparently did little business here. He formerly had an office at 231 Broadway, where it was said by other tenants that he was known as a mining engineer and seldom visited his office.

TURKEY THANKS POWERS.

Grateful for Removal of Greek Flag—Says Intentions Are Pacific.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Aug. 25.—The Council of Ministers has approved the draft of a reply to the note of the representatives of the powers, which was submitted on Aug. 18, and which renewed energetic warnings to the Porte against jeopardizing peace by pushing her relations with Greece to extremes. In the reply the Turkish Government expresses gratitude to the powers for their good offices in Crete and in the solution of the flag question, and gives assurances of the constant and pacific intentions of the Porte. It also urges a definite settlement of the Cretan régime.

Regarding the situation in Yemana, a province of Southwestern Arabia, where the Mahdist movement has taken on a revolutionary character, it is announced that the statement that the Porte has asked for the assistance of the British and Italian warships in the Red Sea is incorrect.

Putnam's for September

The theological controversy for which Dr. Eliot's recently published utterances on religious belief have served as the text, gives a special timeliness to the, hitherto unpublished, correspondence between Oliver Wendell Holmes and the Rev. Mr. Parker (not to be confounded with Theodore Parker of the same generation).

The letters of Holmes show his accustomed courage and originality of thought in combating views that were in the early '50's accepted in the New England circle and elsewhere as practically authoritative.

The "Letters to Sanchia" by Maurice Hewlett, that are now in course of publication in PUTNAM'S are accepted as representing some of this author's most delightful imagining. Readers should not miss the two papers in the series brought into print in the September PUTNAM'S on "The Woman's Art" and "The Tramp Testament."

The publishers feel assured that one who reads these papers, who is not familiar with the earlier instalments in the series, will at once send for the back numbers. PUTNAM'S for September contains other striking features—clever stories, and interesting pictures.

It affords me great pleasure to answer your inquiry regarding the results the Stamford Academy for Boys has had from its advertisement in The New York Times. Out of about three hundred and fifty inquiries our school had during the last school year, more than two hundred and fifty came in answer to our advertisement in The Times, while the remainder came in answer to our advertisement in three of the leading magazines and two other New York magazines, and one Brooklyn newspaper, in all of which papers the same advertisement was placed. The same proportion of inquiries prevailed in answer to our advertisement of our Summer Camp, "Camp Liberty."

TAFT TAKES A HAND IN PUBLIC LAND ROW

Demands Facts on Alleged Attempt to Hamper Prosecution in Alaska Coal Leases.

BALLINGER WAS COUNSEL

His Assistant Accused of Balking Inquiry—Coal Deposits Declared to be Worth Almost $1,000,000,000.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 25.—President Taft has finally been drawn into the bitter quarrel between Chief Forester Gifford Pinchot and Secretary of the Interior Richard A. Ballinger. Moved by charges that the Interior Department chiefs had endeavored to cripple the prosecution of the Cunningham conspiracy charges, involving coal lands in Alaska, valued at hundreds of millions of dollars, President Taft has asked the department to furnish him at once with a full record of the case. Secretary Ballinger is personally involved in the inquiry, as he was counsel for the Cunningham interests before he became head of the department.

President Taft is said to have acted on representations made to him by L. S. Glavis, chief of a field division of the Land Office. Mr. Glavis came from the Pacific Coast soon after the Pinchot-Ballinger controversy over water power sites, came into the open at Seattle to lay his information before Mr. Taft. He has been about Beverly for almost a week. Backing him up is Associate Forester Overton W. Price, right-hand man of Chief Forester Pinchot.

Lands of Enormous Value.

As understood here, the charges made by Mr. Glavis are that he was balked at every possible point by the department while pursuing an inquiry into the methods whereby a syndicate headed by Clarence Cunningham had obtained control of 35,000 acres of rich coal land in Alaska. Estimates of the value of this tract run to something less than $1,000,000,000, making the fields one of the richest prizes for exploitation in the world. The lands are situated in the southern and southeastern parts of Alaska, chiefly in and near the Chugach National forest. A conservative estimate of the coal deposits makes the field comparable to that of Pennsylvania.

Mr. Cunningham, according to the charges, in 1902 discovered the coal beds, and in order to secure large holdings associated with himself a number of prospectors and used dummies to file claims. Then having acquired these lands, he merged them into groups, as is allowed under the Alaska mineral act, sometimes with fifty claims in a group. Two years ago he applied for patents to thirty-two of these groups. These applications are still pending before the General Land Office.

It was the combination of claims that started the inquiry to learn if they had been acquired by the use of dummy claimants, who were hired by the central syndicate. Mr. Glavis had the inquiry in charge. His task of proving a conspiracy was not an easy one, for it was necessary to trace the history of each claim, and if possible find the claimant and get evidence of collusion.

Haste Ordered by Pierce.

Mr. Glavis charges that soon after Mr. Ballinger became head of the department, Assistant Secretary Price personally took up the Cunningham case, and soon he was being bombarded with telegrams to make haste in the matter. He reported that he had not been able to get his evidence in shape, and asked more time for a thorough search of the records. More telegrams ordering haste came, and finally he was told to take his evidence to court. He was also informed that "for the sake of expedition" he must go before a special Commissioner instead of the regular one at Juneau, Alaska. The arrangements for this special Commissioner were made by Fred Dennett, Commissioner of the General Land Office.

Fearing that the whole case would fall through if thus handled, Mr. Glavis set to work to bring a crossfire to bear on his superiors. As the coal lands are partly in a forest preserve, he appoached Mr. Pinchot, whose bureau is in the Agricultural Department, and also took the extraordinary step of appealing to the Department of Justice. It is declared that on July 17, the day after the Forestry Bureau became interested, Mr. Glavis was relieved from work on the Alaska cases and an inexperienced young man, Inspector Sheridan, was put in charge. Mr. Glavis gained his point, however, for Attorney General Wickersham took up the matter and ignored Mr. Pierce's orders. An exhaustive inquiry is now under way under the direction of Mr. Wickersham.

Acting Secretary Pierce would say nothing to-day regarding the charges. The intimation was made at the department that President Taft's action in demanding the papers had put it on the defensive, and nothing could be said until a formal report was made.

Mr. Pierce, who is supported by H. H. Schwartz, a chief of field division of the Land Office, has heretofore denied the Glavis charges. He said that Secretary Ballinger had turned he whole matter over to him, and he had done nothing to interfere with the efficient prosecution of the case. Mr. Pierce declares that the order he issued was not to prevent criminal suits against the Cunninghams, but was simply a general regulation governing the consolidation of coal claims under a recent act of Congress. As to having unduly hurried Mr. Glavis, Mr. Pierce and Mr. Schwartz pointed out that the case was still pending, and that dilatoriness rather than undue haste seemed to have become the policy of the department. They declared that Mr. Glavis was still in charge of the inquiry.

A Question of Veracity.

When this reply was brought to the attention of Mr. Price it was learned that in the view of the Forestry Bureau the credit for the continuation of the fight against the Cunninghams was due not to Mr. Pierce's handling of the situation, but to the direct exercise of authority by Attorney General Wickersham and the pressure brought by the Forestry Bureau.

It is further charged by Mr. Price—and this charge is said to have been laid before the President by Mr. Glavis within the past few days—that when A. C. Shaw, law officer in the Forestry Service, was sent West to examine the records of the Land Office, admission to the records was refused. On representations through the head of the department, permission to view all the records except those relating to the alleged insubordination of Mr. Glavis, was finally granted.

That permission was ever denied Forestry officials to see the records other than those relating to the insubordination is sweepingly denied by Mr. Schwartz and Mr. Pierce. When this denial was repeated to Mr. Price he refused to modify his statement.

"Then it is as true as that two and two make four that a grave question of veracity as developed between you and these men?" was asked.

"That two and two make four," was the short reply, "is good arithmetic."

That is the situation before President Taft, and it is more than ever apparent now that he will have one of the bitterest departmental wars on his hands that has worried any Administration in years. That he intends to go to the bottom of the matter is indicated in the frequent private conferences he has had with Mr. Glavis and by his prompt demand for information from the head of the department. Mr. Ballinger is now in the West, but it is thought that the President is in communication with him by wire.

CROWD MENACES PRISONER.

O'Rourke's Coach Had Run Over and Probably Mortally Injured a Boy.

James O'Rourke of 180 Baltic Street, Brooklyn, a coach driver, was in danger of rough treatment in the hands of a crowd in Brooklyn, which had gathered about an injured boy, after the latter had been run down by the coach O'Rourke was driving. The injured boy, George Pampza, is 20 years of age, and lives at 131 Troutman Street, Brooklyn. With several other boys he was returning from Coney Island on his bicycle. He was riding along Eastern Parkway just as O'Rourke, coming up Nostrand Avenue from Holy Cross Cemetery, turned into the boulevard. Before Pampza could get out of the way one of the horses attached to the coach ran into him and he was knocked down. In falling, the boy went directly under the horses' hoofs and the wheels of the carriage also passed over him.

The two women and the men in the coach screamed, and then O'Rourke, evidently becoming frightened when he looked back and saw the boy lying apparently dead on the road, whipped up his horses and dashed along the Parkway to Bedford Avenue, and down that street to Atlantic Avenue, where he was finally caught. A butcher's wagon manned by Herman Swanson and three others joined in the chase after the coach, but the latter was getting away from them when a policeman appeared on the scene and stopped the team. The crowd which had gathered about the injured boy made for O'Rourke when the policeman brought him back to the scene and was in an ugly mood and threatening to attack him when the patrol wagon arrived and took the prisoner away.

The injured lad was hurried to St. John's Hospital, where it is said he was suffering from a fractured skull and internal injuries, and will probably die.

HER FIFTH TRY AT SUICIDE.

Girl Hurls Herself Before Cars Three Times; Twice Attempts Hanging.

Annie Sherman, who is believed to hold the record for the number of unsuccessful attempts to commit suicide, was arrested at Yonkers yesterday for the third time in three years on a charge of attempted self-destruction.

Miss Sherman, who is 20 years of age, made three efforts to kill herself by leaping in front of trolley cars in South Broadway, Yonkers. She was once rescued by Police Captain Brady and twice by W. A. Dietzel, an Inspector of the Yonkers Railroad. After the third attempt yesterday she was locked up at Police Headquarters.

In her cell she tore her skirt into shreds, and, fastening the pieces together, tied them about her neck and tried to hang herself. The police matron, Mrs. M. Byrnes, cut the rope when Annie was half conscious. On reviving, the girl attacked her rescuer. Police Chief Wolff and a half dozen policemen overcame the would-be suicide after a desperate fight.

The girl was disrobed and put in a padded cell, but an hour later she took a handkerchief which she had concealed in her hair, tore it up, and tying the pieces together tried to choke herself. The matron again intervened in time to save her.

Miss Sherman is said to be the daughter of a prominent New York business man. She told the police she lived on 113th Street, Manhattan. Asked why she always chooses Yonkers to try to commit suicide, she replied: "Because Yonkers is a good place to die in."

Her peculiar condition is ascribed to an unhappy love affair three years ago.

WILLCOX ON SUBWAY HALT.

Plenty of Money to Build Them, He Says, When Estimate Board Consents.

Chairman William R. Willcox of the Public Service Commission was back at his desk yesterday for the first time since his month's trip to Europe. In reply to a request that he answer the criticisms directed against the commission for its efforts to have the Broadway-Lexington Avenue route and the Fourth Avenue, Brooklyn, subway route built, Mr. Willcox said:

"When the embargo against their construction is raised by the Board of Estimate there will be no difficulty in getting subway lines built."

As to criticisms of the commission in connection with the routes selected for new subways, Mr. Willcox said:

"This commission is endeavoring to handle the subway problem according to what it believes to be the best good of the city and not according to the ideas of any individual or interest. All the routes laid out by the commission have been approved by the Board of Estimate, and when the contracts are ready the bidding will be open to the whole world.

"All the old routes have been revised, and the present routes, which the Board of Estimate has approved, are the results of such revision, and a subway system that would serve the whole city would now be well under way if the Board of Estimate had not held things up. The contracts submitted for the Fourth Avenue Brooklyn subway have been held up as well as the plans for lengthening the platforms in the Interborough's Subway.

"But the Board of Estimate will find that in the Fall the demand for subway rapid transit will become stronger than ever and the embargo may then be lifted."

"NAGGED," SAYS DAVENPORT.

Cartoonist Answers Wife's Complaint —She Wants $600 a Month Alimony.

Counsel for Mrs. Daisy B. Davenport, who has brought suit in the Supreme Court for a separation from Homer Davenport, the cartoonist, will apply to-day for $600 a month alimony, pending trial, and a counsel fee of $750.

S. I. Frankenstein, counsel for Mr. Davenport, said yesterday that his client's answer would be filed at the same time. He said Mr. Davenport does not deny abandoning his wife on Jan. 14, and gives her "nagging disposition" as his reason.

The answer will say, also, that Mrs. Davenport was jealous of her husband and made false charges against him. Counsel said that Mr. Davenport is willing to pay to his wife alimony of $250 a month.

OPPOSES SHORT LAW COURSES IN NEW YORK

Dean Rogers Tells Bar Association Four of State's Schools Require Only 2 Years' Work.

WILLSON ON NIGHT RIDERS

Kentucky's Governor Says They Will Be Punished in Time by the People's Law.

DETROIT, Aug. 25.—The report of Henry Wade Rogers, Dean of the Yale Law School on Legal Education and Admissions to the Bar, presented to-day at the meeting of the American Bar Association, criticises the conditions in New York State with regard to law schools. Dean Rogers said:

"The anomalous conditions which still continue in the State of New York excite surprise and provoke criticism. Four out of nine schools in that Commonwealth have courses of two years for the LL. D. degree, and a fifth school, while having a three years' course, allows students under exceptional circumstances to graduate in two years. That this should be the case in the Empire State of the Union, which leads all other States in population and wealth, and which is so well supplied with schools, colleges, and universities, occasions comment at home and abroad. More than two-thirds of all the law schools of the United States are now on the three years' basis.

"The State Bar Association, at its meeting in 1901, as is well known, took action looking toward the improvement of conditions in New York. It declared its opinion that candidates for admission to the bar should be required either to have had a course of three years in a law school or of four years in a law office. It also advised the abolition of the rule which allows a college graduate to be admitted to the bar examinations on two years of law study. It appointed a committee of its most eminent members, Gov. Hughes being one, to lay the matter before the Court of Appeals and endeavor to secure the court's consent to a modification of the rules in accordance with the above suggestions.

"The court has thus far failed to take the action recommended. The failure of the court to comply with the recommendation of the State Bar Association in a matter of this kind is a surprise to the profession within and without the State."

Gov. Augustus E. Willson of Kentucky, in a discussion of the opinion of the United States Supreme Court in the case of Crowley against Christiansen, that "liberty is not unrestricted license to act according to one's own will," spoke of the causes which led up to the recent "night rider" troubles in Kentucky and in Tennessee. He read the Chief Justice's admonition to the people:

"You had better burn every barn in the Commonwealth than with uplifted hand in the jury box profane your duties and render an unjust verdict in the name of the law."

The Governor told how this Chief Justice at a conference which Mr. Willson had called of the tobacco growers and buyers had deprecated the use of soldiers in the night riding troubles, declaring that "you cannot push an idea through an Anglo-Saxon's head with a bayonet."

Gov. Willson told of the raids which followed this meeting, the barn burnings, and of the one Kentucky night riding murder, that of Hiram Hedges, a farmer who was killed one night before his door in Nicholas County. The Governor declared that his power had been limited to punishing known offenders. In all the time of the tobacco war, in only a few counties had juries been found that would return indictments against their neighbors who had done the night riding. He said that not more than 300 militiamen had tried to hold back 10,000 organized night riders during the entire trouble.

"My promise to the people that they would need no lawyers if they hurt any one in defense of their homes was kept," said the Governor, "and there will be no pardons for the crimes of pillage, plant scraping, burning, and organized murder. But now the people are coming into their own and I look for trials and convictions, a rare thing up to this time. The politician who parleys with crime in a 'straight American State' like Kentucky will be rebuked instantly and woe will come to him.

"I believe that there can be no renewal of the trouble. The night riders are still unpunished, but no statute of limitations protects them. The murderers of Hiram Hedges are still at large, but the people's law will punish the criminals in time."

The Committee on Judicial Administration and Remedial Procedure to-day filed a report urging a bill regulating the right of appeal to the Supreme Court of the United States from the courts of the District of Columbia. The contention of the committee is that greater rights are accorded District of Columbia litigants than are allowed elsewhere in the United States in that any case of sufficient pecuniary interest from the District of Columbia may be reviewed in the Supreme Court as a matter of course. The committee asks that the same requirements be imposed on District of Columbia courts as on courts of other judicial circuits.

Justice William L. Carpenter of Michigan spoke on "Courts of Last Appeal" before the association at the night session. He urged Judges to assume a more attentive attitude in court and encourage lawyers to make fair statements. Prof. Harold D. Hazeltine of Emmanuel College, Cambridge University, England, read a paper before the Association of American Law Schools to-night on legal education in England.

Charles Noble Gregory, Dean of Iowa State University's College of Law, and President of the Association of American Law Schools, also spoke.

A meeting of the Committee on Patent, Trademark, and Copyright Law was held this afternoon. It was recommended that the bill for the establishment of a United States Court of Patent Appeals, now awaiting enactment by Congress, receive the full attention of the committee and active support for its passage. The bill has been pending two years.

BEATEN FOR OLD GRUDGE.

Ambulance Driver Attacked in Garage —Assailant Arrested After Chase.

A row between two Flower Hospital ambulance drivers reached its climax at noon yesterday when John J. Mayer was severely beaten by Harry Murphy and two companions. The affair took place in the hospital garage, where Mayer was at work, when Murphy and his friends set upon him. Mayer's cries brought several of the doctors from the hospital, who found Mayer only half conscious.

The assailants fled, but were followed by Dr. Charles Barton until they jumped on a Lexington Avenue car at Sixty-fourth Street. Dr. Barton also boarded the car, whereupon Murphy jumped off and ran into the house at 140 East Sixty-first Street and dashed upstairs, frightening the Hartwig family, the caretakers.

Dr. Barton and Policeman August Hovorka made a search of the house, and Murphy was finally found hidden in a wardrobe on the top floor. He was locked up in the Thirty-first Precinct Station house.

There Mayer identified the prisoner after his wounds had been dressed at the hospital. Mayer said that Murphy had threatened to "do him up."

Mayer is one of the head ambulance drivers at the hospital. He lives at 170 Spring Street. Murphy's attack, it was said, was for revenge upon Mayer for having complained to the hospital authorities about Murphy's conduct. Dr. Barton said Murphy had been discharged for reckless driving and vicious conduct.

Magistrate Cornell held Murphy for trial in Special Sessions.

WOMAN HELD AS SMUGGLER.

Jewelry and Other Things Concealed on Miss McKee of Harrisburg, Penn.

Miss Catherine McKee, a middle-aged woman of Harrisburg, Penn., and a second cabin passenger on the White Star liner Oceanic, was stopped yesterday morning as she was leaving the steamer, and dutiable goods were found on her person valued at $600 to $1,000.

Miss McKee made out her declaration on the ship, in which she stated that her purchases abroad amounted to less than the $100 allowed by law. Owing to information given to the Inspectors by some one on board the woman was taken to a cabin and searched by a woman Inspector, who found several diamond rings, earrings, women's gloves, and other articles concealed beneath her clothing. She was taken to the Custom House, where Collector Loeb ordered her arrest.

Later Miss McKee was arraigned before United States Commissioner Shields in the Federal Court and held in $1,000 bail for the Grand Jury. Bail was furnished by Mrs. Anna M. Shaw of 82 South Elliott Place, Brooklyn, where Miss McKee is now staying.

Miss McKee told the reporters that she owned considerable property in Harrisburg and was a real estate dealer in that city.

"The jewelry that was found upon me is my own property," she said indignantly, "and I can prove that the rings and earrings were in my possession when I sailed this Summer for Europe. The reason I did not wear them was on account of rheumatism in my fingers, so I pinned them to my clothing for safety."

APPEAL IN GAS REBATE SUIT.

Mr. Pendleton Alleges That Lacombe's Order Violates Supreme Court Ruling.

Corporation Counsel Pendleton yesterday filed an appeal from the decision of Judge Lacombe of the United States Circuit Court ordering that the unclaimed balances of gas rebates, amounting to about $100,000, deposited with the Court by the Northern Gas Company and the Standard Gas Light Company should be paid over to the companies concerned under bond to protect claimants who might turn up in future.

Corporation Counsel Pendleton alleges in his appeal that this order is contrary to the ruling of the United States Supreme Court that the United States Circuit Court should retain all money held against the claims of customers of the gas companies under the eighty-cent gas law.

He also declares that there has come from the Special Master appointed to handle the rebates no statement of the amount of money paid into his hands by the gas companies, or of the expenses of distribution and of the balance on hand.

Judge Lacombe's order, Mr. Pendleton says finally, is improvident, premature, and illegal.

Investigating Leader March's Agency.

The investigation being made by the Bureau of Licenses of the March Labor Agency of 231 Lafayette Street, following charges made by John H. Mooney of 5 Oliver Street, was begun yesterday morning before the Deputy Commissioner of Licenses and adjourned until Friday morning, when a decision as to the advisability of withdrawing the agency's license may be given. James E. March, Republican leader of the Third Assembly District, is interested in the agency.

Subway Expresses Delayed.

The power connections of a southbound West Farms Subway express became disordered at the Seventy-second Street Station soon before 8:30 o'clock yesterday morning, and the train went slowly to the Brooklyn Bridge, where it was sidetrackedfor fifteen minutes for repairs. Southbound passengers were advised at express stops to proceed down town on locals, as the expresses were six minutes behind time.

Held for Attack on Sister-in-Law.

Joseph Robins of 101 West Ninety-third Street, the man who knocked down his wife's sister, Sophia Reingewirtz of 142 West Eighty-third Street, yesterday as he left the Tombs, after serving a twenty-day sentence, was before Magistrate Barlow, in the Tombs Court, on a charge of assault. The woman tried to serve a Supreme Court order on Robins as he left the prison door, and it is charged he struck her full in the face. He was held this morning in $500 bail for Special Sessions.

LESS RENT FOR CAR LINES.

Metropolitan Receivers Make a New Contract with the Crosstown Co.

The Public Service Commission has issued an order approving an agreement entered into by the Central Crosstown Railroad Company, owning the Eighth and Fourteenth Street Crosstown lines, and the receivers of the Metropolitan Street Railway Company, whereby the receivers will continue to operate the two lines pending the permanent reorganization of the Metropolitan system.

By this the receivers are released from the obligation to pay the Central Crosstown Railroad Company a dividend of 15 per cent. upon the outstanding capital stock, amounting to $90,000 per year. They are further released from the obligation to pay the interest on the three-year notes of the Central Crosstown Railroad Company. These notes bear interest at 5 per cent. and have a par value of $2,250,000—a yearly charge of $112,500. The franchise tax is also to be paid by the Central Crosstown Company.

The agreement is to continue in force until the close of the receivership of the Metropolitan Street Railway Company and may be cancelled at an earlier date by either party upon thirty days' notice. The new arrangement also reduces the rental paid by the receivers of the Metropolitan Street Railway Company approximately $120,000.

Oriental Rugs—A Sale!

We Want All New Yorkers---and Their Friends---to Know More About Our Grasp of Oriental Rugs.

Third Floor.

When we approach Oriental Rugs we approach them as merchants—with the trading instinct in control—as buyers and sellers—not as artists. We pay as little as we can for them—charge as little as we can. That's not the way they are usually sold. All who habe bought Oriental Rugs in roundabout promiscuous stores know what we are driving at.

Many fine specimens are here. Aside from their money value, they possess an imaginary and sentimental value—vying in prestige with rare paintings and porcelains. The beauty of the designs—and their mystery. The charm of the colors—and their daring. Both are rich in artistic interest. Look at the fields and their inner, middle and outer borders. The decorative effect of stained glass windows in old cathedrals. What do the picturings suggest? Mosques, fragments of columns, pillars, pendants, panels, antique lamps, jars, urns, palm-leaf, stars, shells, bouquets, floriated medallions, blossoms, arabesques, geometrical figures and mosaic-work in jewel and floral tints—ruby, turquoise, topaz, lilacs, mauvre, rose, hyacinth, orange, Egyptian red and cobalt blue.

They are from strange lands—brought over by us to enhance the splendor of American homes. Meanwhile, from prices that were originally more than moderate, we have made remarkable reductions. Details follow:

Progress

To utilize Nature's forces for the economy of man's time and strength, that's Progress. As Fulton applied steam to navigation, so is Nature's mystic force — electricity — man's three armed servant. It gives the most brilliant artificial light—the power to turn the wheels of industry, and the most intense heat. Electric current will be supplied for decorative purposes during the Hudson-Fulton celebration at 5c per kilowatt hr.

BENSEL'S BOOMERS SEEK MURPHY'S AID

T. J. Curtis, Labor Leader Member of The Hundred, Wants Water Board Head for Mayor.

CITY CONVENTION SEPT. 30

Tammany Leader Sure of 363 Delegates Out of 646—The Hundred Surprised by Curtis's Visit.

The Conference Committee, representing the Democratic organization in the four counties in New York City, met at the Democratic Club last night and settled on Sept. 30 as the date for the City Convention. The convention will be held at Carnegie Hall and will be called to order at 7:30 o'clock in the evening.

Contrary to expectation there was no discussion of Mayoralty candidates, even informal. But after the meeting had adjourned Tammany Leader Charles F. Murphy, in an interview, made his very first statement this year in reference to candidates. This was in reply to questions regarding a visit to Tammany Hall earlier in the day of Thomas J. Curtis, of the Central Federated Union and member of the Executive Committee of the Committee of One Hundred.

Owing to his connection with an anti-Tammany body Mr. Curtis set curiosity on tip toe through his call on the Tammany chieftain, with whom he conferred for quite some time behind closed doors. Last night, when asked if he had anything to say regarding the visit, Mr. Murphy asked:

"Do you want to know on what business Mr. Curtis called?"

When this question was answered in the affirmative the Tammany leader leaned back in his armchair and said:

"Well, Mr. Curtis came to recommend the consideration of a Mayoralty candidate—President John A. Bensel of the Board of Water Supply. He was accompanied by two other labor men, who indorsed Mr. Bensel highly. No, I didn't understand that Mr. Curtis and his friends came as representatives of the Committee of One Hundred or any other organization, but in their individual capacity. The interview had been arranged some time in advance."

Bensel Murphy's Friend.

"What did you tell them?" Mr. Murphy was asked.

"Mr. Bensel is a good friend of mine; what do you suppose I told them?" said Mr. Murphy. "But I suppose that information had better come from them."

Mr. Curtis could not be found last night, and who the friends who accompanied him were could not be learned. Mr. Murphy said he did not remember their names.

"Does this mean that there will be fusion between Tammany Hall and the Committee of One Hundred?" Mr. Murphy was asked.

"It will mean fusion with the three," said the Tammany leader with a laugh. He seemed hugely pleased either with his day or with his joke.

Mr. Murphy said he had received no recommendations on behalf of Judge Gaynor's candidacy from the latter's friends in Brooklyn or from the members of the Conference Committee representing Kings County. In fact, Mr. Murphy said, the question of candidates had not been brought up at all. The Conference Committee had not been vested with power to take up this subject.

When asked whether he thought Tammany Hall would take on District Attorney Jerome, Mr. Murphy gave the stereotyped answer familiar in other campaigns that "the delegates to the County Convention will settle that." The date of this convention will be fixed at a meeting of the Tammany Hall General Committee this evening.

But Not Murphy's Choice.

The name of Commissioner Bensel has been of frequent recurrence in the early Mayoralty gossip. It is not believed, however, that he is Mr. Murphy's candidate. They are very friendly, Mr. Murphy having known Commissioner Bensel since the days when the Tammany leader was Treasurer of the Dock Department, and Mr. Bensel was its chief engineer.

Since then Mr. Bensel has been Dock Commissioner himself. He occupied that post at the time Mayor McClellan appointed him to the more important and highly paid position of President of the Board of Additional Water Supply, which is supervising the construction of the Ashokan dam in the Catskills. He is highly thought of by organized labor.

Commissioner Bensel occupies the unique position in Tammany politics of being a close friend and adviser of Mayor McClellan at the same time as he is friendly with Tammany Leader Murphy.

At the headquarters of the Committee of One Hundred, the report of the visit paid by Mr. Curtis to Tammany Hall was received with anything but pleasure. Chairman Outerbridge of that organization promptly entered a denial to a suggestion that Mr. Curtis may have gone to Tammany Hall as the Committee's representative.

"Neither Mr. Curtis, nor any other member of this Committee has been delegated to confer with any other organization upon any subject whatever. I cannot credit the report," said Mr. Outerbridge.

The Democratic Conference Committee is composed of five members from every county organization in the city. The delegation from New York County is composed of Mr. Murphy and his closest advisors. The delegation from Kings was drawn from the so-called harmony committee, which was appointed to moderate the differences between the McCarren forces and the anti's in Brooklyn—all with one exception, Thomas F. Wogan, who is a McCarren district leader. The delegation from Queens is divided between the friends of Borough President Lawrence Gresser and supporters of former Borough President Joseph Cassidy, who are rivals for the Democratic leadership in that county. Here is the full membership:

The Committee's Make-Up.

NEW YORK—Charles F. Murphy, Daniel F. Cohalan, J. Sergeant Cram, Eugene J. McGuire, and Michael J. Garvin.

KINGS—Augustus Van Wyck, Edward M. Shepard, Bernard J. York, Richard W. Bainbridge, and Thomas F. Wogan.

QUEENS—P. J. Mara, Borough President Lawrence Gresser, Sheriff H. S. Harvey, Herman Hicks, and Henry Walters.

RICHMOND—Charles J. McCormack, Eugene Lamb Richards, M. W. Murphy, William Ragelstein, and R. G. Tompkin.

At the Conference Committee meeting a resolution introduced by Mr. Wogan providing that the basis of representation in the City Convention be one delegate for every five hundred Democratic votes cast in the last election, and that the Assembly district be the unit of representation, was adopted. This will give Mr. Murphy 363 delegates as against 283 from the boroughs outside of Manhattan and the Bronx, sufficient to insure easy control of the convention by Tammany Hall.

A sub-committee of five composed of Daniel F. Cohalan, Augustus Van Wyck, Sheriff Harvey, Eugene J. McGuire, and Eugene Lamb Richards was appointed to make all the preliminary arrangements for the convention.

The Committee of Candidates of the Committee of One Hundred held a meeting last night in the headquarters of the committee in the Fifth Avenue Building to consider a large number of names of candidates which have been suggested from various quarters.

UP TO THE GRAND JURY.

Jersey Attorney General Says He Can't Go Further in Atlantic City.

Special to The New York Times.

TRENTON, N. J., Aug. 25.—That Attorney General Wilson does not intend to make any further move toward putting on the lid in Atlantic City was shown here this afternoon when he said that he was powerless under the law to do more than issue the notification under the law of 1902. He was careful to explain that the enforcement of the law rests with the Atlantic County Grand Jury, but refused to give any opinion as to what that body would do with the complaints. He said:

"I have done all that I can do. There is no further duty put on me by the statute, or further power given under the statute or the common law. When these gentlemen who are opposing conditions in Atlantic City came here they brought with them affidavits stating with much particularity the offenses committed against the Sunday laws in Atlantic City. It was not necessary in my judgment, for even this presentation of affidavit, but it made their case stronger. I read those affidavits, and immediately issued the notification to the officials in Atlantic City informing them that it was their duty within ten days of the receipt of the notification upon information and belief, even without further investigation, but acting on the affidavits of the gentlemen who came here, to proceed to arrest the offenders complained of and bring these offenses to the attention of the Atlantic County Grand Jury, which is the only body having jurisdiction in such matters there.

"The gentlemen took the notification and asked me not to tell anything about it until they had made service. That is why I have been reticent and news from this office has not been officially given out. I cannot force the officials of Atlantic City to do their duty. Under the notification self-acting, they are liable for indictment for misdemeanor if they do not obey within ten days, but this indictment must come from the Atlantic County Grand Jury. I do not know what that body will do. It is not in session now, I believe.

GO HOME WITH THEIR DEAD.

Mrs. and Miss McLean Carried to Train—Hurt in Auto Crash.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., Aug. 25.—The bodies of George A. McLean, Sr., and his son, George McLean, Jr., who were killed in an automobile accident between this place and Metuchen last Saturday, were taken to Chicago to-day for burial on a special car attached to the Western express.

Accompanying the bodies were Mrs. McLean and Miss Dorothy McLean, widow and daughter of George A. McLean, both of whom were injured in the accident. Mrs. McLean was taken to the train in an invalid's chair, while the daughter, whose arms were broken, was conveyed on board in a cot.

The Misses Jeannette and Harriet MacDonald, nieces of Mrs. McLean, who were also in the accident, are still in St. Peter's Hospital here and will be unable to leave for several weeks.

FEARS DISEASE FROM HIDES.

Veterinarian Declares That Deadly Bacilli Will Be Imported.

Special to The New York Times.

ITHACA, N. Y., Aug. 25.—By placing hides on the free list, Congress opened the door for diseases which will threaten both cattle and humans, was the declaration of Dr. James Law, for many years director of the New York State Veterinary College, in an address to the New York State Veterinary Society which is holding its convention here.

Importation of hides, he said, would pave the way for the introduction of the anthrax germ and other dangerous baccilli into this country, as hides will come from many countries in which cattle diseases were frequent. Unless stringent measures were taken to have all imported hides thoroughly disinfected the danger would be great. He said he had written to Congressman Dwight and others but to no avail.

SWINDLES CHAUFFEURS.

Elusive Hotel Guest Got $150 to $200 Apiece from Four Applicants for Job.

Several chauffeurs in the city are out somewhere between $150 and $200 today as a result of trying to get employment with a guest of the Imperial Hotel. That many more chauffeurs did not part with their money is due to the suspicions of a clerk of the hotel who asked the Central Detective Office to investigate the matter.

The guest registered as coming from Tampa, Fla. He advertised for a chauffeur and a number of applicants for the job applied at the hotel desk for the man. One of the applicants mentioned to the clerk that he expected to become the guest's chauffeur, adding that the man wanted him to give him $200 as security before clinching the bargain.

At this the hotel management ordered an investigation, and the house detective discovered that the guest's trunks were all marked with other initials than those of his name on the register, also that his trunks were marked New York instead of Tampa. Then the Detective Bureau assigned Detective Brown to the case, and he was within hearing when the chauffeur had an interview with the guest.

At this meeting the chauffeur told the man he was willing to put up the $200, but wanted to know more about his employer.

"Why," said the man, "everybody around here knows me. I've been coming to this hotel for twelve years." He added that he owned a number of houses in Fifth Avenue. This statement was found to be false, and the hotel books showed that the man had never before been a guest there.

The chauffeur did not put up the $200, asking the man to let him consider the matter for a day. Shortly after this the guest paid his bill and left the hotel, and hasn't been heard from since.

Two evenings ago, however, four men inquired at the hotel for the man, each saying that he had been employed as his chauffeur.

In reply to a question, one of the chauffeurs said that he had paid the man $150 as security. He, with the other three applicants, were referred to the police. They told the detectives that they had called on the man at another hotel, where they had made arrangements to work for him. By accident they had learned that each was looking for the same job and each had paid from $150 to $200 as security.

HOLD TAPPAN IN AUTO CASE.

Though Still in the Hospital He Is Charged with Reckless Driving.

Archibald D. Tappan of Glen Cove, L. I., who had his upper and lower jaw, his right thigh, and several ribs fractured when his automobile, which he was driving, collided with a passenger train at the Winfield crossing of the Long Island Railroad on the night of July 17, is on the road to recovery, and yesterday a complaint of reckless driving was made against him before Magistrate Gilroy in the Long Island City Police Court. The injured man was paroled in the custody of his uncle, Ward Dixon, a real estate operator of 46 Murray Street, Manhattan, who has a country home in Glen Cove.

Even since the accident, in which Deputy Sheriff Edward Hurley of Glen Cove, who was one of the automobiling party, was killed and Allan Perry was badly hurt, young Tappan has been under arrest in the Long Island College Hospital. His physicians say that he is now able to leave his cot.

It is understood that as soon as he can stand the journey he will be removed to his home in Glen Cove.

FIGHT OVER JEWELRY REWARD

Police Surrender Mortimer Gems to Avoid Attachment by the Finder.

Police Capt. James F. Larkins of Jersey City said yesterday that he had turned over to Dreicer & Co., jewelers, of 560 Fifth Avenue, Manhattan, the $50,000 worth of gems that were found on an Erie ferryboat by an Italian, which were subsequently recovered by the Jersey City police.

The jewelry was lost by Richard Mortimer, the Wall Street banker, who is said to be in Newport. Although notified by Capt. Larkins that the gems were being held for him, Mr. Mortimer failed to send or come for them, and Capt. Larkins turned them over to Dreicer & Co., and obtained a receipt.

Capt. Larkins says he gave up the jewels because he heard that an attachment against them had been got out to restrain him from surrendering them and that if this had been served in time there would have been a long delay before the owner of the jewels could have obtained possession. The attachment was obtained, Capt. Larkins says, by Assistant Corporation Attorney John Newton, as counsel for Tony Loori, an Italian, who alleges that he gave the information to the police that resulted in the recovery of the jewels and claims the reward of $5,000 offered for their return. The attachment was served on Capt. Larkins yesterday, but too late, as he had already placed the jewelry in the care of Dreicer & Co. He says that no reward was paid, a share of which is claimed by detectives and other persons.

I., must hereafter take the choice of going without their usual Sunday mail or miss the Sunday morning church services. Until recently the Post Office was kept open Sundays from 9 to 10 A. M. Mrs. Barger Wallach and Partner First

Special to The New York Times.

NEWPORT, R. I., Aug. 25.—At the Casino this afternoon the finals were played in the mixed doubles, attracting a large number of spectators. Mrs. Barger Wallach and G. P. Gardner won from Miss Eleanor Sears and Melville Long. Mrs. Barger Wallach played in the form she did a year ago and was accurate in her strokes. Miss Sears, on the other hand, was not always the careful player she has the record of being, and in the closing set she made a number of cuts. G. P. Gardner and Melville Long played a steady game.

In the second set Mr. Gardner and Mrs. Wallach gave a poor exhibition, while at the same time Miss Sears played cleverly. The result was that Mrs. Wallach and Mr. Gardner did not score a game, and the other pair simply ran away from them. Later Mrs. Wallach played brilliantly. Summary:

MAY RIVER UPHOLDS SARATOGA RECORD

R. T. Wilson's Gelding Captures His Third Bracket for Spa Meeting.

THREE IN A HEAD FINISH

Scarpia Wins the High Money Race of the Day—Two Jockeys Suspended for Rest of Meeting.

Special to The New York Times.

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N. Y., Aug. 25.—May River, first in a head finish by three horses after a run from last place in the final quarter of a mile, earned an unbeaten record for the meeting to-day when he won the mile handicap.

It was May River's third start, in an unbeaten series of victories here, with his record of triumphs running through the Yonkers meeting. The gelding, carrying the colors of R. T. Wilson, Jr., President of the Saratoga Association, and ridden by the stable jockey, trailed the field of five horses to the head of the stretch. On the last turn, May River began to move up, but his jockey hesitated whether to go up on the rail or around the field, and May River zigzagged in and out before Creevy finally took to the outside, and came on with May River in a rush through the last quarter, winning by a nose, with Zienap and Danoscara second and third, so close together that only the judges could separate them, in 1:38 3-5.

Scarpia won the Adirondack Handicap after sticking to the pace set by Big Stick to the turn into the stretch, went on there and won, hustled out, by a length and a half from Chickasaw, which was the best horse in the race and closing from far back in the crowd.

Rufus was a heavily backed favorite of the four horses that ran in the steeplechase handicap, and though he sprawled badly in landing at the water jump, none of his opponents was disposed to get out after him, and Rufus led from end to end, the Wilson rider of the finished Ballacalla galloped his horse over the course under a strong pull, about one field behind Rufus, and never let the horse down until they were on the flat at the finish, and Rufus was about on the winning post.

Jockeys Leach and Davenport were suspended for the remainder of the meeting by the starter for misbehavior at the post in the first race. Summary:

Whitney Horses Unfairly Handicapped

LONDON, Aug. 25.—The sporting editor of The Tatler, a weekly paper, complains in the current issue that the horses H. P. Whitney has been racing in England this Summer have been unfairly handicapped. The writer does not blame the officials on being severe on the best horses, as they are justified in "refusing to risk the blunder of allowing a foreigner to win a handicap when he is underhandicapped," but he does blame them for "totally unjustifiable and unfair handicapping of middle-class horses such as Perseus II., Sixty II., Hillside III., Stamina, Baby Wolf, and Seacliff." Continuing, the writer points out that those of Mr. Whitney's horses which have not won, but which have run well, have been put up in the scale, whereas certain English horses were favored in the subsequent handicapping. The wholesale scratching of Mr. Whitney's horses at Stockton, the writer infers, was Mr. Whitney's form of silent protest.

NEW WORLD'S MARKS BY HAMBURG BELLE

THEN REPEATS IN 2:01¼

Fastest Time Ever Made in a Race, and Average of Two Heats Supplants Sweet Marie's Record.

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Aug. 25.—Hamburg Belle defeated Uhlan in two straight heats in their match race at North Randall track to-day, and also set a new world's record for a trotting race and for the fastest two heats ever trotted.

The new record for a mile is 2:01¼, and was made in the first heat of the race. The former record of 2:03¼ was held by Cresceus. The stallion made the mark in a match race with The Abbot at Brighton Beach, New York, in August, 1901.

Sweet Marie formerly held the record for the fastest two heats trotted, having made a mile in 2:04¾ and 2:03¾ at Syracuse, N. Y., Sept. 12, 1896. Hamburg Belle's time is 2:01¼ and 2:01¾.

The betting at first was at even money, but when the pools first opened the Hamburg Belle money came in a stream. Finally the Uhlan backers became so scarce that the odds dropped to $25 to $15 in favor of Hamburg Belle.

Hamburg Belle got away with a head advantage at the start. She drew away from Uhlan until she was a length ahead at the quarter pole. Uhlan sped up in the next quarter, and at the half he was but a neck behind Hamburg Belle, but the mare came home a winner by a head.

In the second heat Hamburg Belle got away a neck ahead, and lengthened her lead to a length in the first quarter, which she made in 0:30¾. Uhlan spurted at the turn, but a few feet from the half pole as quarter boots slipped down, causing him to break. After losing 100 yards Driver Proctor got the horse on his feet, when the boot slipped further down, caught in Uhlan's shoe, and pulled it off, causing the horse to come limping home, distanced and defeated.

Morning Star, the fourteen-year-old pacer, won the free-for-all event, and incidentally lowered his record to 2:04. Roseacheek was the favorite in the race, but she could not keep her feet.

Lou Dillon was led into the track today, but was only shown in harness.

Sister Frances, owned by John E. Madden, got a mark of 2:11¼ in a race for records. Summaries:

Conqueror of Uhlan Sold to H. M. Hanna—E. H. Harriman Buys Trotter.

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Aug. 25.—Immediately after the first heat of the race today Hamburg Belle was sold to H. M. Hanna of this city for $50,000 by Edward and Joseph Madden, owners of the mare and sons of John E. Madden. Mr. Hanna will permit the mare to finish her season, including the series of races of two best in three between the mare and Uhlan. The race to-day counts as one of the races. The second will be trotted at Readville, Mass., Sept. 3, and if it is necessary to have a third race the meeting will be selected later. The weather was ideal to-day, and the new track was lightning fast.

An agent for E. H. Harriman bought Granett, a green trotting mare, which has worked a mile in 2:12, of Joseph Lesh of Goshen, Ind., at the track for $4,000. Mr. Harriman will use the mare for driving purposes.

MAY RUN VANDERBILT RACE.

M. C. A. Making Canvass to See If Manufacturers Are Interested.

H. E. Coffin, Chairman of the General Rules Committee of the Manufacturers' Contest Association, has notified auto makers of the country that a race for the Vanderbilt Cup will be held during the latter part of October if a sufficient number of entries to insure its success is pledged on or before Sept. 1. A hasty canvass of the situation is now being made by telegraph from the office of the Assistant Secretary and Treasurer of the M. C. A. The following statement was issued yesterday:

"If the makers guarantee the minimum number of entries required the race will be conducted by a new association formed pursuant to the A. C. A.-A. A. A. peace agreement, which association will assume the custody of both the Vanderbilt Cup and the Grand Prize Cup. The actual incorporation of this holding body will take place when the Vanderbilt race of this year is assured. In its membership are men of National importance in automobile matters.

"By a change in the deed of gift the Vanderbilt Cup will become one for stock chassis competition under piston displacement classifications, recommended by the Manufacturers' Contest Association.

"If the Vanderbilt race is held it will be run over the part of the Long Island Motor Parkway used in the cup event of 1908, with probably the same county and town roads. There is a possibility of the course being shortened by about four miles. This would greatly simplify the matter of proper guarding and enhance the event from a spectator's standpoint. The race, if held, will be under the sanction of the A. A. A."

Jones Through with Baseball.

CHICAGO, Aug. 25.—A special from Portland, Ore., to The Record-Herald says:

"Fielder Jones will not manage the Washington team next year. Neither will he manage the St. Louis Club, as has been announced. This story about my becoming half owner of the St. Louis Browns is a mistake,' he said. 'I am not after any team, either to own or to manage. I have timber interests in the Northwest that keep me busy, and that also bring me in as much money as any baseball team could do.'"

Utica Turns Out for Baseball.

UTICA, N. Y., Aug. 25.—The final game in the series between Utica and Wilkesbarre in the New York State League, which was played here this afternoon, developed an unparalleled situation in this city. The largest weekday crowd in the history of baseball was in attendance. Very many of the big industries in the city and in suburban places closed down and firms in some instances presented tickets of admission to each employe and furnished special cars for their transportation to the baseball park. Retail stores on the principal streets were closed.

GIANTS BEAT PIRATES IN BRILLIANT GAME

Pound Maddox Out of the Box in Second—Final Score, 3 to 2.

MATTY IN EXCELLENT FORM

Keeps Buccaneers In the Rear After Clarke Sends Phillippi In—Wagner Tries to Fight.

Talk about Garrison finishes—the Snapper in his snappiest days wouldn't have been a gingersnap alongside the hurricane wind-up Mathewson and his support pulled off on the Polo Grounds yesterday. The Giants beat the Pirates 3 to 2, because the heavy stickers of the home team, including Matty, swept like a sirocco on bewildered Maddox in the second inning, hitting him five times for three runs, and then Christy and chorus in the final slammed the lifting lid down again and clamped the screws on it just as Pittsburg was about to break out of the ruck.

It was a finish to make the blood surge to a man's brain and churn his thoughts into one fierce desire to see the Buccaneers go over the side by the plank route. Manager Fred Clarke of the league leaders opened that last round with a two-bagger to the left bleachers, and went to third on a wild pitch that was Matty's sole battery error. He got to third with only one down, after narrowly escaping being doubled up off second, but, with a single run needed to tie, that was the limit of poor Frederick's sprinting powers. He died at the plate on Devlin's splendid snapback of Miller's Baltimore chop, and Abstein, increasingly furious as the Big Fellow slipped them over and under his bat, ended the struggle by striking out.

Thrilling enough, that ninth. Had the van of the pennant procession depended on it, the 12,000 spectators would have carried Mathewson off the field. As it was, they turned their faces homeward in a tumult of delight. It was like the good old days when General John J. McGraw and his cohorts were sweeping everything before them. The victory gave more satisfaction than could the capture of both ends of a double-header from any other team save Chicago. Every man, woman, and child in that good-sized crowd was just a-honing to see Pittsburg beaten after the lacing the Freebooters gave Raymond in the last half of Tuesday's dual event.

Then, too, there was a large measure of gratification at the demonstration that Matty was as good as ever was. Christy fanned only two batsmen, but he kept the ball inside or close to the diamond most of the time. Precisely five outs went to the outfield in addition to a chance Seymour missed. Ten smoky Citizens reached first base—five on safeties, two on force hits, one on a choice, and two on errors. Six of them got to second, four to third. Of the two who completed the circuit, neither had Matty to thank, as Bi's muff accounted for one run and Merkle's failure to hold Christy's perfect throw largely was responsible for Pittsburg's second tally.

The afternoon embraced an incident never known to happen before—somebody got Wagner's goat. That somebody was Arlie Latham, and though it looked at one time as if he would have to fight the Flying Dutchman in the clubhouse if not on the field, the veteran coacher came off winner in the wordy encounter. Hans flied to Doyle in the fourth and plainly was disappointed because Larry's good catch robbed him of a leaguer. That man Doyle is everywhere these days, in the field as well as on the bases. Latham guyed Wagner on the famous shortstop's failure to make a hit. Father Honus retorted peevishly, whereupon Arlie called him a "sassy old wench." Thereupon Hans amazed everybody, especially those who thought they knew him well. Returning from the field, he slewed over to the home bench, shaking his fist at Latham. Arlie laughed at him and that made Wagner mad.

"Come out here, will you?" begged Hans, swinging a fist the size of a ham and resting another giant paw on the roof of the players' shed.

"Aw, g'wan," jerred Arlie. "You wouldn't do anything if I did."

"All right—I'll meet you in the clubhouse," said Hans, threateningly, as he turned away.

"No you won't," cried Latham. "The only place anybody can meet you is in the bank counting your money." Whereupon Hank O'Day strolled over and gently but firmly led Hans away.

Maddox was the lamb the Giants slaughtered as a sacrifice to the gods of war. There would have been choice bits for all nine of the gods if Freddie Clarke hadn't got the hook for his swarthy boxman after two rounds and sent Phillippi in to shackle New York's rungetters. Phillippi allowed three scattered safties in six innings, while Matty, he walked nobody. In fact, even Maddox issued just one pass, and no pitcher hit a batsman. But McGraw's men didn't have to rap the substitute twirler. They had all the counts they needed, for it was evident every last man of them was resolved to keep the Pirates from tieing if it took a leg.

Hardly had the applause for Mathewson's appearance in the box died away, when Byrne, having died at first, Leach singled cleanly to centre, and stole second. O'Hara smothered Clarke's fly, but Seymour failed to do as much for Wagner's, with the result that Clarke came in from the midway and Hans got a life on the error. But the Dutchman for once didn't fly fast enough in a try for second, and the Chief clipped his wings with a beautiful shoot to Doyle. New York's half of the first was a procession, Wagner making two catches in truly Wagnerian style. So was Pittsburg's part of the second. But when next the Giants went to bat, there was something doing almost from the start.

O'Hara, in that round, popped weakly to Merkle. The sigh that went up swelled to a shriek of triumph as Devlin jammed the ball to the far corner of Clarkeville for two bases. Arthur advanced when Bridwell's out, and tied the score on Merkle's double that was a duplicate of his. Meyers, fairly burning for one good swing, was walked by the cautious Maddox. A wild pitch having put Merkle on third, that runner counted when Matty slashed through Abstein's station for a hook. Meyers alertly going to third on the hit. The Chief registered on Doyle's single to centre.

There followed a play that showed the eternal vigilance of McGraw's field generalship. Seymour hit to right for a bag, and Matty might have scored on it. But Manager John stopped his star pitcher at third, fearing Christy would be blown by a dash for the plate or hurt in a slide. Doyle assumed Mac would send Matty in, so he continued running until he found himself on third with the Big Fellow. Then, too late, Larry started back. Gibson pivoting Wilson's return to Miller for a put-out of Doyle at the far turn. McGraw figured it was better to lose the run than to risk having Matty so bad in that stage of the contest. Christy's fine twirling through the remainder of the game proved the wisdom of his pilot's course.

In the sixth Merkle's muff of Matty's throw when Byrne bumped him gave the batter a base. Leach forced Bobby, but went to third on Clarke's hit. Wagner picked his spot for a sacrificial grounder and died, Bridwell to Merkle, Tommy scoring. Then Miller went out the same way, and ciphers were all the blackboard man needed for the rest of the day. The score:

YANKEES LOSE TEN-INNING GAME

They Field Perfectly, but Cannot Connect Right with Powell.

ST. LOUIS GETS ONLY 4 HITS

Sweeney's Throwing a Trifle Off—Williams Scores Only Run After Knocking a Two-Bagger.

Special to The New York Times.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Aug. 25.—The Highlanders lost to the Browns 1 to 0 in the tenth inning to-day, the second game of the series. The hits came at the wrong time, or rather the visiting pinch hitters couldn't connect at the right time to count runs when the opportunity presented. It was a beautiful game of baseball they played, though, not an error being credited to them. In all they punched out ten hits off of Powell, while the Browns got but four off Brockett. Brockett weakened a little in the second after fanning two men, and almost allowed the Browns to get away with a good lead. Cree saved him, though, when Powell sent a hot one down his way, and the two men Brockett had walked were on their way home.

On the other hand, clever fielding by the Browns saved the game for them in the fourth when a score seemed inevitable. With Laporte on third Sweeney grounded to Williams. Laporte hiked for home, but Williams's fast return to Stephens nailed the runner at the plate. Three times did both sides have men at third, but were unable to shove them across the plate.

Sweeney threw a trifle wide in the first inning and put Brockett in a hole by allowing a runner to get to third with the Browns' favorite pinch hitter, Griggs, at the bat. The best Griggs could do, though, was a pop to Laporte.

Sweeney's arm was off all through the game, for he made another bad heave in the third, allowing Stone, who had walked, to get to second, with one man out. Keeler saved the day then by going clear to right field bleacher fence for Hartsell's liner.

Williams doubled to left centre in the tenth, Stephens lined to Demmitt, Williams took third on a passed ball by Sweeney and scored on Powell's sacrifice fly to Keeler. Score:

GOV. HUGHES'S CAMPAIGN.

The failure of the direct primary to accomplish the good things in politics which its inventors and sponsors insisted that it must and would accomplish, has not in the least disheartened Gov. HUGHES. Apparently he is quite unaffected by the accumulating evidence that the direct primary is an empty and altogether delusive device of reform. He is about to begin a tour of the State, or of a part of it, during which he will address the people in advocacy of the direct primary as a substitute for the convention method of nominating candidates.

He will doubtless find that his audiences are in close sympathy with him; they have confidence in him, they believe him to be an upright man and a good Governor. In that they are entirely right. But their prepossessions in his favor will incline them to accept without proper discount his enumeration of the benefits accruing to them from the adoption of the direct primary system. We wish they could hear the other side, that they might acquaint themselves with the actual working and results of the direct primary in the communities where it has been tested.

We are told that this change will transfer the power from the bosses, the politicians, and the manipulators of the convention directly into the hands of the people themselves, and that as a result better candidates will be named. The direct primary does nothing of the kind. Everybody knows, or ought to know, that in Wisconsin the primary held to nominate a candidate for a United States Senatorship resulted in the nomination of that particular millionaire lumberman who was most objectionable to LA FOLLETTE and the direct primary men. He spent the most money—more than $100,000, it is said—and he succeeded. The Milwaukee Sentinel is appropriately sarcastic at the expense of one of the supporters of this "reform," who stated before the New York Legislative Committee that "the money used in the primaries in Wisconsin had had a wholesome educational value." In Indianapolis the primaries did result in the defeat of the bosses, but the candidates named were no better than the bosses had been accustomed to put forward; they were such a common and uninspiring lot, indeed, as to move The Indianapolis News, which has been a believer in the direct primary, to acknowledge that it has failed of its purpose. Mr. HOYT, the editor of The Milwaukee Daily News, testified before the New York committee that the poor man has no chance at all under the direct primary. "The corrupt politician," he said, "holds the same sway as before; it costs him a little more, that's all."

The direct primary runs up a heavy bill of costs for the people, in time and in money. It means practically two elections. Experience thus far indicates that there is no offsetting gain. It has not been demonstrated that it arouses the interest of the voters, that better men are put in nomination, or that Government is any better under the new system than under the convention nomination plan. Under the test of actual experience the reform which Gov. HUGHES advocates breaks down utterly. He is urging the people of the State of New York to give themselves a great deal of trouble, to incur large expense in addition to that now incurred, and all for nothing. Persistence in a policy that experience condemns is based upon some quality which we should hardly like to call courage. It must be something else.

COYOTES AND THE EGG MARKET.

No wonder Colorado is to begin a warfare of extermination on the coyote. Unclean and unbeautiful as he is, the coyote has been permitted a great deal of freedom. Too cowardly to be dangerous to human life, except under extraordinary conditions, he has enjoyed an unearned reputation as a scavenger and destroyer of pests. The fact has dawned on the Colorado mind that the coyote is as choice in his food as the rest of us, when choice is possible. He prefers chickens unless he can get turkeys. In fact, the coyote has made chicken farming on a large scale practically impossible in some parts of Colorado. He will not eat mice or prairie dogs when poultry is at hand, and "at hand" to the coyote is a term signifying considerable distances.

The Denver News confesses to a partiality for the coyote because of "his tenacity, his power to adapt himself to new conditions, his cunning in circumventing the ordinary wiles of man, and the superb impudence with which he conducts his disharmonic serenades." But it is a condition, not a theory, that faces the Colorado farmer. The average farm price of hens' eggs in the American markets has increased 9 cents a dozen in nine years. It is still going up, and eggs are always scarce, though the average yearly output is estimated at 1,750,000,000 dozen. The great American public yearns for eggs, and is willing to pay as much for them as it pays for sugar. Great potentialities of wealth are in the egg business. But Colorado cannot successfully get in the game until the extermination of the coyote makes hen farming on a large scale possible.

THE MARBLE HOUSE MEETING.

The prodigious success of Mrs. O. H. P. BELMONT'S woman suffrage meeting, at her marble palace on the cliffs of Newport, indicates clearly that there is a large paying public in this country from whom our aristocracy of wealth may gain increase of wealth and further substantial proof of their aristocracy. It seems that everybody who could get one bought a $5 ticket of admission to the house, to see its decorations and furniture, to rest his eyes on the seats of the mighty and the couches of the same, the pictures on the walls and the rare and antique bric-à-brac in the corner cabinets. Probably there was never a greater crowd at Warwick Castle, where the peacocks line the gray walls to welcome the paying guests, in the midsummer height of the annual American invasion of Britain, than Mrs. BELMONT'S open house attracted on Tuesday.

As for the dollar crowd, the multitude within the gates but not within the doors, they, too, were "there," and they will never be compelled to tell their friends that they only saw the circus from the outside of the tent. What would be the use? But, really, it was a shame for Mrs. BELMONT to discriminate. The price for the house tickets was too high. Tickets cost only a guinea when the Duchess of SUTHERLAND throws open her palace in the Green Park for the private concert of a musical protégé.

But the owner of the Marble House has opened a new and profitable industry for the owners of our palaces. The custom of keeping open house for a consideration once or twice a month would be welcomed by the proletariat and increase the revenues of exclusive society. Soon we shall have the mansions of our great ones catalogued in the American Baedeker, with notes like this: "Second and fourth Thursday of each month; admission 50 cents, (all proceeds go to charity.) Fee for attendant 10 to 25 cents. Note the carved handrail of the first staircase and the portrait of the owner by SARGENT in the upper hall."

THE INHERITED POLICIES.

Inspired statements from Beverly support the belief that the prosecution of Mr. ROOSEVELT'S policies does not include some of his errors, and justify the hope that there exists an open-mindedness which may prevent the commission of other errors. For example, according to The Tribune's version, the statutes whose enforcement against wealthy malefactors in various lines of activity have won so much praise for the late Administration, under the new Administration are to be amended by proposals "just as necessary in the protection of legitimate business as in the carrying out of reforms begun under the last Administration." There is to be no rest for the wicked, but there is hope for the good who have lain under the threat which fell like the rain upon the just and the unjust. Surely a statute in need of such amendment is not a statute whose enforcement is to be desired, or whose enactment is anything to which to point with pride.

With a record of such mistakes there is need of caution against fresh errors. There is a weight of academic reasoning in support of the proposal to regulate railway rates according to capitalization, and to fix capitalization by valuation of physical assets. But there is greater weight of practical experience against the idea. When a man buys anything he looks at the price alone, and cares nothing for the capitalization of the seller. There is no reason to suppose that shippers care anything for the capitalization of railways, or that they are as desirous as they should be for the solvency of common carriers. When there are competing carriers between common points—and that covers most cases—the rates must be the same, and the valuations cannot be the same, except by a miracle which could continue to exist only by some power not human. Consequently one road must make more profits than the other. No law can make capitalizations equal, or should make profits equal. These inequalities are incidental to all business undertakings, and rewards for good judgment in investment, or excellence in administration, are no wrong against those who are capable of neither. The law should not cripple the able to help the defective and dependent classes of promoters.

Equally dubious is the idea that investors can find guarantees by legal regulation of economic affairs. Suppose capital issues are exactly equal to capital cost in the case of two railways. The values cannot be kept alike. The prosperity or otherwise of the adjacent community has more effect than the dollar mark on the shares. Disparities of administration forthwith work differences in values of the securities of the two concerns. It is a dream that the law should regulate such matters, or that any regulation by law can equal the nicety of the daily appraisal of the markets. No man looks at the title deed to see whether he wants a house, or how much he should pay for it. The price and the suitability to his individual requirements are matters of personal appraisal. Securities are either title deeds or evidences of debt. Investors have a claim for protection only against fraud in issues, or in recitals. For soundness of investment they should be taught to rely upon their judgment, or that of their advisers. Any reliance upon statute to make Wall Street safe is a boon of doubtful practicality or desirability. Yet it seems to be upon the programme which Mr. TAFT admits that he inherited, and which he is considering making his own by adoption.

QUESTIONS FOR DR. REMSEN.

Dr. IRA REMSEN, Chairman of President ROOSEVELT'S Referee Board of Consulting Scientific Experts, is expected to address the annual convention of State Food Commissioners now in session at Denver. Since that board's brief but celebrated decision on which Secretary WILSON reversed the findings concerning sodium benzoate by HARVEY W. WILEY, the Government's Chief Chemist, a bitter controversy has been waged by the great inter-State food companies as to just what the decision signified. Discussion of it seemed to lack the element of sound information and authoritative knowledge. The companies and the public have remained unenlightened by Dr. REMSEN. Now that he is about to defend and expound the report of his board, THE TIMES asks him these questions, framed in a way to elicit, should he be minded to answer them, a specific statement both of what was intended and what was not intended in that document.

1. In the report of the Referee Board it is stated that "a certain number of healthy young men were taken for subjects" for the experiments to ascertain the possible deleterious effects of benzoate of soda as a preservative. Could the decision, based on experiments upon young men, be justly construed as sanctioning the use of sodium benzoate in the diet of infants and of young children, of the aged, and of persons suffering from impaired digestion?

Could the decision be properly construed as sanctioning the general introduction of this drug into foods consumed by the weaker as well as by the vigorously healthy members of the community?

2. In their report to the International Congress for Hygiene at Berlin in 1907, a special committee of scientists declared that "the addition of a preservative may permit a careless and dirty method of manufacture." Large manufacturers of food in this country testify that "by the use of this drug [benzoate of soda] the unscrupulous manufacturer is enabled to realize large profits by employing in his product raw materials that are unfit and unwholesome to the point of exciting extreme disgust at their mere mention."

Should the report of the Referee Board of Experts be construed as in any sense contradicting this testimony?

3. It was resolved by the Association of State and National Food and Dairy Departments at its Twelfth Annual Convention held at Mackinac in August, 1908, that "this [sodium benzoate] and other chemical preservatives have been found to be entirely unnecessary in the manufacture and preservation of foods when clean, sound raw materials are suitably prepared in clean, sanitary factories."

If this be true, is the decision of the Referee Board to be construed as advising that sodium benzoate be permitted in foods?

4. Was Dr. REMSEN'S board officially aware that its decision in this case would be construed by Secretary WILSON as laying down a general rule of action in his administration of the Pure Food law?

A categorical answer to these questions would determine sufficiently, we think, just how far the Remsen Food Board is responsible for the order that readmits this chemical into the Nation's foodstuffs, and to what extent Secretary WILSON is independently responsible.

KNICKERBOCKER'S CENTENARY.

Collier's Weekly reminds us that the centenary of the publication of Diedrich Knickerbocker's "History of New York" is at hand. Just about one hundred years ago an advertisement in The Evening Post asked for information touching "a small, elderly gentleman in an old black coat and cocked hat," who had disappeared from the Columbian Hotel, in Muiberry Street, and left behind "a very curious kind of written book." It was a bogus advertisement, and of the morality of such a device for creating advance interest in a forthcoming book there is not a word to be said. That was a simple and primitive age. People did not bother about complex or subtle ethical questions. The missing Diedrich Knickerbocker never was found. But his "very curious kind of written book" soon appeared in print, and survives now as one of the earliest American classics.

WASHINGTON IRVING lived until the first decade of the second half of the nineteenth century was nearly spent. The town of New York of his young manhood, comparison of which, with the New Amsterdam of the Dutch seemed to him so droll, had developed into a bustling metropolis. Central Park had been laid out, in the very heart of the prospective city, but many miles north of the Dutch stockade, beyond which all was wilderness. He lived to see the name his pen made famous accepted as a symbol of the city. Knickerbocker hotels, omnibus lines, insurance companies abounded. Knickerbocker may have been, indeed, a name honored among the Dutch burghers of WOUTER VAN TWILLER'S day; but IRVING gave it all its lasting fame.

Knickerbocker's "History of New York" survives because of its unforced humor, its charm of simplicity. It may not rank with "Rabelais" or "Pickwick," but it is worth preserving. It was begun, in a playful mood, as a travesty of a handbook circulated in 1809; it developed into something much better. It is worth while to remember that the fine simulation of frankness and veracity in this purely fanciful account of Dutch society and politics on the Western Continent deceived many worthy persons. Some more or less illustrious citizens who were proud of their Dutch descent actually accused old Mr. Knickerbocker of falsifying the records. While an erudite German historian cited a passage from the work to illustrate an important point of his own.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

"Aviation" and "Volitation."

When the automobile, that now somewhat antiquated vehicle which is already threatened with the fate of soon being considered only fast enough for the timid and elderly, was first invented, the task of finding a name for it was hopefully undertaken in many lands, but nominative faculty has been so weakened in modern man that he made an extremely poor job of it. At first he could only describe it by telling not what it was, but what it wasn't, and called it a "horseless carriage." At last he allowed the mongrel word "automobile," at once ignorant and pretentious, to enter his vocabulary. And there it has remained, a reproach to our linguistic ingenuity, and, when clipped to the vulgar "auto," hardly endurable by the sensitive.

A like inability to make good names is evidently to be illustrated in the case of the automobile's destined successor. "Aeroplane" lacks some of the faults of "automobile," but it is a poor thing when all has been said for it that can be, and nobody has ventured to speak or write its necessary complements, "to aeroplane" and "aeroplanist." Instead, we are expected to accept "aviator" and "aviation," and, for all we know, "to aviate." They are all bad in half a dozen ways, as thus used, for the feature to be brought out is not a remote and highly imperfect resemblance to birds, but the power to do after one fashion something that birds do after quite another, and that is, to navigate the air.

If this must be called flying—it is not at all inevitable—"volito" is obviously the Latin verb that should supply a foundation for the group of words now needed. Exactly as we get "agitator" and "agitation" from "agitate," so we could get "volitator" and "volitation" from "volitate." They look pretty well. It must be admitted that they sound pretty ill, but that is probably due only to the fact that they are strange to the ear. Anyhow, they are properly built and mean exactly what we mean and do not say when we talk about "aviation" and "aviators." Certainly there is no more reason why flying machines should recall the existence of birds than that ships should recall that of fishes or automobiles that of horses—or radio-telegraphy that of wires.

It is a curious fact that our remoter ancestors seemed to have no difficulty in inventing as many new names as they needed, and in making them all good ones, while nowadays such work is almost never well done. Perhaps it is because we have so much more of it to do than they did and can't stop to think.

Disputing for a Reward.

Evidently there is a long controversy in prospect over the reward offered for the return of the jewels lost on an Erie ferryboat and found by an Italian laborer. Had the Italian realized the value of his find, and at once sought its owner—as apparently he would have done if he had realized it—his claim to the reward would have been perfect. As it is, however, there are other claimants, including the man who first saw the jewels in the laborer's possession, the lawyer whom that man told about them, and the policemen who went after them after they had been informed as to where they were.

Of course the owner of the gems is content to get back his own, and does not care who gets the price he was willing to pay for them, but the courts certainly will have a hard problem to solve before they decide the disposition or distribution of the offered $5,000.

The right of the Jersey City policemen to any part of it is far from obvious. It was through no skill or exertion of theirs that the jewels were recovered, and the fact that they did the actual returning is a poor basis for a claim to reward. They only did a plain and simple police duty, and that they did it honestly hardly entitles them to recompense, especially as, in the circumstances, they couldn't have done it in any other way.

We have always been of the opinion that the less policemen have to do with rewards for the return of lost or stolen property the better. If they get accustomed to taking these additions to their regular pay, the natural tendency will be for them to await the offering of a reward before taking any very vigorous action. This fact is everywhere recognized in the regulations which forbid the policeman to take a reward except by special permission from his superiors, and it would be well to make the prohibition absolute. Indeed, there is an element of moral obliquity in every offer of a reward for the return of lost or stolen property unless great care be taken to free the offer from any suspicion of involving a willingness to compound a felony. This can be done, and often is, but only too frequently the loser of property thinks only of getting it back, and ignores the social injury he may cause in the process.

A Story Told Many Times.

Of course it is too soon to say that the charges of cruelty to patients in the Sonyea Colony for Epileptics are true, but there is a dreadful plausibility in all their details, and it would be hard to recall even one out of the numberless cases when like accusations have been made against like institutions that did not turn out on investigation to have a whole lot of fire under the smoke.

In this instance, as in so many others, presumably the cause of the maltreatment of the patients, if there has been any, lies in the quality of the attendants. There is hardly a public asylum or hospital in the world where these are not far lower in both intelligence and character than they should be, considering the enormous power over helpless victims of disease with which they are intrusted, and it is well known that in not a few private "retreats" the same scandal exists.

The fear which "the poor" have of hospitals is nowadays exaggerated, but it has a basis and should not be too contemptuously denounced.

PHILIPPINE PRODUCTS.

The Quantity of Sugar and Tobacco to be Admitted Free.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In the editorial on "How the Tariff Follows the Flag," in the August issue of The World's Work, I read the following: "By the Aldrich bill all Philippine products but sugar and tobacco are admitted free to the United States, but sugar and tobacco are among the most important products of the Philippine Islands. The bill, as originally drafted, would have allowed 150,000,000 cigars, 1,500,000 pounds of filler tobacco, and less than a third of a million pounds of sugar free of duty. That arrangement was a grudging one, and was not creditable to us; but even that was rejected by our tobacco interests. So the limitation on tobacco was drawn tighter still. The Senators from Connecticut succeeded in limiting the import of cigars to 70,000,000 and the amount of filler tobacco to 1,000,000 pounds." (Page 11,859.)

In The Outlook editorial of the Aug. 14 issue the following information appears in connection with the question of "free" trade with the Philippines: "As to their tobacco industry, the Filipinos may send to the United States 150,000,000 cigars and 300,000 pounds of wrapper tobacco, and 1,000,000 pounds of filler tobacco free annually." (Page 874.)

Here, Mr. Editor, are two conflicting reports concerning the limitation of Philippine tobacco in two of the leading magazines of this country. Which of these is correct? Please advise me on this matter. I am sure there are others besides me who would be glad to know whether or not the efforts of "fleecing the Filipinos" were successful.

CAMILO OSIAS,
A Filipino Student.

New York, Aug. 18, 1909.

The tariff act approved on Aug. 5 provides for the free entry into this country from the Philippines annually of 300,000 tons of sugar; of wrapper tobacco, 300,000 pounds; of filler tobacco, 1,000,000 pounds, and 150,000,000 cigars. The entire yearly imports are not expected to exceed these amounts of the articles for several years, and the law therefore really provides temporary free entry of sugar and tobacco.—[EDITOR.

BARGE WRECKS.

Suggests an Improvement in Towing Arrangements.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Lives are needlessly lost during every heavy storm at sea. It seems to be the usual practice, and is probably necessary, in the case of a tow to have from one to six men on each barge for the purpose of looking after the cargo and steering. One seagoing tug may have a number of such barges in tow, and, in a storm, one or more of them usually breaks its towline and becomes helpless. The tug cannot leave the other barges; the result is that the men on board the helpless barge either are wrecked on a lee shore and drowned, or drift off to sea to meet death by starvation and exposure, unless they are fortunate enough to be rescued by some passing vessel.

These hardships and deaths, as well as the sufferings of the families dependent upon these unfortunate men, could be prevented by simply compelling the provision and use of such gear as would practically render impossible the breaking away of a barge from its towboat. Several methods at once suggest themselves:

1. Specifications as to towlines, (i. e., quality, size, age, method of fastening.)

2. Multiply the number of towlines now required to connect tug and barges.

3. In addition to the towlines now used, compel the use of additional towlines, amply strong, to run direct from each barge to the tug, so that each barge shall have an independent safety line.

The writer ventures to predict that such a law enacted and enforced would, for each life saved thereby, cost less for additional towline equipment than the present cost to the United States Life Saving Service of saving a life.

Is the present criminal negligence in this regard chargeable to those who make our laws, or to those whose duty it is to enforce them?

GERMAN SILVER.

Innocent Auctioneer Considers It One with Solid Silver.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

While passing through Forty-second Street this evening, between Fifth and Sixth Avenues, I dropped into one of the little auction rooms, where the auctioneer, a young man of the usual stamp, was selling a "solid silver dinner set," consisting of knives, forks, and spoons. As he was accepting bids of $2.50 and $3 for this extensive collection of cutlery, I thought I would examine.

Of course, it was solid "German" silver. When I politely informed the young man he was a swindler, he asked if German silver was not solid silver. Not caring to instruct the innocent youth, and as he seemed to have a few friends (cappers?) among his auditors, I left.

Do you suppose any one among our small body of city officials could be heartless enough to interfere with this poor youth and his efforts to make an honest living?

H. W. BRIDGES.

New York, Aug. 24, 1909.

Father Ducey's Charity.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Most New York people know that one of the late Father Ducey's philanthropic eccentricities was that of distributing dimes on a Saturday evening during the Winter months to the needy.

On one particular occasion, in the long line of mendicants, was a wandering sheep from the law profession, one who was of excellent and brilliant parts in his forensic days, and whose name is well known in a Northern State.

The man had struck New York after a few years wandering around the world, and, being "strapped" and without shelter, he heard of Father Ducey and his peculiar form of philanthropy.

When it came his turn to receive the needful dime, the late lamented divine, looking the erstwhile lawyer keenly in the eyes, spoke as follows:

"And you, my son, to what Christian denomination do you belong?"

"I am a Protestant, Father," promptly and tersely replied the lawyer.

And as the priest closed his hand with a hearty shake and words of good cheer, a "quarter," a whole "quarter," lay in the mendicant's palm. J. J. O'B.

A Simple Meal.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In your issue of Aug. 24, under the heading of "Subway Rowdies Go to the Island," a reference is made to the food served at the workhouse. It is stated that supper "is a simple meal, the invariable menu being two slices of bread and a cup of coffee." This is a simple meal, but how it can sustain life to any extent is what I would like to know. Doubtless inmates of prisons do not deserve or expect Delmonico fare, but can you reform a man by starving him? INQUIRER.

CITY SCHOOLS OVERCROWDED.

70,000 Pupils to be on Part Time—Board of Estimate Blamed.

It is now regarded as practically certain that the number of pupils on part time when the new school session begins, early in September, will break all records, the actual number denied privileges enjoyed by other children possibly exceeding 70,000. The reason for this is explained on the ground that the Board of Estimate has failed to make the appropriations asked for by the Board of Education for the erection of new school buildings.

According to a statement at the Department of Education yesterday, not a contract has been let for school buildings since July 1, 1908, with the result that the new session, with its influx of tens of thousands of new pupils in addition to the old pupils, who are in excess of 600,000, will find the congested conditions in some of the schools considerably worse than formerly.

Last season there were more than 60,000 pupils on part time, although a score or more new buildings were opened at or near the beginning of the new session. The number of new buildings to be thrown open this session are few in comparison. Five are under construction in Manhattan, two in the Bronx, eight in Brooklyn, and one addition in Queens. Most of these buildings are now approaching completion, and will be ready for use when the schools open. But there are no more under way, and consequently the school authorities fear conditions will continue and grow worse instead of better. The situation is beyond the Board of Education, its members say.

Last May the Board of Estimate was asked for $7,000,000 for school buildings, to be raised by an issue of corporate stock, but so far nothing definite has been heard from the City Hall regarding such an appropriation.

HONOR TO THE FLAGS.

Respect Demanded for the Colors of Foreign Countries.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

THE NEW YORK TIMES this morning gives an account of the theft by night of several British flags belonging to a Canadian lady, Miss Cameron. That Miss Cameron should hoist the colors of the country to which she belongs has apparently given offense to some patriotic (?) American youths. This incident recalls several other equally idiotic instances of prejudice, such as the neglect by an American athlete to lower his flag when passing the King of the country whose guest he was during the late Olympic games. The gentleman who was guilty of this lack of courtesy did not apparently realize that he was bringing discredit on his own country by his act. Another man lately posed as a patriot by shooting down an Italian flag flown by an Italian citizen over his own house on the Fourth of July. Some Americans lately ornamented their drag in Canada with the flag of the United States, and dragged a couple of British flags in the mud behind them. The people who have been guilty of these acts have shown their egregious bad taste, that is all. Why do they not act up to their apparent convictions, and board some of the foreign warships coming for the Fulton-Hudson celebration, and haul down and insult the foreign flags there? That would at least show courage as well as stupidity and bad taste.

Surely it is time that the newspapers of the country, the educators of the masses, endeavored to show the type of people who wantonly (and safely) insult the flag of a foreign nation that such acts only bring discredit on the Stars and Stripes, that acts such as these, condemned as they are by all right-thinking Americans, are not calculated to engender respect in foreign minds for the country where such childish folly and pitiful prejudice exist.

SOLDIERS' SHOES.

Pointed Button Patent Leathers Seen In the Massachusetts War.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

While newspaper readers are still interested in the recent manoeuvres in Massachusetts, it seems to me of the greatest importance that some pressure of public opinion should be brought to bear on the military authorities which would result in having the shoes of infantry soldiers made a part of the regular uniform and issued to enlisted men just as the caps and tunics are issued. As a member of Squadron A I saw practically all of the infantry regiments in the Red Army last week, and I am convinced that the intense suffering which a large proportion of the unmounted soldiers underwent was due almost wholly to their being improperly shod. The number of stragglers limping behind their regiment in pointed patent leather button shoes and other equally unsuitable footwear was disgraceful. Could not contracts be let for stout shoes of suitable shape, made in quarter sizes, of grain or some other leather which could be thoroughly oiled, and these shoes issued to the men as part of their regular equipment? It would be well also if heavy wool socks were made part of the prescribed equipment. TROOPER.

Colorado Argument.

How often must we read the Colorado argument for woman suffrage throughout the Union? How seldom we reply.

If it were said from Colorado: What is ours must one day be yours; or, woman suffrage waited only the seal of our approval, under which it now rejoices and becomes a natural law; if these things were said we should comfort ourselves. What would they be but the voices of still unspoiled humanity, of men or women believing in themselves?

But we do not hear these arguments, at least not at this distance. Instead we are reminded that John F. Shafroth, Governor, says that woman suffrage in his State is not a failure; that every reform movement is advocated by women. He says, "We have substantial support from their votes."

Let there be no suggestion unfavorable to Gov. Shafroth. He was honorably elected by the suffrage of the State. But were not the women and their advocates his voters? He says they were his support. Surely as a witness he may be courteously disregarded, his letter not admitted as evidence? One would think so. PATIENCE.

Chinese Garb for Us.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

A Chinaman is the subject of ridicule here on account of his wearing apparel. Ever realize he is dressed much more sensibly than any of us? Not a superfluous garment on him. How much happier and comfortable we all would be were we to adopt this identical apparel. We could wear a sombrero, instead of a hard, uncomfortable straw, to protect us from the sun, and sandals, as they did in the olden days. The rich could wear fine silk pajamas, with gold buttons, if they so desired, to distinguish them from the poor.

New York, Aug. 24, 1909.

MY WISH, (WHEN UTTERLY TIRED.)

Not to have to rise,
Not to have to hustle,
Not to have to eat,
Not to have to bustle.

Not to have to think,
Not to have to worry,
Not to swim—or sink,
Not to have to hurry.

Not to care to-day,
Nor fear about the morrow,
Not to have to pay
What to-day I borrow.

Not to have to grieve,
Not to have to mourn,
Not to seek reprieve,
Not to feel forlorn.

Not to have to feign,
Not to have to please,
Not to have to gain,
Ambition to appease.

Not to feel the throb,
Not to know the pain,
When others' hopes are slain.

CELIA BERNSTEIN.

GREET ARCHBISHOP HERE FROM EUROPE

Mgr. Farley Taken from the Caronia by Friends Who Met Him Down the Bay.

HURRIES TO DUCEY FUNERAL

Archbishop Tells of the Pope's Interest in This Country—Austria Growing as a Naval Power, He Says.

Archbishop Farley, after an absence of several months in Europe, arrived back home on the Cunarder Caronia, from Liverpool, yesterday morning. The Archbishop looked the picture of health when he descended the ladder from the Caronia to the steamboat Sam Sloan, on board of which latter vessel several hundred of New York's best known Catholic priests and laymen had gone down the bay to greet and welcome home the head of the Archdiocese of New York.

The Caronia got into Quarantine at 6 o'clock yesterday morning, and when she was released and had started on her way to the Cunard piers the Sam Sloan got under way and met the steamer off the Statute of Liberty, where Archbishop Farley was taken on board. The Sloan was crowded with priests and laymen while music was furnished by the band of the Mission of the Immaculate Virgin on Staten Island.

Among those on the Sam Sloan were Bishop Cusack, Mgrs. Mooney, Lavelle, Keene, and Hayes, Fathers Henry, Evers, Prout, Taylor, Flood, Latellier, Lennon, R. D. Hughes, and McKenna. Prominent among the laymen were Supreme Court Justice O'Sullivan, ex-District Attorney Eugene A. Philbin, Commissioners Nicholas J. Barrett, and George Gillespie of the Board of Education, Dr. Francis J. Quinlan, ex-President of the Catholic Club; James Butler, Thomas Kelly, Andrew Cornell, John J. Rooney, and Bernard J. Halloran. Among others were delegations from the Knights of Columbus and other Catholic organizations.

Archbishop Farley heard of the death of Father Ducey for the first time when the Caronia arrived in Quarantine. As soon as the Sloan reached the pier at the foot of West Fiftieth Street Archbishop Farley hurried to St. Leo's Church, where he took part in the funeral services over the body of the dead priest.

"Father Ducey's," Archbishop Farley said, "whole heart was in the work for the betterment of the poor and lowly. He was a good man, and he will be mourned by a host of people whom he had helped in times of sadness or trouble."

One of the first questions put to the Archbishop had reference to President Eliot's now famous paper on the religion of the future.

"I was interviewed or rather an effort was made to interview me in London," the Archbishop replied, "as to this new religion mentioned a few weeks ago. At this time it would be unbecoming my office to discuss the matter, particularly as I have paid very little attention to the matter. The fact is I do not care to talk on topics that are supposed to be of interest to the public at this time.

"How did you find the Pope, is there not something you can tell us of him?" one of the reporters asked Archbishop Farley.

"We were received with great cordiality by the Pope," Archbishop Farley answered, "and he was greatly interested in all that we had to say to him about the United States, and the progress of the Nation and the Church. While His Holiness does not speak English, he is splendidly informed on questions pertaining to our country and I think I can say he knows as much of the country as any newspaper man in this city.

"The Pope's power for work is truly wonderful. Although he is a man 74 years old, the amount of work he accomplishes in one week would make an average New Yorker hurry into the country for a month's rest. The Pope has the most kindly feelings toward our native land and he was greatly pleased by the charity and the kindness of our people shown at the time of the terrible earthquake that destroyed Messina and other places in Southern Italy.

"I did not visit Messina, but I was informed that the work of readjustment there is progressing very slowly. The corrugated iron houses bought in England I am told are still unpacked and in many instances are rusting away. The people there have not the push and energy that characterizes our people.

"While I was in Rome I met the Archbishop of Messina who was buried for three days following the earthquake and who was rescued, along with his brother, who was the Mayor of the city. After he was dug out of the ruins the Archbishop worked hard for the people and he is one of the finest men I ever met. I carried with me to Rome $35,000, the balance of the fund that we had raised for the earthquake sufferers."

Archbishop Farley was asked as to the war feeling in Europe. He takes no stock in rumors of war in the near future, but said that in his opinion Austria was to be reckoned with as one of the future great naval powers.

"The future Emperor, Prince Ferdinand, a nephew of the Emperor Franz Josef," he said, "is doing much work for the Austrian people, and is building a navy that will eventually put that nation among the great powers of Europe. In the past Austria has kept in the background, but in the next generation she will have to be reckoned with as a naval power, and, in the long run, I believe that her fleet is destined to rival that of any nation in the world.

"You ask me if I am glad to get back home. There is only one New York, and of course I am delighted to be back. I was really homesick most of the time I was away. In Ireland I took many auto trips, and I want to say that the conditions there are better than I have ever seen them. The crops are fine, and the Irish industries are greatly improved. I am sorry to have to say that conditions in other parts of Europe are not so good and the outlook is rather poor. The people on the Continent depend a great deal upon the American tourists, and this year there has been a noticeable falling off in the number of travelers from this country."

In answer to one of the Archbishop's questions he was told that the tariff had been settled and the bill signed by President Taft. Archbishop Farley expressed satisfaction at this news, and said he believed that the settling of the question would tend to improve conditions abroad materially.

The Archbishop was then asked about the rumor that he is soon to be made Cardinal.

"The average newspaper man," he answered, smiling, "knows as much about that as I do, and I know absolutely nothing about it. It is wonderful how such reports originate."

On the way to Europe Archbishop Farley celebrated solemn high mass on the Cunarder Carpathia. Last Sunday he celebrated low mass in the second cabin of the Caronia.

The Archbishop, his fellow-passengers on the Caronia said, was the most popular man on the ship, his democratic ways and kindly interest in all making a deep impression. As he left the liner the passengers lined the rail and bade him cheery and affectionate good-byes.

Fellow-passengers on the Caronia with the Archbishop were Bishop Kelly of Savannah, Ga.; Bishop Haird of North Carolina, Mgr. Henry, and Archbishop Farley's Secretary, Mgr. Lewis. The band played the "Star-Spangled Banner" as the Archbishop left the Caronia, and after he reached the deck of the Sloan he stood with bared head and for several minutes waved farewell greetings to the passengers on the liner.

NEWPORT TENNIS UP TO FINAL ROUND

Clothier and McLoughlin Will Play To-day to Decide Challenger.

QUAKER IS IN FINE FORM

Special to The New York Times.

NEWPORT, R. I., Aug. 25.—Linesmen and officials played as important a part in the semi-finals by which William Clothier, ex-National champion, and the Pacific Coast holder, Maurice F. McLoughlin, won their places in the final round of the twenty-ninth annual All-Comers tournament to-day, as the competitors themselves. The tall Clothier faced Thomas C. Bundy of the California team upon the stretch of the turf before the grand stand, and the latter was beaten, 6—3, 6—2, 6—8, 7—5, making as gallant a finish as has been witnessed here. Over beside the Casino Theatre building McLoughlin defeated Gus F. Touchard, 6—4, 4—6, 6—2, with Touchard displaying remarkable form and execution.

Surrounding the grand stand court were half the required number of officials. Yet there was one too many for Bundy in Richard Stevens, who acted as judge of service faults. Having come through the rounds without such supervision Bundy was surprised to have Stevens repeatedly penalize him as he slightly swung his foot over the line in serving. His faults were far less flagrant than had been witnessed in many of the other matches with never an official to check as they hot-footed for the net. Bundy appeared to take it as a sort of "heckling," and it so unsettled his game that he was beaten by his own outs and nets at the start rather than by any skill on the part of Clothier.

Despite Touchard's request for linesmen his match with McLoughlin was decided with only A. L. Hoskins officiating as umpire. The men had to do the best they could. Once on a close decision Touchard protested to the chair, which had no recourse under the conditions, but uphold the decision. All there was to it for Touchard was to play on or default, and to his credit it must be recorded that he was sportsman enough to continue to the end.

The general conditions of fair weather, a good gallery, and a perfect playing surface contributed their portion. Clothier won the toss for service on the grandstand court, and ran three games before Bundy steadied his shots to the side lines enough to win a game. Clothier did not have any footing to do, as on the whole Bundy was uncertain on his back hand crossing returns and could not attain to lengths nor direction on his drives.

Stiffening his game Bundy began to work the side lines better and to outmanoeuvre Clothier in the third set. He got the lead for the first time at 3—1, and by brilliantly passing Clothier maintained it to 5—2. This improvement worried Clothier, who set sail for the net and by swift volleying for placement managed to bring the games to 5—all. The all-important service held them evenly to 6—all, when Bundy again steadied his drives and won the set at 8—6, the last game being earned by four scorching place shots straight along Clothier's forehand side.

It was Touchard's mastery of a versatile and kaleidoscopic game that allowed him to hold McLoughlin through four sets. His changes of pace at times baffled the Pacific Coast player, so that he was obliged to give way to his hard-hitting and develop a strategy that was successful in coping with his opponent. The best playing came in the second and third sets. Summary:

All-Comers National Championship Singles.—Semi-Final Round—William J. Clothier defeated Thomas C. Bundy, 6—3, 6—2, 6—8, 7—5; Maurice F. McLoughlin defeated Gustave F. Touchard, 6—3, 4—6, 7—5, 6—2. Consolation Singles.—Semi-Final Round—Dean Mathey defeated William H. Connell, 6—4, 6—2; R. H. Harris defeated Walter V. Bennett, 7—5, 6—4. Final Round.—Dean Mathey defeated F. H. Harris, 6—4, 6—2.

HILL'S ADVICE TO CANADA.

"Don't Get People Who Will Have to be Recivilized."

WINNIPEG, Aug. 25.—"Don't be afraid you won't get people, but don't try to get people who will have to be recivilized," said James J. Hill to-day in speaking for the American settler at the Canadian Club, where he and Lord Strathcona, both pioneer railroad builders of the Northwest, were guests of honor at a dinner. The 1,500 persons present applauded wildly when the men clasped hands to renew their old-time acquaintance.

In his post-prandial speech Mr. Hill said:

"It is a long and hard job to assimilate a foreign population. Those who come from our Western States speak your language, and know your institutions. I am sure they will rapidly fall into your local municipal organization, and, as a rule, you can collect a judgment from them."

Mr. Hill asserted that one out of every five persons born in Canada now lived in the United States, but that Canada was rapidly getting back its population, as hundreds of land seekers were now coming in from the Western States with from $5,000 to $20,000 each. These American settlers would make as much progress in one year, he stated, as a European would in ten years.

Mr. Hill concluded by moving a vote of thanks in behalf of himself and Northwestern America in general to Lord Strathcona for the estimable services he has rendered to this region during his long career.

Lord Strathcona was in a reminiscent mood, recalling the meeting at which the St. Paul, Minneapolis & Manitoba Railroad was organized, and other similar incidents.

STUDENT WEDS SECRETLY.

Said He Was L. W. Stephens of Brooklyn and in College.

Special to The New York Times.

STAMFORD, Conn., Aug. 25.—A young man who said he was L. W. Stephens, 28 years old, of Brooklyn, was married here yesterday to Miss Cornelia Atz, 21 years old, of New York. Stephens is the son of W. E. Stephens. The bride is a daughter of George Atz of New York.

The bridegroom said he was a student in his senior year at a college, and that he came here to be married quietly because he wanted to finish his college course before announcing the marriage. He would not tell what college he attends.

The only W. E. Stephens appearing in the Brooklyn Directory lives at 83 Rugby Road. According to that record he is in the lithographing business. A reporter talked with Mr. Stephens last night. He said he had a son named L. W. Stephens, who, it is said, is a student at Princeton. Asked whether he knew anything about the marriage, Mr. Stephens said it was "ridiculous, absolutely false, and a joke." He further said he did not know Miss Atz, and had never heard of her, and concluded by saying, "No one is getting married in this house."

Mr. Bruere refused to tell the extent of Smith's alleged thefts, saying that the organization chose to make only a charge of petty larceny against him in order to frighten him, and probably would not prosecute him further.

Maniac Attacks Nurse in Hospital.

Bursting the bonds of a straight-jacket, Edward O. de Lacarona of 32 State Street, Newark, N. J., last night attacked Miss F. White, a nurse in the City Hospital. Her screams brought Policeman Howlett, who is detailed at the hospital, together with all the doctors and orderlies on duty, but before the man was subdued he had torn the uniform almost off the policeman. It took a dozen men to overpower the man, who was locked in a padded cell. The nurse was not injured.

De Lacarona is a Mexican. He was sent to the hospital by a police surgeon yesterday as demented after trouble at his home.

PUBLIC AND CLERGY HONOR FATHER DUCEY

ARCHBISHOP FARLEY THERE

Hurries from Steamer on His Arrival from Europe—Tribute by Mgr. Lavelle—Burial in Calvary.

The funeral services over the body of the Rev. Thomas J. Ducey, for thirty years pastor of St. Leo's Roman Catholic Church in West Twenty-eighth Street, were held in that edifice yesterday morning. As early as 7 o'clock people began to assemble outside the church, and when the doors were opened some two hours later the street from Fifth Avenue to Madison Avenue was packed.

None but those holding tickets was admitted to the church. After the services all those who wished to—and they numbered some thousands—filed into the little church to take a last look at their dead friend.

The church was draped in black. Everywhere was a profusion of flowers. At the head of the centre aisle, and directly in front of the altar, a catafalque had been placed. On it rested the coffin containing the body of Father Ducey. The body had been raised so that the face and hands—the latter folded across the body—could be seen by every one in the church. It was clothed in the dead priest's vestments.

The services opened with the chanting of the divine office by the priests. It was during this that Archbishop Farley, who had come direct from the Cunarder Caronia, reached the church and took a place inside the sanctuary with the priests. The solemn requiem high mass was celebrated by Mgr. Charles McCready of the Church of the Holy Cross, assisted by the Rev. T. J. McCluskey, S. J., as deacon, and the Rev. Dr. Daniel Burke, as sub-deacon.

Mgr. Lavelle, Vicar General, delivered the address. In a voice, which at times failed him because of his emotion, Mgr. Lavelle spoke of the loss the Church had sustained by the death of Father Ducey.

Mgr. Lavelle told in simple language the history of the dead priest's life from the time he was born in Lismore, Ireland, 67 years ago, until his death last Sunday morning.

At the conclusion of Mgr. Lavelle's address Archbishop Farley performed the concluding rites of the service, sprinkling the body with holy water. As the procession of priests was leaving the sanctuary Miss Julia A. O'Connor, who had known Father Ducey for a long time, sang Cardinal Newman's "Lead, Kindly Light," and "Mother of Christ."

The musical part of the services was furnished by a choir of twelve priests, while the Rev. Father Kellner, S. J., of New Rochelle, presided at the organ, playing Chopin's "Funeral March" at the conclusion. Among the priests present besides those named were Bishop Thomas F. Cusack, Mgr. John Edwards of St. Joseph's, the Rev. Edward Rafter, who was Master of Ceremonies; and Mgrs. McKeon, Hayes Lewis, Flood, Taylor, and Carney.

Among the laymen attending were William E. Iselin and family, Walter E. Hildreth, James Everard, William A. Brady and his wife, Grace George; Patrick F. McGowan, and representatives of the Lambs, the Press Club, the Players, the Catholic Club, and many other religious and social organizations. Among those sending floral tribute were the Lambs, Chauncey Olcott, and Kyrle Bellew.

The body was buried in Calvary Cemetery later in the afternoon.

SOUTHERN BOOKING OFFICE.

Managers' Association to Have Their Own Representative in New York.

Special to The New York Times.

ATLANTA, Ga., Aug. 25.—The Southern Theatrical Managers' Association will soon have their own theatrical headquarters in New York, their own representative, and their own means of securing desirable bookings for their theatres. This is given out as the main result of the Monday and Tuesday sessions of the association in Atlanta.

The New York headquarters will stand between the theatrical producing managers and all booking agencies. Hereafter any manager desiring a certain company to play at his theatre, or being saddled with some production he feels is not cuited to his clientele, may work through the New York representative of the association either to secure the one or to cancel the engagement of the other. Matters relative to terms may also be regulated through the offices of the New York representative.

In fact, so radical and so far reaching is the new arrangement that it is said the future bookings of all managers belonging to the association may come to be made through the New York office.

Bishop Hoban Arrives.

The Right Rev. M. J. Hoban, Catholic Bishop of Scranton, Penn., returned on the steamer Carpathia yesterday from a three months' stay in Europe. He was met at Quarantine by the Right Rev. Mgr. Thomas F. Coffey and a delegation of clergymen from his diocese. A public reception will be given for him at Scranton to-night.

CENSORED SHAW PLAY LIKED.

"Blanco Posnet" Performed in Dublin at Enhanced Prices.

DUBLIN, Aug. 25.—George Bernard Shaw's play, "The Showing Up of Blanco Posnet," the prohibition of which by the censor in London led to the appointment of a Parliamentary commission to inquire into the censorship of plays, was produced in the Abbey Theatre here tonight without any disorder or any display of public disapproval.

Mr. Shaw and the managers of the Abbey Theatre held an extended correspondence with the Viceroy as to whether the play should not be suppressed because it was prohibited by the English censor. The Viceroy reminded the manager of the theatre that it had received a license to foster Irish drama, and that in his opinion this was not the province of Shaw's play. Further, the Viceroy hinted at the possibility of the license being withdrawn if the play proved offensive.

The Dublin and the English newspapers were full of the controversy. Mr. Shaw consented to omit some of the sentences offensive to the Church and people. A large force of police was in attendance at the theatre in the expectation of trouble, and every seat was filled at enhanced prices.

Many strokes of grim humor in the play excited laughter, and the passages which had incurred the condemnation of the official censor were received with watchful composure. The general verdict was in favor of the play, which was pronounced one of the artist's most brilliant works. No one is able to understand why the play was prohibited by the London censor. Mr. Shaw himself was not present tonight, but his wife witnessed the performance.

Stuart Barnes Ordered to Pay Alimony

Justice Crane in the Special Term of the Supreme Court, Brooklyn, yesterday signed an order for $75 a week alimony and $250 counsel fee in favor of Cora Mabel Barnes, who is suing for the annulment of her marriage to Stuart Barnes, the monologuist, on the ground that he had a wife living at the time she married him on Sept. 17, 1905. She bases her suit on allegations that his previous marriage had never been dissolved. Mrs. Barnes asserts that a Mrs. Hill told her she was married to Barnes twenty-three years ago and that three children were born to them, two of whom are living, Blanche, 21 years, and George, 22. Mrs. Barnes asserts that her husband owns real estate in Flushing.

Charles Richman's engagement at Maxine Elliott's Theatre is limited to three weeks. Among the players who will appear in "The Revellers" are George Nash, Ferdinand Gottschalk, Florence Fisher, Vera Finlay, Hattie Anderson, and May MacKenzie.

Whippany River Club's Dog Show.

The Whippany River Club of Morristown, N. J., will hold a dog show at Morristown on Saturday, Sept. 25. A great deal of interest is being taken in the event, as the club grounds are beautifully situated for such an affair, and it will be the first show to be given there under the American Kennel Club rules. John G. Bates, Richard H. Williams, Jr., and Grant B. Schley, Jr., compose the bench show committee. E. M. Oldham is superintendent.

Hackett, the actor, Supreme Court Justice Amend signed yesterday the discontinuance of the action upon consent of counsel. It was reported some time ago that a reconciliation had been brought about through the medium of their child.

STRIKE MAY TIE UP 4 YIDDISH THEATRES

MUSICIANS START TROUBLE

And Twelve Disengaged Union Actors Demand Employment—Chorus Grievance Also—Stars Plan Combination.

At the opening of their theatrical season the three actor managers of the important east side Yiddish theatres, Jacob Adler, David Kessler, and Boris Tomascheffsky are said to be threatened with a strike of all their employes, including actors, musicians, prompters, costumers, stage carpenters, and chorus people, ushers and billposters. The managers have received an ultimatum from the United Hebrew Trades, and if the demands of this association are not acceded to the ultimatum declares that no performances will be allowed on Friday night, when the three theatres are advertised to open. There is a plan on foot by which the managers may give an all-star performance and do without the unions.

The managers in the past have been absolutely in the power of the unions. There is an actors' union which not only compels Yiddish managers to pay certain salaries, but requires them to engage actors irrespective of ability or choice. This union admits no new actors and strikes if the manager employs any non-union actors.

There are about a dozen prompters for the four Yiddish theatres, and they have a union. There is a costumers' union. The chorus people, stage carpenters, scene shifters, and musicians, all belong to separate organizations. The strength of these organizations lies in the fact that they are all affiliated with the United Hebrew Trades. If one union has a grievance against one of the managers the whole Yiddish theatrical situation is affected.

The present trouble was brought about through the musicians' union, which requires a salary of $24 a week for each union member. The east side members of the union banded together, however, and required the Yiddish managers to pay salaries of $27 a week. The managers demurred and said they would rather pay salaries of union men not affiliated with the East Side Club, but the Musical Protective Union Stood behind the east side organization.

This is not the only demand made by the Hebrew Trades Union. There are twelve actors in the Actors' Union who have received no contract this year from the managers, who declare that all places are filled. The Actors' Union, however, has apportioned three of these unemployed Thespians to each of the managers and demands that they be put on the payroll whether they act or not. The managers intended to save money this year by cutting out billposting and advertising exclusively in the newspapers. So the billposters have a grievance. The actor managers also decided to do without the dressers, who insist upon being employed whether they are used or not. There is also trouble with the union.

The actor managers have been counting noses to see whether they cannot collect sufficient actors to make at least one company. The only actors who are not affiliated with the union are the stars. There are very few of these, but the probability is that an all-star company can be gathered together to play in one of the Yiddish theatres regularly if the Hebrew Trades Union persists in its demands.

The three actor managers are, of course, stars. Jacob Adler has his wife and daughter. Mrs. Boris Tomascheffsky is a star. There is a new actress, Rachael Kominsky, who is eligible. Bernard Young, the co-lessee of the Thalia Theatre, and his wife may also join the all-star company.

AUGUSTIN DALY'S ESTATE.

Referee's Report Shows $63,000 Cash Balance for Distribution.

The report of the referee appointed to pass upon certain accounts of Joseph F. Daly and Richard Dorney, executors under the will of the late Augustin Daly, who died in Paris on June 7, 1898, was filed with the Surrogate yesterday. It shows the debts of Mr. Daly amounted to $359,236, and that there is a cash balance for distribution of $63,315.

Of this amount 24 per cent. is due to James C. Duff, as executor of the estate of Mrs. Daly; 23 per cent. to Ada Rehan, 20 per cent. to Joseph F. Daly, brother of the testator, and 20 per cent. to be divided among the following institutions: Roman Catholic Orphan Asylum, Home for the Aged of the Little Sisters of the Poor, Association for Befriending Children and Young Girls, St. Joseph's Home for Consumptives and Incurables, Society of St. Vincent de Paul, Mission of Our Lady of the Rosary, and St. Zita's House and Refuge in St. Patrick's Parish. Three and one-half per cent. is due Richard Dorney and a similar amount to John Farrington. To Guy Van Amringe, Mary K. Eyron, and Mary G. Clarke, is due 2 per cent. each.

The report also shows that the receipts of Daly's London Theatre from Nov. 10, 1907, to April 11, 1909, were about $238,425, with expenses of about $142,955, leaving a net profit of about $90,471. The document stated that there was also in the hands of the executors on April 19, 1909, certain leases, the business of the above playhouse, plays, scenery, adaptations, and copyrights.

WOULD ENJOIN 'DOLLAR MARK.'

Author of Produced Play of Similar Name Serves Notice on W. A. Brady.

William A. Brady, the theatrical manager, was served with papers yesterday which informed him that Gustav W. Schlotterbeck and Frederick Curtiss were seeking an injunction before Judge Lacombe, in the United States Circuit Court, to prevent Mr. Brady from continuing the performances of "The Dollar Mark," at Wallack's Theatre. The complaint alleges that Schlotterbeck, the complainant, copyrighted a play by the same name, which was produced in December, 1908, and that Mr. Brady has used both the title and idea of this drama in his play.

It is also alleged in the complaint that Frank B. Hatch, at present in Mr. Brady's employ, staged the Schlotterbeck production of "The Dollar Mark." Mr. Brady must file an answer to this complaint before Sept. 3.

Herman L. Roth, the attorney for Schlotterbeck, who wrote the play and Curtiss, his manager, said that his clients alleged that the play at Wallack's not only used the title of their play, but also incorporated its principal ideas.

"They intend to put 'The Dollar Mark' back on the stage in September," he said, "when it is to make a tour of the Shubert Theatres."

Jacob Shubert, representing the booking interests for the Shuberts, said that his firm was booking no play called "The Dollar Mark."

Mr. Brady said that he knew that a play called "The Dollar Mark" had been produced in New Jersey last December, and that it had failed.

JOSEPH CHARTRAND DEAD.

Companion of Fremont, the Explorer, and Friend of John Jacob Astor.

Special to The New York Times.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Aug. 25.—Joseph Chartrand, lone survivor of the old French colony at Cahokia, companion of Frémont, the Pathfinder, and friend of John Jacob Astor, is dead. He was 93 years old and had been in failing health on account of his age for months at the home of his son George, near Cahokia.

Chartrand was born in Cahokia before East St. Louis was on the map, and in his barefooted youth played about the historic Cahokia Court House, the oldest in the Mississippi Valley. He became a trader for the Hudson Bay Company, and in that capacity journeyed to the Little Fork River, near Fort Francis, Ontario, where he met Astor, then amassing the foundation for the great Astor fortune in the fur trade. While still a trader Chartrand made a journey of exploration with Frémont to the Red River of the North.

FINANCIAL MARKETS

HARRIMANS SUFFER MOST

Union Pacific Shows Heaviest Loss of Day—Further Progress Reported in the Steel Trade.

Trading on the Stock Exchange expanded again yesterday over the million-share mark, over half of which was represented by the trading in the three most active stocks, United States Steel, Union Pacific, and Reading. The general record of the day's trading, so far as the movement of prices was concerned, was a sharp but orderly decline, followed by a recovery which left the closing prices of the most active stocks approximately 1 point above the low level of the day. The "Harriman" influence in the market was readily traceable in the record of the day's net results in such declines as 4⅛ points in Union Pacific, 2⅜ in Southern Pacific, and in New York Central, while the net losses in other parts of the list were for the most part much less pronounced. United States Steel, the relative strength of which has attracted no little attention from traders, showed no greater loss than 1¼ points despite the extensive liquidation which was in progress during yesterday's session.

The reports which daily come to hand from the steel trade go far to explain the steadiness of the Steel shares, yesterday's contribution to the information regarding this leading industry being exemplified in the statement contained in the Iron Age's weekly review of trade conditions that, with the blowing in of four additional furnaces, the United States Steel Corporation will have 94½ per cent. of its furnace capacity in operation the prospect being that the company's August pig iron production will establish a new high record. Continued progress in this most important industry must needs so much to maintain confidence in the business outlook, and, taken with the other indications of expanding business, furnishes the most satisfactory proof of the soundness of the progress which the country is making. Beneficial rains occurred yesterday in the corn belt and were reflected in a decline in the price of corn, while wheat also closed fractionally under the previous day's prices. Among other matters bearing on the general situation which the stock market had presented for its attention, were further statements of railway earnings, including the Atchison's statement for July, which showed an increase of $745,196 in gross, with an increase of $113,569 in net. A somewhat easier tone was noted in the time money market yesterday, while foreign exchange rates advanced again to a slight extent.

PHILADELPHIA PRICES.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 25.—Lehigh Valley and Cambria Steel were the heaviest losers in the local market to-day, but the entire list was inclined to sag on only a fair volume of trading. The traction shares were lightly dealt in. A feature of the morning session was a sale of a block of 1,000 shares of Philadelphia Electric at 12¾.

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

Suggestion of Liquidation.

Those who are qualified to know insist that there was evidence of real liquidation in the earlier trading yesterday morning. Just what the distinction is between real liquidation and plain ordinary selling is not very clear, but presumably the liquidation represents selling of stock that has been held for some time and by interests or persons committed to higher prices. The selling of any one's stock would be just as much entitled to be classified as real liquidation, but there is a class of selling that is not conducive to general strength in the market. Brokers said during the day that many of their customers had become timid and had reduced their commitments or sold out entirely. This applied primarily to the smaller accounts, which is evidenced by the fact that while the market from time to time was weak there was not the continuous headlong break in any stock that wholesale selling of the character called good would produce. Speculative sentiment is absolutely mixed and speculative advice is so contradictory that it is for the most part worthless.

Stop-Loss Orders Plentiful.

Probably there are more stop-loss orders in the market, or at least there have been, for the last few days than for some time. This is only one evidence of lack of faith in the market. Most traders go along quite contentedly and make no attempt to limit their losses or conserve part of their profits at a certain specified point. Some one ought to analyze and study the psychology of the stop-loss order. It is regarded by most traders in about the same way that life insurance used to be regarded by certain classes in the community, as tending to precipitate that for which it is secured or used. Some traders believe that the minute they put a stop-loss order anywhere near the market some one or other will cause the market to react sufficiently to take their stock and lose subsequent profits. Many stop-loss orders were reached in yesterday's market and may have been in themselves an element of weakness.

Irritants in Speculation.

There is a new crop of wiseacres in the financial district, composed principally of sold-out bulls, to which is added bullish traders whistling to keep up their courage. The one is in the I-told-you-so class, while the other is in the expectant class. It is difficult for a trader in an office where there are other traders who got out almost at the top and who have stayed out to make up their minds. Certainly if they are bullish they are likely to be discouraged by those who either are too timid to go back into the market again or who feel that the market is not low enough yet. There are so many things that conduce to uncertainty in a trader's mind that it is sometimes remarkable that they can so pin themselves down as to trade at all. The market and its fluctuations of late, for instance, have been disconcerting. Add to this the uncertainty as to the value and effect of current news, to say nothing of current rumors and then other traders' advices and brokers' opinions, and one may realize that it requires some strength to give an order in a brokerage office on one's own responsibility, when that order is probably contrary to the broker's own advice.

New York Central Talk.

That interview with Mr. Harriman at Jersey City did not clear up the New York Central mystery, which has been evolved from the rise in that stock. In fact, it simply served to stimulate curiosity, with the result that there are more new rumors in circulation now than ever before. The answer of Mr. Harriman to the questions concerning New York Central simply indicated his desire not to talk about it. Therefore, arriving at a conclusion in the usual Wall Street way, it means that there is a deal on and that control of New York Central has vested or will vest in the interests now dominant in Union Pacific. The sympathetic effect of the news in New York Central and Union Pacific has been commented upon and furnishes an additional theory. Foundation is not necessary for rumors, which is a good thing for those who set them in circulation.

Alleged Overextension.

Talk was heard yesterday of traders who were supposed to be extended in the market and who were being forced to liquidate. This is absolutely contrary to the general talk heard two or three weeks ago when the market was strong that one element of strength was the fact that no trader, no house, or individual was in a bad position. Just which of these interpretations are to be accepted cannot be determined. It is very easy to make the general assertion that some operator is carrying too many stocks, but it is very difficult to verify unless his brokerage house or his banking friends advertise it, something highly improbable. The best judgment of those interested in the suggestion is that where stocks are held heavily and largely, those who are holding them are quite capable of doing so indefinitely.

BOSTON STOCK MARKET.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, Aug. 25.—The continued sharp decline in Lake Copper was the feature of to-day's market. The stock opened at 34½, and, under heavy offerings, sold off to 31½; later, however, recovering to 33⅝. North Butte also was under pressure, and, after opening around 61, reacted to 59½, but later, on heavy buying, recovered to 61½. United States Smelting common was well supported, a reaction from 54 to 53½ being followed by recovery to 54½. In the general list American Telephone sold off to 139¾, and American Agricultural Chemical, off to 49. Massachusetts Electric common developed late activity and touched 15½.

Cash in hand increased 27,855,000 marks, loans decreased 3,312,000 marks, discounts decreased 37,298,000 marks, Treasury bills decreased 35,994,000 marks, notes in circulation decreased 28,114,000 marks, deposits increased 154,000 marks, and gold in hand increased 24,837,000 marks.

THE FOREIGN MARKETS.

London Exchange Closes Weak—Paris and Berlin Are Firm.

LONDON, Aug. 25.—Money was in quiet demand on the market to-day and discounts were firm.

On the Stock Exchange, business was somewhat slacker at irregular prices. Grand Trunk was supported on the crop reports and good traffic returns. Russian, Japanese, and Argentine bonds received good attention at advanced prices, but Kaffirs lost their early improvement under Paris selling, while gilt-edged securities were affected by the Continental inquiry for gold.

American securities opened weak, and later the market became irregular. At noon the tone was dull, with prices from ⅛ above to ⅜ below yesterday's New York closing. Disappointment that there was no increase in the Harriman dividends caused the market to droop.

Then, in the afternoon, Wall Street offered stock freely, the leading issues fell from 1 to 3 points, and the market closed weak.

Bar silver steady at 23¾d per ounce. Money, ½@¾ per cent.

PARIS, Aug. 25.—Trading on the Bourse to-day was quiet, and prices were steady. The private rate of discount has been lowered to 1¼ per cent. from 1⅝ per cent. At closing, 3 per cent. rentes were 98f 17½c for the account.

Exchange on London, 25f 18c for checks.

BERLIN, Aug. 25.—Prices on the Boerse to-day were firm and the trading was active.

THE COFFEE MARKET.

Coffee ruled fairly steady yesterday under continued evening up of September engagements in preparation for the first notice day on Friday, which constituted a large part of the business. After opening unchanged to 5 points higher quite late in the day near positions turned somewhat easier, and the close was steady, net 5 points lower on August and unchanged to 5 points higher on the later months. Sales, including 10,000 bags switches, were about 25,250 bags.

Aside from a partial advance of ¼ franc at Havre, foreign markets showed little change. Primary receipts were much lighter than those reported on Tuesday, but the movement was much heavier than during the big crop year.

Spot coffee quiet, Rio No. 7, 7¼c.

IRON ADVANCING STEADILY.

Heavy Buying Continues with Some Contracts Made for 1910.

Commenting on the situation in the iron and steel trade, The Iron Age says:

The week has been marked by an active pig iron market in all selling centres, particularly in the East, with advancing prices for both steelmaking and foundry irons, special significance being given to the rate at which basic pig iron has advanced in Eastern Pennsylvania.

Buying of basic by Eastern steel works has continued, showing a still unsatisfied demand for iron for this year. Purchases of 24,000 tons for the first half of 1910 were made by one interest at $18, delivered, or $3 above the market of early June. Eastern furnaces are not eager for business for next year either in foundry or basic.

Foundries have been in the market in all parts of the country in the past week, and in Eastern New York and New England there has been conspicuously good buying for 1909 requirements. In general the advance on foundry iron has been about 50 cents.

Bessemer iron in the Central West has advanced 50 cents at Valley Furnace. A Pittsburg steel company has bought 11,000 tons of basic iron at $15.25, Valley Furnace, and slightly higher.

The Iron Trade Review says:

In spite of the tremendous production of furnaces and mills of the Steel Corporation and independent interests, all companies are now having great difficulty in making deliveries satisfactory to consumers. Based on figures of activities so far this month, it is certain that the Steel Corporation during August will set a new record for ore shipments, will break its pig iron record by between 50,000 and 100,000 tons, and will show total shipments of finished materials of well over 900,000 tons, a figure near normal. All subsidiaries show a marked increase in output so far this month, particularly in pig iron and billets.

The reduction of the tariff on pig iron will result in sharp curtailment of sales of American iron on the Pacific Coast, where even before the passage of the new Tariff bill foreign countries enjoyed a large part of the business. Throughout the country pig iron prices are firm, with a tendency to advance.

Orders for steel rails placed immediately following the opening of the books by the Steel Corporation for 1910 delivery were a total of 145,000 tons for the Santa Fe and 50,000 tons for the Chicago & Northwestern. The Rock Island, Pennsylvania, Harriman lines, and New York Central are all negotiating for next year's rail requirements, which will be heavy. The Southern Railway has bought 28,000 tons of open-hearth for early rolling at the Ensley Mill of the Tennessee company and 12,000 tons from the Pennsylvania Steel Company.

There has been a labor shortage in the Connellsville region.

THE COTTON MARKET.

Active Strength Follows Early Weakness—Closes 6 to 9 Points Up.

Cotton met slight early losses yesterday, but these were followed by an advance on rumors of a bullish National Ginners' report, and private reports on sections of the Eastern crop. Trading, which had been very quiet, became more active on the advance, and the close was very steady at a net gain of 6@9 points.

The market opened steady at a decline of 3 points to an advance of 1 point.

The Texas detailed weather report showed light precipitation at numerous points, and considerably lower temperatures. Advices regarding the market for Autumn shipments of spot cotton from the South were conflicting.

Contract prices follow:

450 ACRES OF LAND ON NARRAGANSETT BAY

With two and one-quarter miles of shore front To be sold in TWO PARCELS at Steamboat Landing of the Providence, Fall River & Newport Steamboat Co.

Conanicut Park, Town of Jamestown, Conanicut Island, R. I.

PARCEL NO. 1 comprises the property known as CONANICUT PARK and contains 1,579 building lots, mostly 50 x 100 feet each. With streets, parks, unplatted land. In all about 385 acres of land with about two miles of shore front, with riparian rights, water system, waiting station and two houses.

PARCEL NO. 2. FARM of about 67 acres of land, adjoining parcel No. 1 on the south. High land overlooking the water on both sides of the island. Level and ready for platting into sites for Summer homes.

CONANICUT PARK is in the Town of Jamestown and comprises the entire northern end of the Island of Conanicut, which is situated in Narragansett Bay, between Newport and the Island of Rhode Island on the east and the mainland of Rhode Island on the west. The island is about nine miles long and separates the bay into the east and west passages. On the island are located the Summer homes of many people from all sections of the United States. The view from the Park, which includes a view of the City of Newport, Wickford, and Hope, Patience, Gould and Dutch Islands, comprises a marine landscape of unusual beauty. From the higher parts of the Park practically all of Narragansett Bay can be seen. All of the water traffic entering and leaving Narragansett Bay passes within sight of this property. Newport Harbor and Dutch Island Harbor are the favorite rendezvous of the United States Navy vessels, the naval vessels of foreign countries, the New York Yacht Club fleet, and the pleasure craft of the entire Atlantic seaboard. The waters of the bay furnish unsurpassed facilities for bathing, yachting, and fishing. The air is pure, soft, and restful, making Conanicut Park an ideal location for Summer homes.

The property is offered in two parcels, large enough to enable an investor to devote his time and thought to its development and insuring him a handsome return.

The property must be sold. An absolute sale to the highest bidder. Two-thirds of the purchase price may remain on mortgage.

A special steamer will leave Newport on Day of Sale.

A. B. STICKNEY CALLS FOR RATE REFORMS

Railroad Head, Declaring Lines Still Give Rebates, Would Abolish Commodity Rates.

NUMBER 800; FULL OF EVIL

Favors to Big Shippers Concealed in Them—He Would Make All Rates Class Rates and Cut Them Down.

A. B. Stickney, long President of the Chicago Great Western, whose charge that the railroads are still granting rebates just as they were before the passage of the Hepburn rate law, is about to be investigated by the Inter-State Commerce Commission, outlined in an interview yesterday with a representative of THE TIMES what he regards as the proper method to pursue to do away with these alleged abuses.

The great body of railroad men, Mr. Stickney said, are anxious to obey the law to the letter, but they are sometimes led by a feeling of self-protection to get around the law because some other railroad man is getting around it in one way or another, and unless they meet him on his own ground they lose business. Thus the breaking of the law by indirection is due, Mr. Stickney suggested, not to any general desire on the part of railroad men to avoid compliance with the statute, but to the willingness of a few railroad men to try to get the better of their competitors by improper methods.

Rebating Easy Under Hepburn Law.

It is just as easy now for the railroads to grant rate favors to large shippers, said Mr. Stickney, as it was before the passage of the Hepburn law. The granting of favors has to be done differently, but it can and is being done, he said, just as effectively as in the past.

One of the features of the Hepburn law is its provisions in respect to the filing and posting of all tariffs, but in the very nature of things it is impossible for shippers to get accurate information from the complicated tariff published by the railroads. A favorite way of granting rebates now, Mr. Stickney said, is to allow claims for overcharges and for damages presented by large shippers. Claims of this kind presented by large and favored shippers, Mr. Stickney said, are promptly paid by railroads, and in many cases amount in effect to rebates, while similar claims presented by small shippers are most closely scrutinized.

Discrimination in rates is also practiced, Mr. Stickney said, by putting obscure rates in the rate schedules. He instanced in this connection the inclusion in a Western road's tariffs of a rate on illuminating oil and another and much lower rate on "products of petroleum." The attention of a favored shipper, he said, was called to the latter rate while the ordinary shipper of illuminating oil would have no reason to do otherwise than inquire for the rate on "illuminating oil."

As a remedy for the rebate evils Mr. Stickney suggested as the first essential the simplification of rates and as a means to this end the adoption of a uniform classification. What ought to be done, Mr. Stickney said, is to do away entirely with commodity rates and reduce all rates to class rates, at the same time increasing the number of classes to a sufficient extent to permit an equitable adjustment of rates between the various classes of merchandise.

In the territory between Chicago and the seaboard there are now in effect, Mr. Stickney said, about 800 commodity rates. It would be possible, he suggested, to do away with all these commodity rates and substitute for them and for existing class rates a series of, say, twenty-five to thirty class rates which would cover all commodities. This would immediately reduce the number of rates in this territory from about 800 to no more than thirty.

Uniform Classification.

The adoption of uniform classification would be an essential feature of the establishment of the new class rate system proposed by Mr. Stickney. There are now in use in the United States three different classifications, one in the East, one in the South, and the other in the West. A commodity which is included, say, in the second class in the East, may be in the third class in the South and in the fourth class in the West.

The railroads themselves, and Mr. Stickney pointed out this fact yesterday, have on several occasions tried to adopt a uniform classification, but have never succeeded. A new effort in this direction is, as a matter of fact, in progress at this very time. Mr. Stickney said on this point that the railroads would never be able to agree on this subject. He recalled, he said, that on one occasion an agreement regarding uniform classification lacked only one vote and failed because one man would not agree to it. There will always be some road, he said, which would not join in such a movement, and hence the only way to bring it about is to put the power of law behind the movement and give the Inter-State Commerce Commission the right to pass upon the few points in a uniform classification upon which the railroads might not themselves be able to agree.

What is needed, Mr. Stickney said, to do away with abuses in the matter of railroad rates is not more punitive laws, but some constructive laws. The penalties imposed, he said, are severe enough. Railroad rates, Mr. Stickney said incidentally, are already low enough, and what is needed is not a reduction in rates, but fair application of existing rates and the adoption of methods of fixing them which will do away to a large extent with the possibility which exists under the present Hepburn law, as it existed under previous rate laws, of favored shippers obtaining special consideration at the hands of such railroads as are willing to get around the law for the sake of getting business.

45 PER CENT. FOR CREDITORS.

Adjustment for Bankrupt Poor Brokerage Firm Made by Committee.

BOSTON, Aug. 25.—The creditors of H. W. Poor & Co., bankers and brokers of this city and New York, which went into bankruptcy last Winter, will receive something less than 45 per cent. of their claims, according to an adjustment by a committee. It was announced to-day that the total claims of creditors aggregate $234,377.

Of this amount $35,142 will be provided for through the enforcement of a lien held by two creditors against the seat of H. W. Poor on the New York Stock Exchange.

First National Copper Loan Off.

Stockholders of the First National Copper Company, which is the successor of the Balaklala Company, have been notified that the proposed issue of $1,000,000 6 per cent. convertible bonds of the Balaklala Copper Company has been deferred, satisfactory arrangements having been made to meet requirements without the sale of bonds. On July 1 $375,000 6 per cent. bonds of the Balaklala Company were retired, and it stated that if the Directors deem it advisable the deferred issue of $1,000,000 new bonds may be put out later with subscription rights to stockholders.

RECEIVER FOR SCHOOL OF ART

Seth B. Robinson Named Following a Judgment for $773.

The long-rumored financial difficulties of the New York School of Art, at 2,237 Broadway, have increased to such an extent that it has gone into the hands of a receiver.

The school recently failed to pay an alleged debt of $773 for iron work to Contractor Thomas Dimond. Dimond got judgment, and Supreme Court Justice Amend last Tuesday appointed Seth B. Robinson receiver for the school. Neither Receiver Robinson nor William Lester Wemple, who owns most of the school's $45,000 stock, seemed to care yesterday to discuss the school's prospects under the receivership. But the school announced some time ago that it would open as usual in the Autumn. Kenneth Hayes Miller and Irving Wiles, it was said at that time, would conduct their old classes. The school's inability to pay its instructors' salaries has, in recent years, alienated many able instructors from it. Among these have been F. Luis Mura, J. Carroll Beckwith, A. B. Wenzell, Howard Chandler Christie, Edward Penfield, and Lawton Parker. Robert Henri left the Faculty in the middle of last Winter for the same reason and opened a school of his own.

Before it fell into financial straits a year or so ago, the school was very successful. William Merritt Chase at one time headed its instructors. Among its prominent graduates are Charles S. Chapman, George Bellows, Julius Golz, Homer Boss, Glenn O. Coleman, Arthur Cedarquist, Roy Williams, and Edward Hopper. It then occupied the old-fashioned building at 57 West Fifty-seventh Street. Douglas John Connah, its present President, and his wife, Nora La Connah, are now abroad with a Summer class. The school was founded twelve years ago by Lawton Parker, F. Luis Mura, and other seceders from the Art Students' League.

WOMAN LOST $28,000; GONE.

Mrs. Lucas, Her Landlady Says, Often Had Only a Tomato for a Meal.

Mrs. Jane Lucas, who has a lodging at 72 Richmond Street, Newark, disappeared after the reported loss of bankbooks and securities valued at $28,000 to the police a few days ago. Up to a late hour last night she had not returned. Mrs. Lucas's son, Samuel, of Paterson, has become alarmed over his mother's absence, and was hunting for her yesterday.

Mrs. Lucas left her lodging about 5:30 o'clock Tuesday morning. She was on the eve of sailing for Sheffield, England, her girlhood home, where she made a pilgrimage every year, and her financial loss seems to have eliminated the theory that she sailed. In many respects Mrs. Lucas was a woman of mystery. Her most intimate friends in Newark know nothing about the wealth she possessed, and Mrs. Nelson Bards, her landlady, learned of it only when she went one day into the widow's room and saw the bed covered with money. Green and yellow backs were littered all over the room.

Mrs. Lucas told Mrs. Bards in an offhand way that she had just fallen heir to some money. She gathered up the money in her hands, and, tucking it into the bosom of her waist, said: "Am I not lucky?"

The day following the landlady's discovery of Mrs. Lucas's wealth the latter said that she lost the money, and that it had slipped through her corsets. She then informed the police. Mrs. Bards declared that the woman often made one tomato do for her dinner. She lived economically, and neighbors believed that she was poor.

$5,000,000 NOTE ISSUE.

American Locomotive Company Provides More Working Capital.

The Directors of the American Locomotive Company announced yesterday an issue of $5,000,000 5 per cent. debenture notes to reimburse the company's treasury for improvements, as was foreshadowed in a statement last week. The notes also take care of demands for additional working capital.

The new notes make no provision for maturing obligations of this nature which are to be provided for out of current earnings. In making the announcement of the note issue the Directors made this statement:

"In order to take advantage of the prevailing low prices of materials and facility and economy in making improvements when the plants were not in full operation, the Directors, with full belief in the future prosperity of the country, some time ago authorized extensive improvements in the larger works of the company at Schenectady, Dunkirk, Pittsburg, and Richmond. Plans have been prepared and contracts let for these improvements, which, it is expected, will result in a largely increased capacity and reduction in manufacturing costs.

"The improvements entail an expenditure of $3,500,000, for which it will ultimately be necessary to reimburse the treasury of the company. Accordingly the Directors have authorized an issue of $5,000,000 5 per cent. gold debenture notes to reimburse the treasury for the amount expended in improvements and to provide additional working capital necessary to conduct the greater volume of business made possible by the increased facilities."

At a hearing yesterday before the Public Service Commission figures were introduced showing the results of the physical appraisal of the properties of the Coney Island & Brooklyn Railroad, which is involved in the five-cent fare to Coney controversy. The appraisal put in evidence yesterday is the first of the physical appraisals undertaken by the commission to be completed. The appraisal of the B. R. T. system is nearing completion and hearings have been begun to clear up questions raised in the appraisal of the Third Avenue Railroad property.

GREAT WESTERN'S TERMINAL.

Road Obtains Additional Trackage Rights in Minneapolis.

The plans of the Chicago Great Western for the development of its traffic facilities include, it was made known yesterday, the enlargement of its terminal facilities, for which purpose an option is said to have been obtained on terminal property in Minneapolis belonging to the Wisconsin Central, which is no longer required by that road, owing to its acquisition by the Canadian Pacific.

The exercise of this option, it is said, would lead to the use by the Great Western of the tracking rights into Minneapolis over the Great Northern, which the Wisconsin Central has enjoyed in the past.

Stock Brokers Ask Triple Holiday.

Stock Exchange members are looking forward to a triple holiday at Labor Day, and a petition was circulated on the floor yesterday asking the Governing Committee to close the Exchange on Sept. 4, the Saturday preceding Labor Day. The Governors have been lavish with holidays during the last half year, and every time a National holiday has occurred on Monday recently the Exchange has been closed on the preceding Saturday, giving the members a three-day holiday.

COURTS TO PASS ON SEGREGATION PLAN

EMINENT LAWYERS DIFFER

Preferred Holders Claim Share in Investment Stocks Bought with Bond Proceeds.

The plan for the retirement of the preferred stock of the Union Pacific Railroad, which certain important interests identified with that property have lately taken up for consideration, cannot, in all likelihood, be put into effect, it was learned yesterday, without resort to a judicial determination of the rights of the holders of this preferred stock in respect to the so-called investment assets of the Union Pacific Railroad.

Mr. Harriman, upon his return from Europe on Tuesday, said that he was not thinking of any segregation plan for the Union Pacific, but it remains true that important interests identified with the road have lately discussed the carrying out of such a plan, and as an incident to it have discussed the retirement of the preferred stock. In this connection the interesting fact comes to light that one of the reasons for the indefinite postponement of the segregation plan soon after it was first broached two years ago, when the working out of the scheme was intrusted to a special committee of the Union Pacific Directors, was the inability of the Union Pacific interests to agree regarding the treatment to be accorded to the holders of the preferred stock. The same problems which were presented then must be settled before any such plan can be finally worked out. That there is still a purpose on the part of influential interests in the Union Pacific to work out such a plan was admitted in the best informed quarters yesterday. It has become known that eminent counsel have been consulted in respect to the rights of the Union Pacific stockholders, and while the views of lawyers differ, it is admitted both by those in favor of the preferred stock retirement and those who are opposed to it, that the question is one which only the courts can definitely determine.

The basis of the preferred stockholders' claim to a share in any segregation of the Union Pacific's investment as such, is the fact that these assets were paid for, not out of accumulated earnings, but out of the proceeds of the $100,000,000 convertible bond issue, and out of the profits made on the Union Pacific's original stock purchases. Some holders of the preferred stock go even further and assert that the preferred is entitled not only to its share of the principal of these investment assets in case of any distribution, but is also entitled to share in the income from these investment holdings on the ground that they represent a separate account quite apart from the surplus earnings of the railroad itself, in which the preferred stockholders admit they have no claim beyond the fixed 4 per cent. on their stock. The fact that this investment account of the Union Pacific was originally established by means of a bond issue, which was placed ahead of the preferred stock, is an additional reason, the preferred stockholders claim, why they should derive benefit from these investment holdings. These claims, however, are such as would naturally be contested by stockholders whose only interest is in the common stock, and the success of the preferred shareholders who favor the preferred stock's participating in these investment assets of the Union Pacific in carrying their point, will probably depend upon their ability to get a judicial decision upholding their views.

One of the Directors of the Union Pacific in reply to an inquiry regarding the attitude which the Union Pacific Board would take toward a formal proposal to retire the preferred stock or to permit it to share in any segregation of investment assets, said:

"The question is so important a one that no Board of Directors would think of settling it without having the questions at issue determined by proper judicial procedure in order to definitely establish the rights of both classes of stockholders."

So far the proposals advanced by preferred stockholding interests in the Union Pacific have not been formally presented to the Board of Directors, and the chances now are that some time longer will be allowed to go by before any further effort is made to put the claims of these preferred stockholders in shape for formal action.

SAYS CHILD KILLED HERSELF.

Jersey City Doctor Reports 13-Year-Old Girl Took Poison—Denial by Father.

It was reported to the Jersey City police yesterday that Ellen Struckman, the 13-year-old daughter of Frederick Struckman of 515 Palisade Avenue had committed suicide Tuesday night by drinking carbolic acid.

Dr. McMillan, who was called in to attend the child, reported the case as one of suicide, although the father denies that it was suicide and says she took the acid by mistake for medicine.

It was said Ellen was very unhappy, being under strict discipline at home, and this prompted her to end her life, according to the story told yesterday. She took the poison while in bed with her sister Freda, who is two years her senior. Freda was awakened by her sister's groans, and detecting the odor of carbolic acid called her parents, who sent for Dr. McMillan. The dead girl was an operator on handkerchiefs.

SUES DOUGLAS ROBINSON.

Painter Wants $1,500 for Decorating the House of Roosevelt's Brother-in-Law.

Douglas Robinson, brother-in-law of ex-President Roosevelt, is defendant in a suit brought in Newark, N. J., yesterday by John T. Gilhouley, a painter and decorator, for $1,500. The case will be reached in the September circuit of the Essex County courts.

The amount sued for covers pointing up walls, papering and painting, and renovating the Robinson home at Llewellyn Park, West Orange, N. J. The suit is brought as the result of a disagreement regarding the bill.

LATEST CUSTOMS RULINGS.

Fancy Whisky Jugs for Holiday Distribution Are Not 'Unusual' Coverings.

Whisky jugs intended for gratuitous distribution are held by the Board of United States General Appraisers not to come under the tariff category of "unusual" coverings, but instead are to be regarded as dutiable at the rates applicable to their contents.

Collector Loeb decided that the jugs were of a charcter warranting their classification as "unusual" coverings, with duty according to the component material of chief value. He accordingly exacted duty on this basis. Frederick Glassup, the importer of the goods, appealed to the board for relief. Glassup maintained that the Collector erred in classifying the jugs as "unusual," and that they ought to be allowed to enter as "usual."

General Appraiser Hay, in his decision for the board, upholds the contention made by the importer. He says:

"From the testimony it appears that these jugs are imported chiefly for gratuitous distribution at Christmas time, and we are inclined to the opinion that the jugs in question are not unusual coverings for the whisky they contain, and certain it is there is no testimony whatever to show that they are designed for use otherwise than in the bona fide transportation of their contents. The protest is sustained and the Collector directed to reliquidate the entry accordingly."

FOR McDONNELL SCHOLARSHIP

Four Years' Course in Brooklyn College the Award.

Many High School graduates are now hard at work preparing for the examination for the scholarship in Brooklyn College founded in honor of the Right Rev. Bishop McDonnell. The winner will be entitled to a full four years' course in the branches leading to the degree of Bachelor of Arts.

Only graduates of qualified High Schools and those possessing Regents' diplomas for four years' successful High School work are eligible for the competition. The subjects in which candidates will be examined are Latin grammar, Latin composition, Latin literature, including Cicero, Caesar, and Virgil; Greek grammar, Greek composition, Greek literature, including Xenophon and Homer; advanced English—grammar, composition and literature; Greek, Roman, English and United States history; algebra, geometry, elementary science, French, or German.

The examination will take place at the college on Saturday, Sept. 11. Application must be filed with the Scholarship Committee before Sept. 9.

The two High School scholarships founded by Mrs. Henrietta B. Andrei will also be open for competition. This examination will be held on Sept. 9. The contest is for graduates of public and parochial grammar schools, and candidates will be examined in English, civics, geography, arithmetic, and history.

To the successful contestants will be awarded a four years' course in the High School. If they maintain an average of 90 per cent. during their High School course they will get scholarships for the college course.

ELOPED AS HER PARENTS DID.

Girl's Father, Angered by Imitation, Chases Son-in-Law with a Gun.

Margery Dare of 11 East Park Street, Newark, N. J., had often heard her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond S. Dare, tell how, many years back, they had disobeyed their parents and had eloped to Caldwell, N. J., where they were married.

"We never regretted it," Mr. Dare said, "and for once young heads were wiser than old ones."

Miss Dare remembered this and on Aug. 15 she and Eugene I. Everson of 427 Clifton Avenue, Newark, took a trolley to Caldwell and followed the example of Miss Dare's parents by being married there. They did not tell the Dares until Tuesday night. Mrs. Dare heard the news first and gave her blessing, but Mr. Dare was angry that his family legend should have been taken so literally.

He ordered Everson from the house and then pursued him with a rifle. The son-in-law immediately sought a policeman and had Mr. Dare arrested. Yesterday morning he was fined $10 and told to leave the young couple alone.

DIS DEBAR FOUNDS A NEW CULT HERE

Ex-Priestess of Fake Spiritualism Returns as Teacher in a "School of Mahatmas."

SNARED LUTHER R. MARSH

Got Lawyer's Property Years Ago, but Had to Disgorge—She Quits City When Identity Becomes Known.

Bringing with her a brand new religious cult, called the New Revelation, based ostensibly on the Bible, but tinged with the teachings of the Purple Mother of Theosophy, the creed of Loomis, the "Life Scientist"; Andrew McConnell, the "New Thoughter"; Pinney Earle, the "Soul Sister," and other newly born and fascinating cults of the last half century, the noted and notorious Ann O'Delia Dis Debar, of many aliases, a number of husbands and several prison terms, has returned to the scene of her earlier exploits. It was learned yesterday that the one-time priestess of fake spiritualism had established herself at 32 East Thirty-third Street, where, on Wednesday next, she was to have begun teaching in the School of the Mahatmas the doctrine of physical imomrtality.

She left that address yesterday morning, however. Detroit, Mich., from which city she fled in 1907, along with David L. Mackay, known then as her private secretary, notified New York that the ancient priestess, defying age and portliness, was about to start something new in religious cults in this city. As she is wanted in England, whence she fled while on parole, and as there are other complaints against her, the late "Queen of the Flying Rollers," with the faithful Mackay, disappeared from the new temple as soon as she knew her identity was known, taking some of the new paraphernalia with them.

In the four-story brownstone house there was left, however, a big throne chair in the back parlor, a great deal of costly and freshly-printed literature arent the New Revelation, and two Western women, who say they are really the heads of the cult, and that they propose to open up the school of the Mahatmas on schedule time and keep it going along as voluntary contributions permit.

F. A. Heinze's Picture in Sanctuary.

On the table in the parlor was a picture of a man resembling F. A. Heinze, said by the present head of the house to be a friend of hers. Mr. Heinze said he had met her in the West, but hadn't seen her lately.

The pamphlets and other literature of the New Revelation, just from the printer, says that the School of the Mahatmas is to be run by the Society of the Mahatmas, whose President is Mrs. Lillian Hobart French. With her in the house yesterday was a woman who said that she was Mrs. Frances Belden, sister of Mrs. French. The latter denied that she and her sister had been dupes of the ancient Ann. Indeed, Mrs. French says, it was she and not Ann O'Delia Dis Debar who thought out the New Revelation.

Mrs. French is very good to look at—tall, graceful, and of a Grecian type of beauty. Her hair is brown, her eyes are blue, and her features clean cut and regular. Her nose is thin, her mouth firm, her chin masterful, with manners to match the chin. She is 30 years old or more; her beauty is still fresh.

Mrs. Belden is petite, less masterful, but more spirituelle and zealous and more faded looking. She says she is a widow from the West, like her sister, and declared that it was Mrs. French who had put up the money for the preliminary expenses of the Institute of the Mahatmas.

Mrs. French says for herself that she comes from California, that her husband has been in Alaska six or seven years, she knows not where, and that she has spent about all the money she had in organizing the society and school. She was dressed handsomely and expensively, and sat at a desk in her office like a business woman.

Teaches "Hell on Earth."

"We teach that the only hell is here on earth," she went on, "and I have been fed up fat on hell to-day by you newspaper men."

Mrs. French spent some years hunting through all the religions for a soul truth that would satisfy her, she says, browsing for months in Christian Science pastures, in the manw plains of Theosophy, on the fields of New Thought with Edward McConnell and Loomis, the Life Scientist, and in other new and old religious pastures. They all have some truth in them, she declares, but not the whole truth. She herself found this kind of truth, she declares, and it is that some are elected to attain immortality in the physical body.

Last year, she says, she met at one of the New Thought meetings in Carnegie Hall, where her sister was a teacher under McConnell, David L. Mackay and an ancient, portly woman who was introduced as A-Diva Veed-Ya. Mrs. French is somewhat confused in her statements as to whether she came to know that this last-named person was Ann O'Delia Dis Debar, but she is quite sure that she did not know all her record.

At any rate, Mrs. French, Mrs. Belden, Mackay, and A-Diva Veed-Ya, after talking it over, came to the conclusion that they had enough religious belief in common to start a school, and thus was conceived the Mahatma Society. They all believed in reincarnation, as do the Theosophists, and in the immortality of the physical body of a select few. They had some little differences, perhaps, in details of creed, but these they put aside.

Mrs. French was made the titular head of the organization, and then the prophets of the New Revelation started in on their pamphlets to prepare to spread abroad the truth. The four-story brownstone house at 32 East Thirty-third Street, just off Fifth Avenue, was taken and fitted up for business. Mrs. French says that she and her sister live in the house, and that A-Diva Veed-Ya and Mackay, who posed as her son, lived out in New Jersey somewhere on a farm."

The School's Curriculum.

In the back parlor of the house a huge chair was fitted up, surrounded by smaller chairs and settees. This was where the "teaching" was to take place. A-Diva Veed-Ya, Mrs. French said, had dug up some of her old useful paraphernalia—seven-pronged candlesticks, rich curtains, and so on—and contributed them to the furnishings.

The Faculty of the School of the Mahatmas includes, besides those named, Prof. Yojana and Prof. Akrosef. They are "just teachers," said Mrs. French, who had agreed to help wave the Torch of Truth. She would not tell any more about them. One of the pamphlets presented this proposed school curriculum:

Monday, "Science of Being," Prof. Yojana; Tuesday, "Concentration, Meditation, and Vibration," Lillian H. French; Wednesday, "Esoterics," A-Diva Veed-Ya; Thursday, "Occultism," Prof. Akrosef; Friday, "Interpretation of Scripture and Laws of Physical Immortality," David. (Initiate 2-6.) Brotherhood of the Third Degree, seventh subdivision; Sundays, free lectures.

All classes were to begin at 3 o'clock, and all instruction was to be free, said Mrs. French yesterday, though the pamphlet prepared previously had the word "free" only after the Sunday lectures, and Mrs. French admitted that persons who wanteid to make contributions might do so. It was true, she said, that A-Diva Ved-Ya and "Initiate 2-6 David" had arranged to give private advice and instruction to pupils in her rooms, for which they were to make their own charges. Asked what the Mahtama Society and the Truth was to get out of these emoluments, Mrs. French said she hadn't talked about sordid money, but that it had been generally understood that the two aforementioned teachers would throw into the general fund part of their private fees.

The reason David had put into the prospectus such an ambitious description of himself, said Mrs. French, was that having formerly been in the newspaper business, he had attended to the printing, and thus had got himself in rather large after she had corrected the proofs. She professed to be somewhat peevish about his action in that matter, and was doubtful if she would pay the printer, because he hadn't followed her orders.

Tenets of the Cult.

One of the pamphlets said that the school has "associated centres" in Boston, Cleveland, Chicago, Detroit, Vancouver, Denver, Portland, Los Angeles, and El Paso. But Mrs. French said that no school had been started in any of those places; the New York school was to be the mother institution. The words of the pamphlet meant only that there were friends in those cities who would start schools some time.

The tenets of the New Revelation as set forth by the literature of the Mahatma Institute are printed, so far as possible, in purple ink on purple paper, thus imitating the color preference of Purple Mother Tingley of Point Loma, Cal., the Theosophical leader opposed to Mrs. Annie Besant. And there is in the literature of the New Revelation a lot of Theosophical phrases, such as "astral plane," "reincarnation," and the like. It will be remembered that early in her career Ann O'Delia Diss Debar was a follower of Mme. Blavatsky.

Prospective disciples of the school were to fill out this card:

I hereby make application for membership in the Mahatma Society, New York, agreeing to conform to the following rules: (1) To help in the work of Physical Immortality; (2) To spread the word of truth as revealed by the Master Mahatmas; and (3) to search out the lost and redeem them.

Mrs. French and Mrs. Belden started yesterday to tell the reporters what it all meant, but seemed in sore need of the aid of A-Diva Veed-Ya and Initiate 2-6 David. Mrs. Belden would be going along swimmingly when her more masterful sister would lay her hand on her arm and say:

"Now, Frances, hold, go slow; you are only confusing them."

"Do you not get something from the Theosophists?" they were asked.

"Two things," spoke up Mrs. Belden. "One thing," contradicted Mrs. French, "don't you remember, Frances, reincarnation—that is all."

Mrs. French's word usually settled it.

"Do you mean by 'physical immortality' that this body we now have will remain with us?" was asked.

"Yes, the elect will retain this body," said Mrs. French. "Reading from the Bible, we find that there are 144,000 of these on this earth. They will never die. The time is nearly here for the destruction of all the rest of the people, but the Elect will remain here and compose the City of God."

"Yes, Lillian," put in Mrs. Belden, "but each will have an affinity who will be alike in body, soul, and spirit."

"Yes, indeed," agreed Mrs. French, "and each of the 144,000 pairs will have seven servants."

"What is esoterics, which A-Diva Veed-Ya was to teach?"

"Oh, that—" began Mrs. Belden.

"Now, Frances, don't go into that; it would take too long," commanded Mrs. French, and her sister subsided.

The two sisters agreed on the Bible, saying (Revelations, 14:3,) that there would be the Elect with immortal physical bodies. Mrs. French said she wasn't quite sure she would live always, but she tended that way, and she believed she would. She said that during the day she had come to doubt that "Initiate 2-6 David" and A-Diva Veed-Ya were of the Elect.

History of Ann Dis Debar.

There doesn't seem to be much to learn about the history of Mrs. French and Mrs. Belden. But Ann O'Delia Dis Debar has been in the papers for years. When she came to New York some thirty-eight years ago she was a handsome young woman, who claimed to be Princess Editha, Countess of Landsfelt, daughter of Ludwig I., King of Bavaria, and Lola Montez. Others said she was the daughter of a Kentucky school teacher named Salomon.

After a number of escapades in her early career here she ended up in the Blackwell's Island Insane Asylum for a short term. She married Paul Noel Massant, who died soon after; then she turned up in Baltimore. She married Gen. Joseph Dis Debar, and soon afterward was giving spiritualistic seances.

It was about 1885 that she met Luther R. Marsh in this city. He was a wealthy and distinguished lawyer, who had studied law in Daniel Webster's office. He came entirely under her influence. She gave seances in his Madison Avenue house, which he gave to her, and then bought many paintings which she claimed had been made by spirits. His friends took up his case, had Ann O'Delia Dis De Barr indicted, and made her disgorge some of Mr. Marsh's property. She spent some time on Blackwell's Island in 1888.

After her release she went to Europe, returned to Chicago, where she was known as Vera P. Ava and Ida Veed-Ya, and was sent to Joliet Penitentiary for two years. When she got out she married her third husband, William J. McGowan, who had considerable money. He died soon afterward.

In 1899 she was in New Orleans with Theodore Jackson, whose wife she professed to be. They were driven out of New Orleans and turned up in Florida next. Later they were heard of in Africa doing a religious turn under the name of Helena and Horos. In London, in 1901, her husband was charged with luring girls into a new cult. He was sent to prison for fifteen years and Dis De Bar for seven years. She was turned out on parole in August, 1906, and immediately decamped. For this Scotland Yard is looking for her.

Next she descended upon Michigan at the head of a new cult called the "House of Israel," or the "Flying Rollers." Then David Mackay became her secretary. She called herself Elinor L. Mason.

She and Mackay disappeared in 1907 after her identity became suspected and neither had been heard from since up to yesterday. It was learned that they have been working quietly in New Jersey and New York.

W. M. BENNETT NEW LEADER.

Hughes Supporter Takes Harry Mack's Place in the Fifteenth.

It was announced yesterday that Harry W. Mack, up to the present Republican leader of the Fifteenth Assembly District, has resigned as an executive member from that locality on the Republican County Committee and the leadership will pass to Assemblyman William M. Bennett at Mr. Mack's suggestion. The Quigg-Douglass faction, which has been fighting Mack in the district, had declared its willingness to accept Assemblyman Bennett.

Bennett is a young lawyer who has only recently gone into politics. He has served two years in the Legislature. He was a member of the Cassidy committee which investigated the debt limit and the city finances. In the Assembly he was an ardent advocate of every measure proposed by Gov. Hughes and at the last session made a sensational attack on the Wadsworth machine and on Ray B. Smith, Clerk of the Assembly, whom he accused on the floor of exercising pernicious activity to defeat the bill providing for the State supervision of telegraph and telephone companies.

Harvey T. Andrews, Republican leader of the Thirty-first Assembly iDstrict, retired earlier in the week in favor of John J. Lyon, who had succeeded in winning over a majority of the district committee and threatened to make a fight on Andrews in the primaries.

THROWN OVER CLIFF, ACCUSES HUSBAND

Mrs. McGuire Says She Was Seized Near Mother's Home and Hurled Onto Rocks.

WOMAN SUMMONED AID

Left Her Dying Child to Call Help for Woman She Saw in Distress—McGuire Escaped.

Twenty-year-old Mrs. Mary McGuire got off a Union Hill car at Charles Street, West Hoboken, N. J., at 11 o'clock on Monday night and hastened to her mother's home, 297 Hudson Avenue, with a distinct sensation of fear. She had separated from her husband, James McGuire, a truck driver, four months ago in Manhattan.

After leaving the cloak and suit factory where she works, on Monday evening, she had dined with an aunt in Manhattan. As her husband had several times threatened to kill her if she did not return to him, she was considerably frightened on getting off the car in West Hoboken to see how dark and unguarded the streets were. And she almost fainted when a tall, thin man suddenly stepped out of the lonely shadows of St. John's Episcopal Church and caught her tightly by the throat with both his hands.

Mrs. McGuire recognized him as her husband, so she now says, as she tried to cry out, but could not, as his fingers were squeezing her throat with a vise-like grip.

Mrs. McGuire says when her husband had made sure that his grip on her throat effectively prevented her from screaming he dragged her along Hudson Avenue, which at this point runs along the cliff two hundred feet above the West Shore Railroad yards. The foot of the cliff is piled high with rusty iron rails.

McGuire, his wife says, dragged her five hundred feet along Hudson Avenue. They passed directly by her mother's house, and Mrs. McGuire said yesterday that she could even see the lamp which Mrs. Donovan had left lighted in her second floor bedroom. In this way they reached the little clump of sumach and long grass which separates the end of the avenue from the edge of the cliff.

Bracing himself against the side wall of a tenement, McGuire then threw his wife down the declivity. She fell twenty feet. There, however, her body got wedged in a pile of large granite stones. Her head struck on one of them and she was for a moment too stunned to cry out. When she recovered, her husband had her by the throat again. He struck her twice in the face with one of the rocks. It slipped from his hand, and in stooping to pick it up again, he loosed his grip on his wife's throat.

"Save me! Save me!" she was able to cry.

It so happened that while McGuire was beating his wife Mrs. William Schultz, on the first floor of the tenement bordering the cliff, was sitting up with her baby, which was dying. When Mrs. Schultz heard Mrs. McGuire cry out, although her own child was within a few minutes of death, she ran to the side window. In the light of the tenement lamps and the stars she saw McGuire bending over his wife. He was choking her again.

You let that woman go. Help! Help!" Mrs. Schultz began to shout.

Mrs. Schultz then went back to her baby. She found that even while she had left it it had died. But her voice had attracted the attention of Martin Kuschnerheit, an ice dealer, who lives in the tenement's basement, and of E. Attig, who lives on the second floor. They ran out, half dressed, to see what the matter was. When he saw them coming McGuire escaped in the bushes. They found Mrs. McGuire creeping up the rough slide of granite boulders, with her face covered with blood.

"It's my husband. He wanted my money," she told them.

They tried to persuade her to come into their homes and let their wives stanch the flow of blood from her scalp wounds. But she insisted on being carried back to her mother's home down the block. There a doctor from the North Hudson Hospital had to take nine stitches in her scalp. Her eyes were blackened and her left forefinger had been mashed by the huge granite stone her husband had used. She was still in a serious condition yesterday.

Mrs. McGuire married her husband four years ago when she was a girl of 16. He is eighteen years her senior, and after their marriage took her to a single room in Manhattan, and there, she says, told her that she had better find something to do as he did not find truck driving congenial. She found a position in the cloak factory at $15 a week. She stuck by him, she says, until four months ago, when he began to maltreat her too much.

Capt. Usher and Detective Vetter of the West Hoboken Police Station, are trying to locate McGuire.

LAUNCH J. F. CURRY'S BOOM.

District Leaders Greet Him as Next Borough President at His Picnic.

Deputy County Clerk John F. Curry's boom for the nomination for Borough President, at the November election was launched last night at his annual picnic, held at Manhattan Casino, 155th Street and Eighth Avenue. More than a dozen prominent Democratic leaders were on hand, and all greeted him as the next Borough President. In all about five thousand residents of his district, the Thirteenth, were on hand.

During the early part of the evening clubs from Curry's and adjoining districts marched into the dance hall, and all were headed by the various district leaders. Among the leaders present were John J. Murphy, Thomas F. McAvoy, Ross Williams, James J. Hagen, Senator Thomas F. McManus, County Clerk Peter J. Dooling, William Dalton, Frank Goodwin, Magistrate "Battery Dan" Finn, Percy Nagle, Thomas E. Rush, and John W. Coggey.

Six Horses Burned in Warehouse.

Fire started about 10:30 o'clock last night in the cellar of the five-story brick warehouse occupied by Percy Cole as the Metropolis Storage Warehouse. Six horses which were stabled in the cellar were suffocated to death. Owing to the fact that the building is surrounded by a thickly populated tenement district three alarms were sent in, and Chief Croker took charge. There was very little flame, but plenty of smoke, and the damage was not large. Furniture was the chief commodity affected by the fire.

Old Gorgon Graham Says:

"Looks are deceiving, but, let them deceive for and not against you."

Our clothes look best because they are styled and tailored best. Our prices are lowest because we make all the clothing we sell. Better clothes and better values than ever will soon be ready for our Fall trade.
